THE MORMON WAR.

From the St. Louis Republican, Jan. 14.

We have received late intelligence from Utah. The army went through the South Pass, on the 24th of September, and on the 25th hostilities on the part of the Mormons commenced. They fired on the picket, who were guarding the mule herd, and then attempted to stampede the mules. The movement, temporarily successful, failed, as the entire herd was recovered on the same day. No cavalry being on the ground, however, the marauders escaped.

Nothing was seen of them until the 27th, when approaching Green river, some five or six were observed, but they fled before the advance guard could reach them. On that afternoon there was a rumor that the company under Lieut. Deshler would be attacked; he had but thirty men, and had in charge some of the supply trains. The advance guard started at night to his relief, and made a forced march of twenty-two miles, to find Lieut. D. and his train safe.

The army concentrated at Ham's Fork, and on the 3d October the Mormons burned three supply trains containing some of the Commissary stores. They also succeeded in running off the oxen. On the 2d and 5th, they burned the grass, but the army succeeded in extinguishing the flames before they reached the camp.

On the 11th the party started up Ham's Fork to go to Salt Lake City, the train of mules and ox wagons stretching out some six or seven miles, consequently but moving slowly. When within a mile of the Oregon road, a party mounted on mules was sent to prospect a road over to Henry's Fork. This party fell in with about fifty Mormons coming towards the camp. Captain Marcy, who was in command of the prospecting party, approached near enough for speech with their leader before they were recognized as American troops, when they at once made off. No harm being attempted towards them, such being the instructions of Col. Alexander. A party which started later, in the same direction numbering eight men, met the same party, put them to flight, ate a comfortable breakfast the party had cooked but left in their haste to fly, and brought two mules of the routed party into camp. The Mormons being mounted on ponies they outran the mules of the soldiers.

The first severe snow storm was on the night of the 16th of October. Snow lay on the 17th, fully eight inches. It had drifted into the tents which had been pitched for a north wind, while the storm came from the south, up the valley of the creek.

Col. Johnston took command of the army on the 3d of November; a day or two after which Sibley tents were issued, to the great comfort of the men, who by dint of care are enabled to keep warm, although the thermometer has for some ten days of December been at 20deg. below zero. On the 6th, Col Johnston started for Salt Lake City, the train stretching out fifteen miles. On the 5th, three hundred head of cattle were run off by the Mormons who also took a number of mules belonging to Government. The death of between two and three thousand oxen, and the majority of the horses, rendered movements slow, and it was not until the 17th that a distance of thirty miles was made. Salt is short, and vegetables are wanting, while the oxen are being butchered as fast as convenience will allow. On the 27th, a hundred bushels of vegetables were brought into camp, and turned over to the hospital department.

On the 19th November, Col. Cooke caught up with the main army, with six companies of the 2d dragoons. He had lost nearly all his horses, and those that were left him were unfit for service. Gov. Cumming and his wife came up with him, as did also the mail. Mrs. C., had her foot frozen while crossing the mountains, and still suffers considerable from it, but is otherwise well. There are three other ladies in camp, being Mrs. Col. Canby, Mrs. Tyler and Mrs. Burns.—They are all as comfortable as circumstances will allow.

Col. Cooke left the main body on the 26th for Henry's Fork for grazing for his horses. Capt. Marcy left on the 27th November to procure salt, horses, mules and cattle.

Mr. Hartnett, of St. Louis, is well, as all the party are reported to be. The Doctors not being paid by the number of patients under treatment, have pretty easy times.
