Nutting Accident.

Willie Sheehan, Martin and Willie Cunningham, three boys aged respectfully 13, 12 and 10 years, were out after beech nuts last Sunday afternoon in the woods back of Michael Sheehan's out lot on South street. The two Willies cut down a beech with their little hatchet while Martin, who was in the tree, was to jump in time to save himself from injury. He failed to make good his calculations, and, instead of jumping he fell with full force on a small birch stump, about three inches in diameter, which resulted in three broken ribs and three badly scared boys. It appears that Willie Sheehan carried water in his new hat to throw in the face of the injured boy, from which fact it would seem that the fall made him unconscious. Be that as it is, however, the injured lad in three broken ribs and three badly that as it is, however, the injured lad two boys. Dr. Bordwell was called Ax handles, each and did all he could for the comfort of the victim of misplaced confidence. The boy has suffered a great deal, and if he lives it will be a wonder. All of which is to warn boys not to go nutting on Sunday, and if they do to stay out of trees while being cut down. Vote for Ames.

nary use, such as that of the professional man, the merchant, and men of similar occupations, a slow train watch may serve the purpose. But, in any use, such a movement is a fickle and uncertain time-piece, especially on a railway where a slow-train watch, subjected to extraordinary trials by the violent oscillations of the train, fails to satisfy the requirements, its constant tendency, almost impossible to overcon.e, being to lose time. then, is a most trying test of a timepiece, on a rapidly moving locomotive, in the hands of an engineer, who, re-lying on his faithful watch, carries the lives of hundreds in his hands, Rockford movements have won deserved laurels. True other American Watch Companies make quick-train movements, but such movements are made by them with scarcely any exceptions, in ex-pensive grades only, while the cheaper ones are constructed with the "slow-train." The brakemen and baggage men, receiving far less wages than engineers and conductors, can not afford to purchass these expensive quicktrain movements. To meet their wants, commensurate with their means, the Rockford Watch Company offers them its cheap movements, with the quick-train. In general, it may said that, in any occupation, a slow-train watch has, at best, a mere chance to do well, while a quick-train movement is sure to give satisfactory results. CHAS.
