One Week Later from Europe

Arrival of the Cambria.

Refusal of the Portuguese Government to Pay the American Indemnity—American Minister has demanded his Passports—Reception of the news of General Taylor's death in England Decline in Cotton—Advance in Breadstuffs, &c., &c., &c.

Halifax, Aug. 6—3 P. M.

The steamship Cambria, with Liverpool dates to the 27th ult., arrived here at half-past 1 o'clock this afternoon.

The Niagara arrived at Liverpool, on Saturday night, 20th ult., at 12 o'clock.

The American steamship Pacific was advertised to sail on Wednesday, 31st ult., at two o'clock, P. M.

England.

The news of the death of President Taylor, produced a great sensation in England. The leading journals devote much space to a review of his character and exploits, in which they pay a just tribute to his worth and fame.

A large meeting of American citizens in London, assembled on Thursday, at which the American Minister presided, and passed a series of highly patriotic resolutions, expressive of their sense of the great loss their country has sustained in the death of the President, and—of their sympathy with his family.

The politicdl news from England possesses no feature of striking interest.

In Parliament, the Ministry have sustained two more striking defeats upon their own measures, and in addition have seen the necessity of abandoning the Jewish Emancipation bill and the new marriage act.

The potato blight is to have re-ap both in England and Ireland. It is said to be in a mitigated form. Its effect is beginning to be felt in the corn markets of the kingdom, notwithstanding the cereal crops generally present an abundat harvest.

Portugal.

The Portuguese Government having declined to accede to the demands of the American Minister, he has demanded his passports, and advertised his household furniture for sale.

The American squadron was still in the Tagus.

Mr. Clay intended to leave Lisbon on the 19th ult.

Denmark and the Duchies.

Actual hostilities have commenced between Denmark and the Duchies, the latter having been declared in a state of blockade by the former, and an action took place between a Danish man-of-war and the German steamer Bonne on the 21st, in which the former suffered considerable injury, and was forced to retire.

On the land the hostile armies were, at last dates, face to face; and as the King of Denmark intends severe coercion, backed by the active support of Russia and Prussia, and the pas ve support of the other great powers, including England, there remains no doubt but that a severe conflict will ensue.

France.

The Assembly were engaged on Saturday, in discussing the budget on the public instruction bill, thirteen chapters were disposed of, but nothing of moment arose during the debate.

On Monday the law of the press was officially published. It is said that the President will use the powers it confers on him with the utmost rigor. In short, that he hates the press, and would exterminate it if he could. The greatest annoyance to the press is the clause which compels all writers to sign their own articles; but it is thought that this clause will be evaded by making the responsible editor sign all that appears in the paper.

The election of the committee of 25 of Prerogative and Surveillance, during the prorogation of the Assembly, was proceeded with on Tuesday.

In the Assembly, on Monday, the President proclaimed the result of the ballot for the Committee of Surveillance during prorogation. Only fifteen names had received the required majority. Amongst others appeared those of Odillon Barrot, Gen. Changarnier, Berryer, and Gen. Lomorciere.

Within the last 2 days, 710,903 francs have been deposited in the Paris Savings Banks.

It is said that the whole of the municipal council of Marseilles had resigned, in consequence of the order given by the Government that all vessels arriving in that port, shall not be compelled to perform quarantine.

The ten other members of the Council of Prerogative and Surveillance were proclaimed on Tuesday. Upon the whole, the committee are considered unfavorable to the views of the President.

General d'Hautpoul has acknowledged that he committed an error, as regards the law of discipline, in his differences with Gen. Chrongarnier, and the two Generals came to a reconciliation in order to relieve the President from embarrassment.

The French fleet has left Naples for Cherbourg there to be reviewed by the President of the Republic.

Two frigates suddenly left Toulon, yesterday, for Tunis.

Reports have been received here from Morocco, stating that in consequence of the continued drought, the greater part of the crops had been destroyed, and that a famine was apprehended.

Count Pise, one of the most distinguished officers of the Republic, died on Saturday.

In several of the departments, the people live in continued dread of incendiaries.

A destructive waterspout fell in the vicinity of Orleans on the 16th.

A letter from Marseilles states that the American corvette had anchored in the Bay on Thursday, having on board the Turkish Ambassador, accredited by the Sublime Porte, to the Government at Washington.

England and Ireland.

The potato disease has appeared in many parts of the kingdom, whilst from Cork, Tiperary, and Galway, reports speak cheeringly of the coming harvest.

The political news from Ireland is devoid of interest. It is said that her Majesty intends paying that country another visit, during the month of August.

At a meeting of the friends of Baron Rothschild, held at London on Thursday, it was resolved that he should present himself at the bar of the House as member for London. The Baron according to previous arrangements, entered the House on Friday at noon, presented himself at the bar, placed his credentials upon the table, and demanded to be sworn on the Old Testament.

A very stormy debate ensued, in which the pusillanimous conduct of the government was severely censured by even its usual supporters. Resolutions and amendments were proposed and rejected. Finally the debate was adjourned till Monday, when almost all politicians anticipate that a resolution, confirming the principle of the bill will be passed. If so, it is thought that the Whigs cannot hold office another hour after.

Denmark and the Duchies.

The war has now commenced in earnest. On the 25th, the two armies met, and after some skirmishing, a regular engagement ensued, in which the Danes were victorious. The battle began at dawn of day, and lasted eleven hours. The Danes attacked with about 25,000 men, and the insurrectionists' army was about 30,000 strong. The centre of the Schleswig Holsteiners, under Gen. Willisen, occupied the village of Idstedt, a little distance north of the town of Schleswig. The Danes attacked both wings of their enemies, and after a combat, which continued for eight hours, brought all their disposable strength against the centre of Willisen's troops, and at length forced him to return through Schleswig towards Rendsburg. But the defeat was most signal, and the result must be mighty important for the Danes.

By dates from Hamburg, of the 27th, we learn that the killed and wounded and missing in the battle of Idstedt, are now stated at 7000, of whom the greater share has fallen on the Danes. The number in action are estimated at 40,000 Danes and 30,000 Holsteiners.

The "Borsenhalle" states, that Gen. Von Willisen refused to accept the Danish General's offer of three days' truce.

On the 26th, the Danes had advanced to within a few miles of the Eider near Cropos. Of the sixteen guns at Ekenford, the Holsteiners carried off two, and spiked and abandoned the others.

San Juan Fernandez.

A California emigrant in a letter to the Belfast Signal, writes as follows with regard to the present condition of this Island:

At sunrise the 11th of March we made the Island of Juan Fernandez, celebrated as the residence of Alexander Selkirk, and as the Botany Bay of Chili. It affords a very indifferent harbor and has only twelve inhabitants, five men and seven women, all Chilians, with the exception of one man who said he was Governor of the Island, that his name was Worth and that he was a native of Main. He had lived on the Island three years. There are five houses or huts on the Island, made of poles interwoven with straw, affording protection from the weather.—Peaches are large and abundant and compose the principal food of the inhabitants. The valley in which Selkirk lived is pointed out and also the caves in the sides of the mountains formerly occupied by the Chilian convicts. The Island is extremely mountainous. Wild horses and goats abound. It is resorted to by the vessels for wood and water. At sundown we sailed for California.
