A Free but not Republican State.

From the New York Express.

Republican cotemporaries are rejoicing in view of a great triumph to their party in the election in Kansas. This is a great and many very innocent persons labor great error in regard to the division and parties in that far off political El Dorado. There are really three distinct organized parties—the Pro-slavery Party, which proclaims the Democratic, but which is so extreme upon slavery, as to make everything else subsidiary to it. The Free State Party is composed chiefly of Democrats from the West, is opposed to slavery in Kansas, and at open war with their Democratic brethren of the ultra Pro-slavery school. There are Republicans, or, as they are called, Black Republicans, who have been true and faithful to the Topeka movement, and who have been led by Governor Robinson, Lane, and their pseudo Governor Robinson.

Walker went to the Territory, and the parties were warring against each other, keeping up a perpetual feud. The Free State Democrats refused to unite with or recognize the Pro-slavery Democrats as orthodox. The Free State Democrats declined fellowship with Republicans, and wholly refused to recognize the reign of Republicanism under Lane, Robinson & Co., but claimed to be the Free State Democrats. The Pro-Slavery Party faith almost equal bitterness against the opposing elements. Gov. Walker believes that this love or hatred of Democracy, but the bona fide citizens of Kansas had the right to settle their domestic affairs just as they pleased. And if a majority of the people were opposed to slavery in saying so, by their vote upon the question, and thus transform them into Abolitionists, when the nominations were before the people for various officers, the Free State Party selected candidates sound on the slavery question, and bent upon making Kansas a Free State. The Republicans met in convention and resolved to abandon the foolish policy of their party, contrary to the advice of the Black Republicans (Lane's friends) and to unite with the Free State Democrats against their common foe, the Pro-Slavery Party.

Lane and in both branches of the Legislature the Free State Democrats, who are as much opposed to Black Republicans, as they are to Pro-slavery men. Yet, they are all denounced as Walker, and anti-Administration men. Point to there as models of Republicanism, counting them as part and parcel of the party. This they will find a great mistake, as they will find in voting in the Legislature for many men very properly put down as Walker men, who are Democrats, and, as a consequence, ardent supporters of Gov. Walker's policy. Nor can the Republican party claim for the success of the Free State party in Kansas. It has proved successful, for it has simply stole the policy of Governor Walker, and has secured the triumph of the principles and the rights of the majority in the teeth of the most bitter opposition. Even Mr. Stanton, elected to Congress, is a Democrat born in South Carolina, a strong advocate of the Compromise Measures of 1850, and a leader in the Ohio Legislature to put Mr. Chase, a Democrat, in the U. S. Senate. He refused to endorse or sustain the Topeka movement, and advised its abandonment in his campaign.

From the above facts, from a gentleman who was in Kansas, who mingled much in the contest, and upon whom we can rely, we state the case.

Beyond the above position of parties to the contest, we believe that Bleeding Kansas has no Black Republicans, or who claim that the Republican party in that region deserve any credit for popular sovereignty, after their persistent opposition to the conservative policy of Gov. Walker, and their continued resistance fully for Free State men to vote under the "bogus laws" and Border Ruffian Laws.

The Baltic—Details of the Foreign News.—Specie in Europe—$360,000 of Gold $2,000, Silver coming.

The mail steamship Baltic, Capt. Comstock, left Liverpool, at about 4 o'clock on the afternoon of the 11th of October, arrived at New York this afternoon, with the mail and passengers and $360,000 in specie.

The effect of the revulsion here, though still of a fearful extent of the calamity, was received in Europe with much alarm. The latest news had been received in London from New York, the departure of the Persia, was the 5th September, up to which time there had been only the bank failures in Philadelphia, Boston and Providence.

The fears of the decline in rates of exchange and excited a fear that a heavy drain of specie from London would result, and the London papers assured, on good authority, that a large shipment of sovereigns is already actually on its shipment to the United States by an early opportunity.

The Herald says:

Steps that were being taken throughout the capitals of Europe indicate the common fear there of a panic as violent, if not more so, than ours. The Bank of England had raised the rate of discount to seven per cent., and it is publicly stated that fears were entertained of a further advance of one per cent—that of France, that had just been expunged, suddenly raised its rate from 5½ to 6½ per cent, and in Hamburg the rate of interest was raised to eight per cent. The London Chronicle says that while the Bank of England had but a little more than four millions of pounds of notes to issue, the demands for discounts could not be met in one day to one million of pounds. Paris and Lyons the failures among the silk trade had begun; and in Glasgow a number of houses engaged in the American trade had been suspended, their liabilities amounting to one and a half sterling. In Manchester there had been twenty failures are announced. The panic caused by the first flush of the news we should draw specie to this side, the funds fell a little over three and a half per cent, touching 86¼, being one per cent, below the lowest point they had reached this year. In Paris and Vienna our letters show a similar state of affairs, and the existence of a speculation in railway shares and public stocks.

Among the failures we note that of Ross, Wedderburn & Co., of London, Eng., and Toronto, Canada. The heavy Glasgow concerns are down. There were two failures in London, sixteen to twenty in the silk trade at Manchester and Macclesfield, ten to twelve in Paris, one in Lyons, and two in Vienna. It is also stated that respecting commercial losses, very heavy losses have fallen on Lyons and Havre. A Liverpool paper states that scarcely a day elapsed without a bankrupt speculator did not commit suicide in that city.

Some of the London journals affected to believe that the financial difficulties would be of but a short duration. They had not, however, received the news of the suspension of the New York Banks of the many commercial failures that occurred in the United States during the last month.

The flow of specie to America had commenced. The Baltic brought $363,000, and $2,000,000 were on the way in the Persia and Canada. The London consols had declined two and a half to three per cent, and railway and other shares participated in the downward movement.

Quite a number of commercial failures had been announced.

The American produce markets had not been affected by the stringency in the money market. Cotton was firm, with a tendency to advance, but breadstuffs had not materially changed in price or demand. Sugar had declined a little.

The news from India is more cheering. The mutineers at Agra 25th and Delhi 30th of August, Lucknow 2d, Calcutta 10th, Madras 15th and Bombay 17th of September. Delhi was still in the hands of the insurgents; but another fortnight had passed, and the mutineers had not been able to make any serious attack on the British force opposed to them. On the contrary, they had sustained several signal defeats, having been beaten by General Eyer, Nicholson, Outram and Havelock in succession. General Havelock had obtained his ninth victory over the rebels near Bithoor, and at last accounts was waiting at Cawnpore for reinforcements in order to march to the relief of Lucknow. The European garrison at that place still held out bravely. A siege train was daily expected at Delhi, and immediately after its being placed in position an attempt would be made to take the place by assault. Strong reinforcements to the British had arrived at Allahabad. Some additional insurrectionary movements had been made by native regiments in the Bombay Presidency, but they were quickly suppressed. The Oude insurgents were in large numbers, very united and exceedingly troublesome. In Agra the English garrison was safe, and had acted on the offensive. The Madras Presidency was perfectly quiet, and the Punjaub, Bundecund, Hyderabad and Central India were said to be free from any trouble or disorder.

A dispatch to The London Post says:

"The British forces, taking the offensive, attacked the batteries at Lucknow Castle, capturing and spiking the guns, and inflicting heavy loss on the enemy. The rebels are dispirited; cholera has broken out fiercely among them, and dissension and daily desertions from the city were taking place, Hindoos and Mahomedans were quarreling everywhere. The 70th Native Infantry at Barrackpore had volunteered for China."

The examinations will commence at precisely 9 o'clock A. M., of the above named days, and all candidates for certificates should be present at that hour. The method of examination will be by writing in all branches except reading and mental Arithmetic. It will be seen by referring to the September No. of the School Journal, that a new edition of Teachers' Certificates has been issued by the School Department. These certificates differ materially in form and style from the old, and hence for the sake of uniformity it will be necessary for teachers to obtain new licenses before entering schools for the winter term. The most convenient time and place for doing this, will be at the public examinations. All certificates heretofore granted, both permanent and provisional, will therefore be considered void after the 19th of November next.
