ATTENTION, REPUBLICANS!

At a special meeting of the Union League of Wellsboro, October 17, it was resolved:

"That we will present an American Flag, 18x8 feet, made of the best flannel, to the Republicans of that election district in Tioga county which shall give the largest percentage of gain for Grant & Colfax, over its vote for Auditor General at the late election."

J. B. POTTER, Sec. HUGH YOUNG, Pres't.

APPLES.—We are obliged to Mr. Robert Karr, of Delmar, for a half bushel of superb Douse apples. Larger, handsomer apples do not often come to this market.

TO PATRONS.—Much of our usual reading matter is crowded out by the demands of the Campaign upon the space at our command. We cannot promise better until after November Election.

PERSONAL.—Messrs. Herbert T. Ames and Walter Ames, of Sullivan, returned to Ann Arbor University to resume their studies, on the 14th inst. These young men did yeoman's service in the campaign, and have the thanks of the Canvassing Committee.

DRAWING AND PAINTING.—Mr. C. O. Thompson has a class of nineteen advanced pupils, and another of twenty-one in elementary Drawing and coloring. All letters and papers intended for him should be addressed to Mansfield. Also, all orders for work in India Ink and water-colors.

EGGS.—Mr. G. W. Foster, of Niles Valley, has left with us half a dozen hen's eggs averaging 7 inches in circumference in one direction and 6 the other. These eggs are of the average size produced by a breed of fowls which he has introduced, good layers, and which never sit. A good breed of fowls, certainly.

CORN HUSKER.—Mr. C. A. Hathaway has on exhibition and sale in this and other towns in the county, an ingenious Corn Husking Machine. It is simple, always effective, and cheap. The operator sits down by a stack and husks from the stalk about as fast as a hen picks up corn. Such a machine ought to pay for itself in husking the growth of two acres, and we presume it will.

THE NIGHT BEFORE THE BATTLE.—The meeting at the Court House the night before the election was the most satisfactory meeting of the season. The house was densely crowded, and brief speeches were had from the Canvassers. The best speech of the evening was that of Mr. Henry Palphramand, of Charleston, who gave many good reasons for the faith within him. The enthusiasm was very great.

EQUAL RIGHTS.—In the hurry of the week preceding the election we neglected to notice Miss. Maud Molson's lecture upon the subject of Equal Rights, delivered in the Court House, Friday evening, Oct. 9. The house was crowded and the audience attentive. The lecturer made a favorable impression upon everybody, and her lecture, both in matter and delivery, was considerably above the average of the speeches made by Democratic Congressmen. We judge this Miss Molson has ability equal to that of Mackey, Pillsbury, Ogden and Doig, combined, and far superior in grade. Yet Miss Molson is an octoroon. We should like to hear her discuss the questions of the day with the whitest Democrat in America.

TRICKS OF TRADE.—We received, but not until our paper of Oct. 7 was in process of printing, a letter from Mr. Wm. Hyde, President of the First Total Abstinence Society of Blossburg, containing correspondence between Mr. Armstrong and himself, touching funds to organize a Brass Band for the Society. Mr. Armstrong's note expresses sympathy with the objects of the Society, and encloses $10 in aid of the fund. This was right. A postscript added by Mr. Hyde, of whose politics we know nothing, and who probably had no political object to serve, states that Mr. Mackey gave $20 to the fund.

To this we have to say: Mr. Mackey's money was extensively used in this county by unscrupulous agents; and we presume that not less than $100 of it was used by his agents to debauch men with whiskey. Mr. Armstrong furnished no funds either to buy whisky or influence. Mr. Mackey is welcome to his hypocritical record. The people will continue to remember him.

THE JUBILATION.—The Republicans of Wellsboro and vicinity duly celebrated the victories in Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana, Nebraska, and in this Congressional District last Friday evening. The affair was spontaneous, and not very systematic, but proved a success. The Tanners, Capt. Carvey, with squads of volunteers from Delmar and Charleston, paraded with torches at dark, and after passing through the business portion of the village, repaired to Stewart House. In ten minutes the house was densely packed, and hundreds remained outside to try to gain admittance. An organization was effected by the election of W. H. Smith, Esq., Chairman, J. R. Bowen and Hugh Young, Vice Presidents, and Maj. Merrick Secretary. The [illegible] that the size of the crowd out-[illegible] accommodation to the steps on the [illegible]. The crowd filed down stairs into the [illegible] yard, the Tanners forming in [illegible] with lighted torches on three sides [illegible]. After music by the Band, the [illegible] addressed the people briefly and appropriately, and was followed by Judges Williams, Williams, Nichols, Niles, Packer, Mitchell, Strang, and others in brief remarks which were well received by the vast crowd. Dr. Webb sang patriotic songs and the band played stirring pieces. After three cheers for the victories in each of the States voting last week [illegible], and three cheers for our gallant leaders, the Tanners were formed in a circle on Main-st., and furnished with Roman Candles. At the [illegible] the air was blazing with red, white and blue fires, forming a magnificent spectacle.

The Tanners then resumed their march, preceded by the Band, and passed through the entire [illegible] of Main-st., cheering the flag at the intersection of Main and the Avenue most lustily, and halting as they passed the houses of several prominent citizens. At ten o'clock the company marched to Goldsmith's Hotel where a bountiful Oyster Supper was prepared and waiting. The feast was immense, and we hope that Charlie got what was intended in his behalf,—a regular treat!!

Nearly the entire business portion of the village was illuminated, from Roys Block to Goldsmith's Hotel. Some of the business places, being the tenantships of differing political faith, were oddly enough illuminated by halves. P. R. Williams, & Co's Drug store, Wilson & Van Valkenburg's, and Webb & Hastings Drug store, were dim lighted. The darkness very properly represented Democracy—as usual. We noticed a solitary window in Holiday's Hotel lighted so that was Drug-Store Joe's room. Good for Joe! Of the private dwellings illuminated and decorated we noticed Dr. Shearer's, Judge Williams', J. L. Robinson's, and Sheriff Potter's. Judge Williams's and Mr. Robinson's windows were draped with red, white and blue curtains, beautifully festooned and adorned with flags. Dr. Shearer's front door was a splendid tableau of flags, and colors. The Sheriff's house was splendidly lighted; but the grandest illumination was that of Goldsmith's Hotel, which was a perfect blaze of light. A splendid bonfire was kindled on the Square, sending up clouds of sparks above the tree-tops. We saw no excess, hear of no accidents, and feel proud of the demonstration, so enthusiastic and so orderly.

The great feature of the portable display was a banner 8x12 feet, with a gigantic rooster crowing for Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana, Nebraska, Maine, and Vermont; underneath which was the legend: "How are you melons?" A blue pamphlet was also represented with "Compliments of A. C. Bush." A melon was shown, cut in twain, and labeled "Mackey." This banner was made and sent to Mr. H. C. Bailey, by Messrs. Cady & Meade, ornamental painters, Tioga. Their laconic message was: "Let the cock crow! "This banner was admirable, and made lots of fun as it was borne along the streets. The Boys in Blue owe Messrs. Cady & Meade not only one, but "several." What shall it be?

HUGH YOUNG, Secretary.

INCIDENTS OF THE ELECTION.—We never remember to have attended an election in Wellsboro when there were so many fights as on yesterday week. The crowd was very large, and early in the day we noticed a young man spoiling for a fuss with a gray-headed old man. This young man came to town, as is generally believed, to have some sort of a field day; and we understand that he got "enough" before he went home. That is where the trouble commenced. At about ten o'clock he fleshed his maiden sword in an altercation with another Delmar elector, though no blood was spilt. Right here, in our judgment was the opportunity to have secured the peace for all day by arresting both parties and lodging them in jail for half a day. But Sheriff Potter, out of a desire to get along without further interference with the freedom of electors, and in accordance with counsel freely proffered but which, in our judgment he should have rejected, restored the peace, and let the parties go. It is a noticeable fact that while the sheriff held the assaulted party in custody, (and the assaulted party was a Republican) a democratic voter tried to interfere against him. In the afternoon a ring fight was arranged for between some of the parties to the morning fracas, and the "mill" came off according to programme in Holiday's barn and barn yard. This, we suppose, was a good-natured "mill," as the parties to it parted in good humor (?). But the example was contagious, and several "side mills" arose, in which some heavy hitting was done and much bad blood developed. The principal cause of the final series of fights was an old grudge between two families. Plentiful potations of whisky had stirred up the slumbering hatred in the bosoms of one or more of the contestants. One threatened the life of the other, and the threatened man struck out from the shoulder and struck the threatener down. Sheriff Potter was on the ground as soon as notified, and made every effort to restore the peace. He called upon all good citizens to assist in maintaining order, and in this was seconded by Constable Van Horn and others. But the spirit of party here intervened. Two or three friends of the aggressor in this case were assisting the Sheriff to get the excited man out of the crowd. A few of the more violent and indiscreet of the Democracy regarded this as an attack upon a Democrat, interfered with the Sheriff and his posse, and by their cowardly and furious appeals endeavored to convert the muss into a murderous riot. One young man, capable of better things we hope, boasted of carrying a revolver, and threatened to shoot anybody who should touch him. The attempt to convert the rumpus into a political fight was made by men who form the substratum of the Democratic party,—men who are good at kindling fires and running away by the light thereof. The simple truth is that Sherriff Potter worked nobly and disinterestedly to separate these parties, and several times called upon the bystanders to assist in arresting them. He did, alone, arrest the more powerful man, which Constable Van Horn arrested the other. This ended the fight; and it would have ended long before but for the efforts of a few blind Copperheads to convert an attempt to separate the parties into an attack upon a Democrat.

We have tried to be just to all; and when it is attempted to fasten upon Sheriff Potter the not which savors of partisanship in the discharge of his duty we shall pronounce it false from beginning to end.

We were surprised at the manifestations of passion by men who ought to have counseled moderation on that day; and at none more than at the declaration of Mr. Sherwood, who, as we are credibly informed by several, said, alluding to the morning fracas, that the Democrat ought to have killed the Republican on the spot. The altercation arose from the use of political epithets. We assure all concerned that men who counsel killing for words spoken in the heat of political strife, invite the fate they prepare for others. This is the logical result of such teaching, exemplified in all history. The words were doubtless spoken in anger; but men recognized as leaders ought not to indulge in such declarations. The assault upon the Republican headquarters a few hours later, resulting in breakage of glass and making good natured men angry, though not the act of the Democracy as a party, nor desired by Mr. Sherwood, still, came from the same spirit of violence and ungoverned passion which we advert to. The young man who armed himself with a revolver in the morning, and gave new evidence of his instinctive folly every hour of the day, may rest assured that none but cowards and desperadoes carry concealed weapons, as a rule. We looked for no violence on election day; and but for the turbulence of a few men who took good care to keep out of harm's way, there would have been little to complain of.

There was more or less violence in several election districts. At the November election an efficient police will be provided, and we trust all men will refrain from violent words as well as from violent actions.

LEONARD.—In Lawrenceville, Sept. 12, 1868, Ariel S., only child of C. P. and Nellie Leonard, aged 1 year and 4 months.

Only a little child
To heaven has gone;
Only flowers wild
Its pathway shall throng.

Only a little child
Jesus has taken.
Only angels smiled,
'Tis not forgaken.

Only angels wings
Shall bear her home.
Only her little body
We lay in the tomb.

Only an angel sweet
Now praising Jesus,
Only her angel feet
Shall upward lead us.

Only lead us above,
Where all are blessed.
Only lead us to love
Him, who knows best.
