Burning of the Treasury.—It appears that Judge Temple, of Vermont, who sometime since shot himself, on being detected in forgeries of revolutionary claims to a large amount, employed three persons to set fire to the Treasury building in hopes that the evidences of his guilt might be destroyed. One of those persons voluntarily communicated the facts and the names of his accomplices, by which means they have been arrested. The Metropolitan very justly remarks that there is a degree of reckless criminality in this affair unparalleled in the annals of bold and daring infamy.—Phil. Com. Herald.

Col. Crockett.—Prentice, the editor of the Louisville Journal, says:—

A gentleman from Nacogdoches, in Texas, informs us that, whilst there, he dined in public with Col. Crockett, who had just arrived from Tennessee. The old bear hunter, on being toasted, made a speech to the Texians, replete with his usual dry humor. He began nearly in this style: "I am told, gentlemen, that when a stranger like myself, arrives among you, the first inquiry is—what brought him here? To satisfy your curiosity at once as to myself, I will tell you all about it. I was for some years a member of Congress. In my last canvass, I told the people of my District, that if they saw fit to re-elect me, I would serve them as faithfully as I had done; but if not, they might go to h—l and I would go to Texas. I was beaten, gentlemen, and here I am." The roar of applause was like a thunder-burst.

Portable Grate.—A new Grate for burning coal has been patented by James Bennett, Esq. a lawyer of New York, which promises to be a valuable improvement. The advantages of this grate, as detailed in the New York Star, are the following:

First—It does away with all mason work in setting up Grates; and is much more durable and complete than the Grate in common use. Families who use it, will not, of course, be troubled with the dirt of bricks or mortar about their carpets of rooms, which is certainly a very great recommendation to it.

Secondly—The Grate can be completely set in the fire place or removed from it, by two persons in ten minutes; can be transferred from one fire place to another with perfect convenience, can be constructed to suit any fire place, large or small, and is suited to any kind of coal.

Thirdly—When anthracite coal is used, a boiler can be fixed either at the back of, or over the fire, so as to produce abundance of steam to warm and moisten the air of the room, which completely counteracts the drying and injurious effects of the hard coal, besides giving a constant supply of hot water without additional expense.

Fourthly—When a large quantity of steam is not desired, its production is counteracted by passing a current of cold air through the boiler, which condenses part of the steam, while, at the same time, the warm air passes with a small quantity of steam into the apartment, and as the grate is no fixture it can be carried off when the family moves.

A great steamboat, the Randolph, was burnt to the water's edge, (with a valuable cargo,) near Nashville. She had 350 tons of goods on board, among them 23 packages from the Hermitage, the property of the president of the United States, and large supplies from the eastern cities, for the merchants of Nashville. The total loss is supposed to have exceeded 200,000 dollars. Two or three lives were lost, in consequence of the accident.

Texas and Arkansas.—"It is rumored, (says the Georgetown Metropolitan,) that a portion of the Territory of Arkansas has declared itself independent of the United States, and claims to be a portion of Texas. Delegates it is said, have been sent to the Texian Convention from the District." If any portion of our happy country prefer foreign connection or rule, let it go.—Balt. Pat.

The debate on the farce of "expunging" has already cost the people $500,000. What a comfortable sum to distribute to the suffering poor, and how much better and more honorably applied.

We learn, says the Washington Globe, that the receipts from public lands, since the 1st of September last, amount to nearly $10,000,000, and that there are outstanding transfer warrants for about $7,000,000.

Gov. TAZEWELL, of Virginia, has resigned his office. This is said to be the first instance of the resignation of a governor of that state since the Revolution.
