January Court Proceedings.

On account of weather conditions rendering the roads impassible the first term of Court in 1918, was delayed until 3 o'clock Wednesday afternoon when President Judge Donald P. McPherson and his associates William Mellott and Geo. B. Mock, on the bench, proceeded to hear the applications for liquor license

The first case taken up was that of Wilbur K. Shaffner, for a license at Burnt Cabins. There being a general remonstrance, the question rested alone on the necessity. The reputation of the applicant, as a hotel man, being beyond question, many of the good citizens were called and testified that a hotel was needed badly for the accommodation of the public.

On Thursday morning the applications of Chas. F. Ehalt and Jefferson Harris both in McConnellsburg were taken up. Much testimony was taken in the matter of both applications, there being large general remonstrances filed as well as charges of violations of the law by the applicants. The taking of testimony consumed all of Thursday's sessions, and the Court after an hour's consulation refused the application of W. K. Shaffner, as well as the application of Jefferson Harris, and held the application of Chas. F. Ehalt under advisement.
