The golden Eagle, shot by Orlando Hassinger in June, has been stuffed and preserved by E. Bower of Franklin, and is now perched above our table in the Post printing office. The life-like appearance of the bird attests the skill of Mr. Bower, as a taxidermist, and to him we are indebted for the careful work—enabling us to preserve this rare and beautiful specimen of American birds.

At the recent trial at Lewistown by the Huntingdon Presbytery of Rev. White for heresy, the charges were sustained and a resolution was unanimously adopted that the Presbytery having found after a full trial that the views held and taught by Rev. White are contrary to the standards of the Presbyterian church, at his own request he be permitted to withdraw from the Presbyterian church. The following from an exchange is certainly a hint to the wise: "Two drinks of whisky means a pound and a half of beef steak; two beers, a dinner of mutton chops; one cocktail, an egg plant or head of cauli-flower. "What'll you take, Charley," stands for a nice oyster stew for the whole family on Sunday morning. "Set 'em up again," means sugar for a month. This is a bit of practical domestic economy, furnished by a workingman for the consideration of his fellows.

The report of a squirrel-hunter's gun was heard in the vicinity south of Middleburgh on Sunday last. If the individual has no fear of the Lord or respect for the law or himself, we would suggest his punishment, and if there are no officials to take charge of him, we will take pleasure to publish his name in the POST and thus punish him with that sharpest of implements—public contempt. Look out! you'll get h——allelujah.

In our columns will be found a notice of a Luther Memorial Jubilee, to be held at Adamsburg this county on the 25th inst. This being the 400th year of the birth of Luther the great reformer. All Lutherans should avail themselves of this privilege of hearing some of their prominent speakers and acquiring a knowledge of the history and doctrine of the church with which they [illegible] that. The verdant trainers of the young idea were tested on Friday last, as to the extent of their wise (or otherwise) proclivities, and, judging from some of the answers given to certain questions in the course of the examination we would be disposed to believe that the large majority was on the side of "otherwise," as witness one question in history and its answer: Q.—"Who was Washington's opponent the first time of his election as President?" A.—"Horace Greeley!" Now as this part of even the commonest school boy's stock in trade, as far as knowledge of history is concerned, to know that Washington had no opponent, we are constrained to exclaim in unison with the intelligent pedagogue, "'Tis an age of progress and you cannot keep it still."—Lewistown Democrat & Sentinel.

We know the farmers often say they have no time to read. This is not always true. Indeed, it is true when they do not want to read. No working man has more leisure time than the farmer. There is not one day in ten, even in the busiest season, that he could not find one hour to devote to study, and during at least one third of the year he can spare at least two hours every day, and often twice as many. Farmers' boys have abundant time for reading and study. This will seem mild language to some of our readers, but we know what we are writing about. We know all about farm life, and we know that any smart ambitious boy on a farm can find as much time for study as he needs, if he only tries. And we know that every farmer can find on an average more than one hour a day to devote to acquiring knowledge.—Ed.

Post Master Hassinger is now prepared to issue the new notes, the law for the issue of which went into operation on the 3d of this month. The notes are in the form of a bank note, with a vacant place for the name of the post office to which it is sent, and a place for the amount. Punches are furnished for the purpose of punching out the figures of the amount sent. There are columns for dollars, dimes and cents, in amounts ranging from one cent to $4.99. The receiver must sign his name, but no identification is required, and any one can collect it if it should happen to fall into their hands. The post office officials think that there is not much danger, as the amounts will be so small. Each note costs 3 cents, and their convenience to people who have to send small amounts by mail will be of course very great. They are good three months after the last day of the month in which issued. They are legal tender but are only payable at the office issued or the office drawn upon.

From yesterday's Mifflinburg Telegraph:

On Thursday morning of last week Mr. Henry Cook of New Berlin, uncle of Dr. Steans of this place, made a narrow escape from death. He was on his way to Northumberland by conveyance and when in the vicinity of Winfield his vehicle was struck by engine 219 of a gravel train on the Reading Road, demolishing the wagon and throwing him some distance, by which he was considerably bruised and cut. The above physician and nephew was over to see him and reports that he will recover. It is stated that the whistle and bell were used vigorously by the engineer, but, unfortunately, Mr. Cook failed to hear either.

"I have used Parker's Hair Balsam and like it better than any similar preparation I know of." writes Mrs. Ellen Perry, wife of Rev. R. Perry of Cold Brook Springs, Mass. "My hair was almost entirely gray, but a dollar bottle of the Balsam has restored the softness and the brown color it had when I was young, using a single gray hair left. "The less government we have the better—the fewer laws and the less controlled power. The antidote to the abuse of formal government is the influence of private character, the growth of the individual.

A man's transit from one life to the other, or from one world to the other, is like a journey from one place to another, and he takes with him all things that he possesses in himself as a man; so that it cannot be said that a man after death, his death being only that of the terrestrial body, has lost anything that belonged to himself. He also carries with him his natural memory, for everything he ever heard, saw, read, learned or thought from his earliest infancy to the last day of his life he still retains.
