Published every Thursday.

Our friends throughout the county will oblige by sending us the news in their respective towns, villages and neighborhoods. Send us the plain facts, and we will dress them up, if need be. Our columns will always be open to those who wish to speak through them on general or local questions of public interest; but we will not hold ourself responsible for the opinions they may express.

Candidates are erecting alters on which to offer themselves as sacrifices to the political gods.

Miss Rosa Ayers of Middleburgh, was visiting the family of B.F. Ulrich, of Penn.—Trib[illegible]

The time to ch[illegible] a fertilizer for Spring crops has arrived. The extensive use of the I. P. Thomas & Son's goods is a very conclusive argument in their favor.

At the meeting of the Republican Standing Committee in Middleburgh on Tuesday, it was decided to hold the Primary Election on Saturday, March 24, between hours of 1 and 7 P. M. That will make the campaign short and hot.

On Tuesday the Central Hotel, Middleburgh went dry—the liquor license expiring on that day. No license can now be granted the House until the latter part of April. Lots of fellows in town now so dry that they spit white fib-an-a-bits.

A pleasant social gathering took place at the residence of Benjamin Bachman on Friday night last, when about forty married ladies participated in a carpet-rag donation party—each bringing a lot of rags, sewing them and then donating the whole pile to the lady of the house.

Stetler's Cornet Band netted about $25 at their concert in the Hall Monday evening. The performances in part were good—the balance was below the medium of entertainments given by the band heretofore. The reason for this is the short time the boys took to prepare for the occasion.

For the balance of the winter we predict light, heavy and variable winds, veering from north-nor'west all around and back again, with local, general and miscellaneous snow, ice, sleet and rainfalls and more or less fall and rise in the mercury. We think we have caught on to the weather at last.

An exchange says: Now, here is something which is really worth making a note of. If a piece of charcoal is laid on a burn, the pain will subside immediately, and if left upon the wound for an hour will cure it. This seems almost incredible, but a piece of charcoal is readily procurable, it should be kept in every house for immediate use and its efficacy tested.

It is not often that a lawyer practicing at this bar gets as high a compliment paid for his integrity and honor as did Thomas J. Smith, Esq., from Judge Bucher on Monday in open Court. We congratulate Tom. When he dies and his epitaph is made to read "Here lies a lawyer, and an honest man," no one will suspicion that it marks the remains of two men.

Our friend and fellow citizen S. Weis now claims to be an American citizen, both by naturalization and by having resided in the "Land of the free and the home of the brave for 21 years." May he live many times 21 years here is our wish.—Tribune. Yes; just so. Had we many more such foreigners as friend Weis our government would have no need of laws restricting immigration.

A physician says February is the most prolific of serious colds of any month of the year, and advises the back of the neck to be kept well wrapped up, as beneath that exposed skin lies the "cerebrospinal axis, whence proceed the nerves that govern both heart and lungs." The face, he says—and as everybody knows by experience "is supplied with blood vessels twice as plentiful as the neck enabling it to resist external cold in that proportion."

Battle Creek Moon: The decision of the Michigan supreme court pretty effectually knocks the Bohemiam oat swindle in Michigan. Its effect appears to be that the purchaser of a Bohemian oat note, knowing the note to have been given on a Bohemian oat contract, is not an innocent purchaser, and cannot recover on the note. This will relieve a good many Michigan victims from the consequences of their foolish gullibility, and is a plain warning against other like swindling schemes.

ED. POST.—I have been strongly urged to submit my name as a candidate for Prothonotary, and I take this means to inform my friends that I cannot comply with their request. We have now two good men in the field for the office, and an effort on my part might not only result in my own defeat but in disturbing the now equal advantages of the two men in the field. With my best wishes for the success of the party I remain.

Very truly yours,
ADAM SMITH

LIARS.

Some men are born liars, some acquire the habit, and some have it forced upon them.

All men are liars to a greater or less degree.

The editor of the POST is something of a liar himself.

"Let him who is without sin cast the first stone."

Some men lie because the truth don't fit. Those are fishing lies.

Others lie because, of a habit, they prefer it to the truth, and continue in the habit until they cannot discriminate between the two. Those are Grand Army lies.

The balance lie because it is essential in business. It would not be good policy for a merchant to tell the impudent customer the original cost of an article, for that would in most cases spoil the sale. To inform him that it was none of his business would insult him—hence he lies. That is a "white lie."

We have heard opinions expressed that women are less frank and truthful than men. If this be so it is because a woman stands on a high pedestal and an honest admission on her part of having stepped from that pedestal, stamps her with suspicion the balance of her life; whereas, man, proud man, may be guilty of all the crimes in the deckalogue—he reforms and in an hour awakes to find himself a hero. Hence woman is often taught from her youth up to conceal her real human self from detection.

Fashionable liars are by far the most numerous. Society people inform us that polite lies are absolutely necessary to keep from continually wounding the feelings of their friends by seeming rudeness. These lies are not supposed to "count," but they are like parasites which destroy the delecate leaves of a plant. They injure and blunt the finer perceptions of right and wrong. This is a weakness more femanine than masculine.

Silence is often the most contemptable of liars. There can be nothing more despicable than a man or woman whom malice or envy will permit to sit in silence and hear an innocent party maligned. Many a name has been shadowed by the significant silence of one who should have spoken the word of defense.

The moment a man or woman is detected in a lie, however trivial, people's interest and respect for them is lessened.

When we find a man whose conscience forbids him to fracture the truth uopn any occasion whatever, we grapple his friendship with hoops of steel.

The liar who possesses a good memory may make a success of his profession for years without detection. It is seldom, however, that the art of lying and the art of remembering are combined in one person.

Had all liars been struck dead like Ananias, most of this generation would have "died aborniin'" litigation would cease for want of lawyers and even preachers would be dodging around corners to avoid the lightning.

CENTREVILLE.—The township election passed off quietly with scarcely a ripple of contention. As usual some of the candidates have won and others have lost. Some must win and others lose or else there would be no sport. The result seems to meet with quite general approbation.

Wednesday last was Washington's birthday and generally considered as a holiday, everything around us was moving along as usual, except that the schools had closed.

Michael Yeisley sold his house and lots on Market street to Elias Brunner of this township. Consideration $700. Hope Ellis will soon move to town and be one of us.

Those who know say that traveling is a rather unpleasant thing. The roads are in a bad conditon.

Rev. S. Aurand and Rev. D. M. Metzgar pastors of the Evangelical church at this place, preached their last sermons here for the year ending March 1st and are this week attending annual conference at Lewisburg. These ministers are above the average in ability, and possessed of bright noble spirits and their presence created sunshine, and their encouraging words inspired enthusiasm. During their faithful and untiring labors here they made many friends and held a warm place in the hearts of their own people, and were highly esteemed by others regardless of religious differences. Hope conference will see fit to have them remain with us another year.

Quite a number from this place were in Middleburgh on Tuesday, courting. R.

MIDDLECREEK.—A grand entertainment was held at Solly Steininger's last Wednesday evening. The Troxelville Cornet band and the Middlecreek String band furnished some excellent music. The occasion was enlivened by several songs, the most noteworthy one was rendered by Solly, entitled "The Laughing Song." After a few other exercises the crowd left for their homes well satisfied.

Most of the Spring township teachers attended the institute at Middleburgh.

Election passed by very quietly with the following results: Some got appointed others disappointed, so after all it was done on the square as all got the "appointed."

P. I. Knepp and John Reigle left for Bellevue, Ohio last week.

E. F. Goss & Co., will have a huckster stand at the comming sales. We wish them a good patronage.

Banks Dreese and Mr. Kimes were the guests of A. H. Ulsh on Sunday.
