Juniata County is going dry. Out of five applications for liquor licenses, only three were granted at the court. But the thirsty ones will doubtless manage to get something to wet their whistles semi-occasionally, if not more frequently.

By the Act of June 13th, 1887, the Governor is authorized to appoint one pupil in each county who may enjoy a free scholarship for 2 years at the Pennsylvania Museum and school of Industrial Art at Philadelphia. That appointment for this county has not yet been made, or if it has, we have not heard of it.

Musical College and Pennsylvania Normal Music School at Freeburg, has opened the 33rd session with a flattering attendence of students from principal towns of ten counties. The summer session will begin July 30,'88. For particulars address

The Middleburg Gun Club's practice on Friday last resulted in M. Z. Steininger breaking 14 out of the possible 15 bats, John Stetler 10, John Francis 10, and H. H. Grimm 8. "Mart" now thinks of challenging Bogardus for a shoot.

The followers of Isaac Walton can now rest comportable. The editor of the POST received his shipment of brook trout from the State Fisheries on Tuesday morning's express, and were sent to Squire Jim Middleswarth, at Troxelville who placed them into Swift run.

There are some mighty ungrateful people in this world. The other morning while on his way down town, a lad overtook a young lady whose bustle sat about 45 degrees the wrong way, and when he said, "Miss, your bustle is on crooked," she snappishly retorted, "It's none of your business if it is."

On Tuesday we were shown a piece of calico by C.L. Smith of the Central Hotel for which the purchaser, Mrs. Smith had paid 50 cents a yard. It is ordinary looking goods, and the most skillful counter-hopper would call it six cent calico—and so it is. It was purchased during the war which accounts for its outrageous price.

Mountains and forests in all parts of the State were burning during the recent dry, hot spell. The northern mountains of Union county raged fiercely. Many valuable timber tracts suffered greatly, and the entire county was covered with a blue, dusty haze until relieved by a brisk thunder shower on Monday evening.—Lewisburg Chronicle.

The peach-crop in this section is done for—so it looks. The trees that were not killed by the extremely cold winter had their blossoms nipped in the bud by the late frosts. There are, of course, some trees in protected localities that may bear lightly, but the yield in general will be exceedingly light. If blossoms tell, all other fruits will be abundant.

The "fishing sociable" is coming into style, and is quite a novelty. N. YOUNG, Pastor.

All people remember the old lines:
Seven cities claim a Homer dead
Which wouldn't give a dying Homer a bite of bread.

The death of Conkling brings to mind the lines. Now papers of every faith and political mugwumpery sing his praises, which only yesterday would have cursed him through grinding teeth. Such is human nature. Not a very admirable quality either. The grave is earless and cannot hear the just praises which should have come to make life pleasant.—Lan. Ex.

This great meeting of farmers and manufacturers, which opens August 27, 1888, at Williams Grove, and continues the entire week, gives abundant promise of being much more largely attended than ever before. Manufacturers are learning to better appreciate the unrivalled advantages which this Exhibition affords, and to realize that the surest way to introduce to our agriculturists the different implements and varied kinds of machinery designed to lighten labor and facilitate farming operations, is to meet the farmers themselves, talk with them, show them the workings of their machinery and learn from them in return just what is defective, or where improvements are needed.

On Thursday we received a call from Mr. George Hair, of near Middleburgh. George was a former resident of our town and an intimate boyhood friend of the editor of this paper. What a pleasant time we did have, talking of the days when we went fishing "with spools of thread for fishing lines and bended pins for hooks," and carried the fish in our vest pockets, waded in the streams and sailed vessels made of shingles, etc. Time has dealt gently with george; his fifty years bear lightly on him, and were it that his hair and whiskers were somewhat frosted, we might have imagined that we were boys again. Glad to have met you, George, and trust we may soon see you again.—Mifflinburg Times.

Hon. Mortimer Whitehead, Worthy Lecturer of the National Grange, will deliver a series of lectures in Snyder county on topics interesting to farmers, as follows; At Bower's School House, Franklin township, near Middleburgh, on Monday, May 21st, at 2 o'clock P. M., same day at 7:30 in Boyer's Hall, Freeburg; Salem church, May 22 at 2 o'clok P. M., and at Shriner's church, Chestnut Ridge at 7:30 P. M. Hon. Whitehead is acknowledged to be one of the most brilliant speakers on Farm Topics. His power for presenting his views on any subject is beyond rival. All who come out to hear him on these dates will be amply repaid. His lectures are not only interesting but also amusing and instsuctive. All are invited to attend. See posters.

ANOTHER CLASS OF SWINDLERS.—The Philadelphia Times says there is still another class of swindlers of Western Pensylvania with what might be called the sample game. This, in brief, is to exhibit around the rural fireside sample goods of varying manufacture, but always a good quality and design. The unsuspecting granger is delighted with these, as he may well be, orders plentifully from the bland salesman, who talks him into ecstacies in ten minutes, and either pays in advance or orders the goods sent C. O. D. In the former case he rarely hears from the eloquent agent again, and in the latter he receives a package by express which is found to contain cheap or worthless materials. The game is almost as old as the hills, but still it takes—where newspapers are unknown.

BANNERVILLE.—E. Shellenberger is at present having his cellar dug deeper and making ready to begin at the store room.

On Tuesday night of last week, Howard Goss' steam saw mill burned to the ground and damaged the boiler and engine so badly that it is of no use any more. The loss is estimated at $2,000.

J. O. Goss moved his steam saw mill to Jacks mountain where he has bought a large tract of timber land from Mrs. Daniel Peter.

On last Friday afternoon about 3 o'clock Howard Herbster's house caught fire and was making good headway, but was soon extinguished by the neighbors.

Mr. William Heater is at present repairing his house.

The five prisoners in our county jail got to fighting among themselves one day this week and one of them, a tramp, was badly bitten in the forehead. When the Sheriff arrived they were pacing the corridor like caged hyenas, but a threat from him to lock them up separately had the desired quieting effect.

The dedication of the monument of the 49th Pa. Vol. will occur on the Battlefield at Gettysburg, Pa., June 29 and 30. The brigade was composed of the 5th Wisconsin, 6th Maine, 43d New York, 119th and 49th Penn'a, and the 37th Massachusetts. Quite a number of the old brigade boys expect to be present. There is an effort being made at this time to complete arrangements as this grand occasion demands.

BEAVERTOWN.—Jacob Fees, Jr. has succumed to the ravages of disease and responded to the call of the angels of death. He died on Saturday morning, after a lingering illness of about four years. So far as I am aware, physicians had a wide diversity of opinion in regard to the real character of his disease. He was generally regarded, however, being afflicted with consumption. He had been confined to his bed the greater part of the time during several weeks preceding his death. During the last few days he could not breathe when lying and was obliged to sit on a chair with his forehead resting on a stand, in which position he breathed his last. He bore his affliction with the utmost calmness, not uttering a groan. He was an honest, exemplary man, enjoying the esteem of the entire community. He practically lived without enemies. The funeral will take place to-morrow (Tuesday) forenoon. Rev. Mumma, his pastor, will officiate. He was aged 41 years.

George Stetler and Jacob "O" Smith have each had an attack of pneumonia. They are about again.
