have killed him on the spot, had he not been rescued by a few Free State men, and one Pro Slavery man who mustered to defend him.

By this great achievement the Border Ruffians were exalted to a high state of ferocity, nor does much pluck appear to have been exhibited on the other side.—Leavenworth has but few Eastern men. It is the principal seat of the squatter sovereignty Free State party, who were so anxious that the Topeka Convention should secure the countenance and support of Cass and Douglas, by indorsing the squatter sovereignty falsehood of the Kansas Nebraska bill. These Douglas Free State men seem to have been completely cowed and frightened, and to have submissively knocked under to the violence of the ruffians, who appear to have succeeded in completely breaking up the balloting in that place on the Free State Constitution.

Leavenworth, it will be recollected, was thought by the Lawrence men, (according to the statement of our correspondent) to have either shown the white feather during the recent siege, not having done so much as might reasonably have been expected from so large a place in the way of forwarding aid and reenforcement to the besieged Free State men. And now they experience the common fate of trimmers who attempt to sit on two stools—that of falling to the ground themselves. However, there is much to be said by way of apology for the Leavenworth men. They are immediately on the Missouri border, exposed to the whole fury of Border Ruffian invasion.—They seem to have no leaders on whom they can rely, and worse than that, no Sharp's rifles. Give them these, and we trust they will not long want them—and we doubt not another time they will give a better account both of themselves and of the Border Ruffians.

But the outrages at Leavenworth did not cease with the breaking up of the balloting on the Free State Constitution. A villain who had been concerned in an attempt at murder at Kickapoo, a village a few miles north of Leavenworth, having been arrested upon legal process and examined, was committed to the same jail at Leavenworth in which McCrea was recently imprisoned. His friends thereupon mustered in force, liberated the prisoner, and burned down the jail. We shall see what Gov. Shannon says to this new rescue. Will he issue another proclamation, and forward another telegraphic dispatch to the President for aid? What Shannon may do, is, however not now of the least consequence. Whatever may be thought and said as to the past for all future outrages, burnings and murders that may occur in Kansas, the people of the United States will hold responsible, not Shannon, not Stringfellow, nor Atchison, nor any other subordinate or wire puller, but Franklin Pierce, President of the United States, and the Democratic party, so called, whose instrument and officer he is Before the President undertakes to indulge in maudlin lamentations over the alleged disregard or neglect of the laws on the part of others, let him first give us a small specimen of vigor by himself protecting the people of Kansas against Border Ruffian plunder and murder.—Tribune.
