FALL OF CLOD.

Two Men Narrowly Escape Death--One Seriously Injured.

Michael Kerrigan, of South Chestnut street, was seriously injured this morning at the Plank Ridge washery by a fall of frozen clod at a dirt bank. Kerrigan and Foreman Daniel Sterner were standing beside each other when the clod gave way. A large piece rolled like a wheel towards the two men and both narrowly escaped being killed. The clod struck and knocked down Kerrigan and as the man fell the clod toppled over upon his right leg, causing a bad smash of both bones below the knee. Kerrigan was removed to his home on South Chestnut street and after receiving attendance from Dr. D. J. Langton was removed to the Miners' hospital. After examining the injured leg Dr. Langton said there was a compound comminuted fracture and Kerrigan will be a patient at the hospital for some time. Much sympathy is expressed for the victim. He is a very popular man and his family is in poor circumstances.

Special to EVENING HERALD.

WASHINGTON, Mar. 16.—President McKinley this morning sent to the Senate his nomination of Colonel John Hay, of Ohio, as Ambassador to England.

At the same time the President forwarded the nomination of General Horace Porter, of New York, as Ambassador to France.

Successful Festival.

The birthday party, or festival, held in the United Evangelical church on North Jardin street last evening under the auspices of the singing society connected with the church was a very successful affair in every respect. The following program was rendered by the society with excellent effect: Singing, "All Hail!" prayer, Rev. I. J. Reitz; singing; address, Rev. I. J. Reitz; singing by the society; recitation, Nellie Watkins; solo and chorus, "Roll along, Children"; singing, "The Old Church Bells," society; recitation, Archie Sloppell; quartette, "That Beautiful Land"; solo and chorus, "The Home that used to Be;" recitation, Willie Seltzer; duett, "Prayer of the Wanderer," Mrs. Wagner and Miss Minnie Hassler; quartette, "A Kind Word Goes a Good Ways After All;" instrumental music, Miss Gertie Hassler; essay, Allen Seltzer; duett, "Raise me, Jesus to Thy Bosom;" quartette and duett, "Nearer Home;" closing hymn. Upon the close of the program excellent refreshments were abundantly served and some time was spent very pleasantly in a social manner. The attendance filled the church and the affair was a financial success.

A clock made from coal and a great variety of other articles also made of coal, are on exhibition in Brunno's show window. The display is well worth seeing.

"Mr. Barnes of New York."

This splendid play will be presented at Ferguson's theatre again to-night. Last night's Shamokin Herald contained the following: "Mr. Barnes of New York" was presented to an appreciative audience on Saturday night. The company is composed of finished actors and actresses and was by far the strongest cast which has appeared in our city this season. Miss Loraine Hollis as Marina Paoli, gave a fine interpretation of a Corsican woman, struggling between love and revenge to which the former finally triumphs.

A Cheap Feast.

Last evening a stranger entered Shoener's oyster saloon on East Centre street and was served with fried oysters. He was so well pleased with them that he duplicated the order and disposed of the second plate full without delay. The stranger then remarked that he could relish a few oysters on the half shell. Shoener went to the cellar to get the bivalves and when he returned the stranger had disappeared, leaving the feast unpaid for.

M'KINLEY'S MESSAGE!

The Needs of the Government Briefly Pointed Out.

NECESSITY FOR PROMPT ACTION!

The Chief Magistrate Tells How the Revenues of the Government Have Decreased During the Past Five Years, and How Ample Revenues Can Be Provided.

Washington, March 16.—Although the proceedings in the house yesterday were perfunctory, the scene was a brilliant one. The vote on speaker, which resulted, Reed (Rep.), 193; Bailey (Dem.), 134; Bell (Pop.), 2, and Newlands (Silverites), 1, aligned several heretofore unclassified members. All the Populists voted for Bell. Of the fusionists three, Baker and Jett of Illinois and Marshall of Ohio, voted for Bailey; one, Maxwell of Nebraska, voted for Bell, and three, Jones and Lewis of Washington and Todd of Michigan, did not vote. Two of the silverites, Newlands of Nevada and Sharroth of Colorado, did not vote, and Hartman of Montana voted for Newlands. Speaker Reed was enthusiastically received on his appearance in the house after his election, and made a graceful and dryly humorous speech in assuming the gavel, after being sworn in by Mr. Harmer, of Pennsylvania, the oldest member in continuous service.

After the introduction of the tariff bill the speaker immediately announced the members of the committee on rules, ways and means, and mileage, as follows:

Rules—The speaker, Henderson of Iowa and Dalzell of Pennsylvania, Republicans, and Bailey of Texas and McMillin of Tennessee, Democrats.

Ways and Means—Dingley of Maine, Payne of New York, Dalzell of Pennsylvania, Hopkins of Illinois, Grosvenor of Ohio, Russell of Connecticut, Dolliver of Iowa, Steele of Indiana, Johnson of North Dakota, Evans of Kentucky and Tawney of Minnesota, Republicans, and Bailey of Texas, McMillin of Tennessee, Wheeler of Alabama, McLaurin of South Carolina, Robertson of Louisiana and Swanson of Virginia, Democrats.

Mileage—Wright of Massachusetts, Barham of California and Boore of Maryland, Republicans, and Cooper of Texas and Lewis of Georgia, Democrats.

An ineffectual attempt was made, under the leadership of Mr. Hepburn, an Iowa Republican, to limit the operation of the rules of the last congress which were adopted temporarily to 30 days. The Democrats, Populists and 14 Republicans supported him, but they were defeated, 183 to 152. This was the only incident out of the ordinary connected with the proceedings. The president's message was applauded vigorously, as was Mr. Dingley when he introduced the new tariff bill.

The ways and means committee secured leave to sit during the sessions of the house, after which, at 4 o'clock, the house adjourned until Thursday next.

The senate began its work in extra session with 87 senators present, and with the galleries packed to their full limit. The whole business of the day was confined to the reading of the president's message, the seating of the new senator from Kansas, Mr. Harris, and the reference of the credentials of Mr. Corbett as senator from Oregon to the committee on privileges and elections. The president's message, the reading of which was listened to with the closest attention, was as follows:

To the congress of the United States:

Regretting the necessity which has required me to call you together, I feel that your assembling in extraordinary session is indispensable because of the condition in which we find the revenues of the government. It is conceded that its current expenditures are greater than its receipts, and that such a condition has existed for now more than three years. With unlimited means at our command we are presenting the remarkable spectacle of increasing our public debt by borrowing money to meet the ordinary outlays incident upon even an economical and prudent administration of the government. An examination of the subject discloses this fact in every detail, and leads inevitably to the conclusion that the condition of the revenue which allows it is unjustifiable, and should be corrected.

We find by the reports of the secretary of the treasury that the revenues for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1892, from all sources, were $425,868,269.22, and the expenditures for all purposes were $415,953,806.58, leaving an excess of receipts over expenditures of $9,914,452.64. During that fiscal year $46,570,467.95 were paid upon public debt, which had been reduced since March 1, 1889, $258,076,986, and the annual interest charge decreased $11,684,576.69. The receipts of the government from all sources during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1893, amounted to $461,716,561.94, and its expenditures to $459,374,857.66, showing an excess of receipts over expenditures of $2,341,674.28.

Since that time the receipts of no fiscal year, and with but few exceptions of no month of any fiscal year, have exceeded the expenditures. The receipts of the government from all sources during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1894, were $372,802,496.29, and its expenditures $442,669,726.37, leaving a deficit, the first time since the resumption of specie payments, of $69,867,230.08. Notwithstanding there was a decrease of $16,189,129.78 in the ordinary expenses of the government, as compared with the previous fiscal year, its income was still not sufficient to provide for its daily necessities, and the gold reserve in the treasury for the redemption of greenbacks was drawn upon to meet them. But this did not suffice, and the government then resorted to loans to replenish the reserve.

In February, 1894, $50,000,000 in bonds were issued, and in November following a second issue of $50,000,000 was deemed necessary. The sum of $117,171,758 was realized by the sale of these bonds, but the reserve was steadily decreased until, on Feb. 8, 1895, a third sale of $62,315,400 in bonds, for $65,116,719 was announced to congress.

The receipts of the government for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1895, were $390,379,203.29, and the expenditures $433,173,426.49, showing a deficit of $42,794,223.18. A further loan of $100,000,000 was negotiated by the government in February, 1896, the sale netting $111,160,246, and swelling the aggregate of bonds issued within three years to $262,315,400. For the fiscal year ending June 30, 1896, the revenues of the government from all sources amounted to $409,475,908.78, while its expenditures were $434,678,654.48, or an excess of expenditures over receipts of $25,202,745.70. In other words, the total receipts for the three fiscal years ending June 30, 1896, were insufficient by $137,811,729.46 to meet the total expenditures.

Nor has this condition since improved. For the first half of the present fiscal year the receipts of the government, exclusive of postal revenues, were $157,507,695.76, and its expenditures, exclusive of postal service, $195,410,690.22, or an excess of expenditures over receipts of $37,902,996.46. In January of this year the receipts, exclusive of postal revenues, were $24,316,994.66, and the expenditures, exclusive of postal service, $30,269,989.29, a deficit of $5,952,995.24 for the month. In February of this year the receipts, exclusive of postal revenues, were $24,400,907.38, and expenditures, exclusive of postal service, $28,796,958.96, a deficit of $4,395,959.28, or a total deficiency of $186,061,589.44 for the three years and eight months ending March 1, 1897. Not only are we without a surplus in the treasury, but with an increase in the public debt there has been a corresponding increase in the annual interest charge from $22,892,582.20 in 1892, the lowest of any year since 1862, to $34,957,297.60 in 1896, or an increase of $11,065,414.40.

It may be urged that even if the revenues of the government had been sufficient to meet all its ordinary expenses during the past three years the gold reserve would still have been insufficient to meet the demands upon it, and that bonds would necessarily have been issued for its repletion. Be this as it may, it is clearly manifest, without denying or affirming the correctness of such a conclusion, that the debt would have been decreased in at least the amount of the deficiency and business confidence immeasurably strengthened throughout the country.

Congress should promptly correct the existing condition. Ample revenues must be supplied not only for the ordinary expenses of the government, but for the prompt payment of liberal pensions and the liquidation of the principal and interest of the public debt. In raising revenue duties should be so levied upon foreign products as to preserve the home market, so far as possible, to our own producers; to revive the manufactories; to relieve and encourage agriculture; to increase our domestic and foreign commerce; to aid and develop mining and building, and to render to labor in every field of useful occupation the liberal wages and adequate rewards to which skill and industry are justly entitled. The necessity of the passage of a tariff law which shall provide ample revenue need not be further urged. The imperative demand of the hour is the prompt enactment of such a measure, and to this object I earnestly recommend that congress shall make every endeavor. Before other business is transacted let us first provide sufficient revenue to faithfully administer the government without the contracting of further debt or the continued disturbance of our finances.

Successful Operation.

The many friends here of Mrs. William Willman, of Mahanoy City, a former resident of Shenandoah, will be pleased to know that she is improving nicely at the University of Pennsylvania hospital, Philadelphia. Mrs. Willman has been a sufferer for the past nine years, and on the 8th. inst. entered the above institution for the purpose of having an operation performed, which was done on Saturday, and was a successful one. The physicians in charge have strong hopes of her ultimate recovery.

RELIEF STATION OPEN TO-NIGHT!

Cash Donations Coming in From the Several Wards--Many Citizens Volunteer to Make Sales of Tickets For the Minstrel Performance Next Monday Evening.

A meeting of the general committee for the relief of the worthy poor of the town was held last night in the Council chamber and was attended by the several special committees, who presented encouraging reports.

A statement from James Shields and W. D. Chmielewski showed that their solicitations for relief in the First ward had been very successful. They turned in $32.05 in cash and a large quantity of provisions, including 800 pounds of flour.

The Shenandoah Beef Company has pledged itself to furnish the relief station with fifty pounds of meat each week for four weeks.

Stanton, the fish dealer, has donated 100 pounds of fish which will be distributed as ordered by the committee.

The Washington Beneficial Society has donated $10 to the fund.

M. J. O'Neill and M. Owens turned in $23 as part of their collections in the Third ward and John L. Hassler reported $15.30 from the Fifth ward.

Chief Burgess Tabor reported that John Robbins had extended the privilege of using his store room on West Centre street as a relief station for two weeks.

The Juvenile Relief Club sent in $23.05 as the proceeds of the entertainment given by the children in the High school building on Saturday evening, last.

R. P. Kunesman, publisher of "The Darbininkas," was in attendance at the meeting and has volunteered to print in the Lithuanian language circulars advertising the minstrel performance to be given at Ferguson's theatre on the 22nd inst. by the Vaudeville Club and Schoppe orchestra, and have them distributed. The tickets for the entertainment are now on sale at Kirlin's drug store, Ferguson House, Franey Hotel and Commercial Hotel, and may also be procured from the following gentlemen who have volunteered to kindly help the sales: Chief Burgess Tabor, J. L. Hassler, R. P. Kunesman, Fred. Keithan, M. J. O'Neill, T. J. Broughall, John W. Weeks, J. J. Bobbin, Portz & Son, Hooks & Brown, P. J. Gaughan, T. F. Miles, Max Levit.

The following Lithuanian gentlemen have been selected by the general committee, with the aid of the Chief Burgess Tabor, to assist the special committees appointed to investigate applications for relief: W. D. Chmielewski, Joseph Raitkiewicz and R. P. Kunesman.

The distributing committee reported that the relief station is fairly well supplied with flour and potatoes.

About forty people obtained relief at the Centre street station last evening.

Kendrick House Free Lunch.

Vegetable soup will be served as free lunch to-night.

A Play That Stirs The Heart.

In "Mr. Barnes of New York", Mr. Gunter has chosen an intense love story, with each and every personage a distinct type, was produced at Ferguson's theatre last night, and which will be given a repetition to-night. The love interest is strong, and shows the life-long sacrifice of a Corsican woman struggling between love and revenge which emanates from the heart and holds the audience's rapt attention. Several beautiful scenes are also presented and the costumes are splendid.

Had That Tired Feeling.

A disgraceful scene at the corner of Oak and West streets, was a drunken woman lying at the entrance to the Welsh Baptist church. At first passersby thought the lady, who was aged, had been taken ill, but an investigation showed that she had partaken too much of spirits, which rendered her unable to walk. She said she hailed from Fowler's and had come to town to consult a physician about her sickness.
