Touched an Electric Wire and Died.

Nanticoke, Pa., May 14.—Albert Cooper, 17 years old, of a prominent family, was returning home last evening when some boys who were toying with a hanging electric wire dared him to take hold of it. He seized the wire and instantly received a shock, which laid him out insensible, and from which he died a few minutes later. An inquest is to be held.

Almshouse Storekeeper.

There seems to be some trouble about the appointment of storekeeper at the almshouse. Controller Benjamin R. Severn, who has the passing of the appointment, has selected George Spencer, of Pottsville, for the position. Mr. Spencer was to have taken charge of his duties last Tuesday, but Poor Directors Ahrensfield and Dietrich refused to recognize the appointment. It is expected that the difficulty will soon be adjusted. If matters are not soon satisfactorily settled, Mr. Severn will appoint Mr. Spencer an auditor, in accordance with a recent act of the Legislature, which will give that official authority to peruse every bill and other financial matters which pass through the hands of the Poor Directors. As storekeeper, it is the duty of that official to report to the Controller all stores which are purchased, with their quality, etc., and a statement as to whether the goods received are full value for the money expended for them.

Jones at Rockville, Md.; A. M. Kettler at Bennett, Pa.

Marriages.

The marriage of Miss Emma Bachman, of Tamaqua, to Mr. Rusel Coxe, of Schuylkill Haven, will occur at the bride's home at the former place, on Wednesday, June 9.

A pretty wedding took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. David H. Fisher, of Pinegrove, when their daughter, Miss Estella, and Edward Keefer were married by Rev. E. S. Noll. The bride wore a handsome cream dress, trimmed with pearls, silk lace and ribbons, and wore beautiful yellow roses in her dress and hair.

THE DIETRICH TRIAL.

The Defendant Denies the Stories of a Number of Witnesses.

The case of Neri Dietrich, one of the Poor Directors, charged with accepting bribes from employes at that institution, is attracting wide-spread attention, and the final outcome of the prosecution is awaited with a great deal of interest in all parts of the county.

The first count of the indictment, which charges him with accepting $600 from Dr. John Gray, former physician at the almshouse, is the part under which he is being pressed, the second count charging him with accepting $75 from George Heffner for his appointment as butcher, not being supported by evidence is dropped and the judge will in his charge direct a verdict of not guilty on that charge.

After questioning thirty-eight jurors the following were selected to try the case: John Felsburg, shoemaker, Minersville; David Rausch, carpenter, Landingville; Charles Hornberger, farmer, Barry township; George M. Rauntzinger, clerk, Tremont borough; Harry Keesey, shoemaker, Schuylkill Haven; Adam Pfeiffer, teamster, Pottsville; John Garrigan, clerk, Port Carbon; Harry Rosenfetter, miner, Branch township; James Lewis, miner, Tower City; George F. Ziegler, miner, Branch township; Elias Adams, repairman, Pinegrove township.

The counsel engaged are District Attorney Bechtel, A. W. Schalck, W. F. Shepherd, C. A. Snyder and O. A. Berner, for the Commonwealth, and Messrs. William A. Marr and W. J. Whitehouse for the defense. When the case was opened, Mr. Whitehouse, addressing the court, declared that an unlawful combination had been formed against the defendant and demanded to know who Messrs Schalck, Shepherd, Snyder and Berner represented. The court maintained that an answer to these questions was not necessary.

Ex-Poor Director Jacob Day testified as to an argument, in writing and sworn to, between himself and the defendant, selecting the appointments for 1895, and of a subsequent one when the name of Dr. Gray was omitted as physician and Dr. Moore substituted. Gray, however, was appointed.

George Walker swore that he drew up the agreement and that he was slated for clerk.

Dr. John Gray, whom it is alleged paid Dietrich $600 for the appointment of physician, related several conversations had with the defendant, at which the latter stated that Doctors O'Hara and Moore were also applicants for the position, and stated that certain parties were to have money if Dr. Moore was appointed. The party referred to was Hon. S. A. Losch, who was to have $500. Mr. Dietrich had said that if any one received money it should be those who made the appointment. Dr. Moore, the director said, was being forced upon him. It cost money to secure his election, he had told the witness. On cross-examination the witness said that on the day the appointments were made at the almshouse, Dietrich told him he had named Moore. Later, the witness said, he was told he had received the appointment.

Dr. James Gray, brother of the applicant, related how he offered the defendant $500 at one time to secure his brother's appointment, and at a subsequent meeting increased the offer to $600. The witness said on January 18, 1895, the director had visited him and asked how about "that." After some conversation the witness gave the director $200 and received a receipt. On March 26, $100 more was exchanged for a receipt. A note for $200, payable to Frank Dietrich, was also given the director.

Dr. John M. Gray, the appointee, was again called and stated that Mr. Dietrich visited him a month after his appointment and that on pay day he gave him $25 as payment on a note, Mr. Dietrich representing to him that he was in need of money. A month later Mr. Dietrich came again and was paid $75. Another time he was given $15 or $20. He told him that the note had not been cancelled and that he needed money. This closed the commonwealth's side.

In opening for the defense Mr. Whitehouse said that the coward who had started this suit was unknown, but was well represented, and he took a broad survey of the court room. In all his experience it was the first time he had seen so much counsel without a client. It will be recalled that the case is being tried on the presentment of the Grand Jury.

Neri Dietrich, the defendant, testified that on the forenoon of the Saturday following his election Dr. Gray had visited him and had asked for a position. He visited him again in five or six weeks and talked appointment. Dr James Gray had made him an offer of $500 for his brother's appointment. No response was made to the proposition. At a later meeting the defendant had told the doctor that there was a rumor that S. A. Losch was to receive $300 for Dr. Moore's appointment, which had caused the defendant to feel hostile to Dr. Moore. The defendant had made a remark that, if money was to be paid, he could not see why it should go to Mr. Losch. The offer of $500 was made again. No response had been made to this either. Had not shaked his head, nor could he say that he had smiled or stroked his beard. Had said that if it was in his power Dr. Gray would be appointed. Ministers and others had recommended him. At a subsequent meeting at Yoder's hotel he had said there was still hope. Nothing had been said before the organization. Didn't let the doctor know of his appointment. Allowed him to find it out through others.

The case will be given to the jury late this afternoon. At 3:30 o'clock counsel were still addressing the jury.

THE MINE INVESTIGATION.

Miners Complain Against the Injustice of Company Stores.

Clearfield, Pa., May 14.—The legislative investigating committee met in the law library of the courthouse yesterday. A number of miners were examined. The company store seems to be their greatest grievance, and those on the witness stand denounced it as the greatest injustice with which they have to contend. The company to which Judge Dean belongs was denounced in especially severe terms. A number of miners testified that they were forced to deal at the company stores or lose their positions. One miner said he had been discharged for refusing to deal at these stores.

Mr. Redding, superintendent of the Morrisdale Coal company, was the only operator present. He said his company did not discriminate against miners who did not deal at the company store. He said the company bought the best goods in the market and sold them as cheap as the same goods could be obtained elsewhere.

The companies they represented had made no profit, they averred, for several years.
