Evans' Candidacy Gains Support

veterans, would not in others. And myself with an Italian name wouldn't stand a chance in some places, while some with an Irish name would. I wish this wasn't so, but it is."

Vincent Hartnett stated that it should be remembered that in the last county election Michael J. Hartnett received a plurality of 13,000 votes and in preceding elections he received enormous majorities."

Ernest Yanassens, district board member of the United Mine Workers, attacked Vincent E. Hartnett "for trying to pick a flaw in Mr. Trimarchi's remarks."

"I am surprised at Mr. Hartnett's attitude for trying to pick a flaw in Mr. Trimarchi's remarks regarding the obstacles a candidate may run up against." Mr. Yanssens said. "I have nothing against Mike Harnett personally. In fact, I have said that I wish it would be possible for us to send Evans, Hartnett and Joe Dolan to Congress, but Lew Evans will be the best candidate."

Mr. Yanssens lauded the record of Mr. Evans, who is an organizer for the UMW. He declared, however, that Mr. Evans had worked not only for the interests of the UMW as an assemblyman, but for all groups.

Rep. Hiram G. Andrews, Democratic floor leader of the State House of Representatives, praised Mr. Evans' record as a legislator.

"I am not for Lew Evans just because he is a good labor leader, but because of his record at Harrisburg." Mr. Andrews said. "Many of the bright ideas I was credited with having in Harrisburg originated in Evans' fertile brain."

Mr. Andrews defended the practice of slating candidates.

"Labor has a right to endorse candidates," he declared. "Representatives of the Democratic Party have the right to endorse candidates. And anyone not agreeing with the result, under the law, has the right to appeal directly to the people."

Reasons why Indiana and Armstrong County leaders originally declared for an open primary before finally endorsing Mr. Evans was described by Mr. Trimarchi as a "political maneuver."

"We believed it was a good political maneuver," he asserted. "We believed we could better exert our influence and gain more recognition if we took that position. The way our plan worked out, I am certain that we used good political strategy."

Sheldon McDonald, Armstrong County party chairman, declared, "Mr. Trimarchi has stated the facts."

John R. Torquato, Cambria County chairman, declared that Democratic leaders "are not trying to jam anyone down your throats."

"That's why this meeting was called. Everyone here can voice his views on the candidates," he declared. "If we select a bad candidate, the party, not the candidate, will be blamed for his mistakes. We should have a full discussion of all candidates. We cannot afford a fight as the brick bats that would be thrown will leave a stigma in the November election."

Clarence B. Hammerle, Democratic city chairman, presided.

No definite date has been set for the county committee to meet to endorse a candidate for Congress and those for the Assembly. It may, however, meet this coming Sunday.

Among UMW leaders who urged support for Mr. Evans were Joseph Madulli, Twin Rocks; Steve Gurko and Lester Bateman, both of Beaverdale, and Jess Madigan and Fred Hoffman, both of Johnstown.

Others who urged Mr. Evans' candidacy included John Casler, president, Johnstown Central Labor Union; James T. Fagen, burgess of Scalp Level; Joe Lunz, Ford City, of the CIO Glass Workers Union and Robert Forsythe, burgess of Patton.

Start Pension Fund For College Faculty

New Plan Initiated At St. Francis College

St. Francis College, Loretto, has established a pension and insurance trust fund for the members of its faculty. Father Adrian J. M. Veigle, president, announced that all lay members of the college faculty would be covered by the pension and insurance agreements. The agreement was concluded during the latter part of the last semester.

An outstanding feature of the plan is that the pension fund has been established on a contributory basis while the insurance program is financed by the college exclusively. Retirement benefits, based on the participant's earnings, will be available following completion of 2 year's service and upon reaching the age of 65. Proportionate returns at 65 will be available to those who do not remain in service for the prescribed period of time.

The new program marks another step forward by the college. It is believed to be one of the few private colleges in the country to make such benefits available to its faculty members. In a statement issued in conjunction with the plan the Loretto president said, "We have inaugurated this plan in order to demonstrate our interest in our faculty and in their endeavors to maintain the present high level teachings at St. Francis."

At the present time the Loretto staff is composed of over 20 lay members. Included in this group are 11 residents of Cambria County. They are: Eugene Creany, Walter Klien and Ferdinand Bionaz, all of Portage; Albert Zanzuccki, Nanty-Glo; Ivan Washabaugh and Steve Datsko, Ebensburg; Ruth Parrish and Vince Davis, Loretto; John Criste and Jayne Kimlin, Cresson, and Joan Morrissey, Johnstown.

The pension committee was composed of the Rev. Adrian J. M. Veigle, TOR, president, Rev. Francis Flanagan TOR, and Rev. Robert Embury, Registrar and Treasurer of St. Francis, respectively.

Veterans Who Move Asked to Notify State

The State Bonus Bureau urged veterans who have moved after applying for the state bonus to notify bonus headquarters in Harrisburg and the local postoffice of a change of address.

The notification is necessary, the bureau emphasized, to assure prompt return of original discharge papers as well as the bonus check itself.

Payments on the $500 million bonus to World War II veterans will start shortly after the money becomes available Mar. 17.
