Alcoholism Ruling: The U. S. Court of Appeals in Richmond, Va., ruled that a chronic alcoholic could not be arrested and treated as a criminal, although he might be detained for medical treatment. The court, reversing the conviction of a man previously convicted many times for public intoxication, said that alcoholism is "now almost universally accepted medically as a disease."

Some 14,000 women died of cancer of the uterus last year. Nearly all the deaths could have been avoided if the women had had an annual "Pap" test by a physician, according to the American Cancer Society.
