May Crowning At Retreat Hospital

An impressive May Crowning ceremony was held Sunday, May 22nd, in the auditorium of Retreat State Hospital.

More than 330 people attended, including 70 visitors.

The program was planned by Mrs. Dolores Brennan of the recreation department with the assistance of Sister Mary Paul and Sister Mary Julian, faculty members of College Misericordia.

Reverend Walter Poplawski, Pastor of St. Mary's Church, Mocanaqua, delivered the sermon, and Reverend Joseph Papka, assistant at St. Mary's pronounced Benediction.

Recitation of the Rosary was conducted by Reverend Papka.

Ten Sisters of Mercy from College Misericordia were in attendance.

Mrs. Estelle Broadt, Music Director at Retreat, was organist.

Missionary Ladies Meet

The Ladies of the Shavertown Bible Church held their monthly missionary meeting last May 3, at the home of Mrs. Dayton Garnett.

Speaker was Mrs. Russell Edmondson. Present were Mesdames Rachel Kester, Helen Harrison, Percy Love, Sr., William McNeel, Russell Edmondson, Dayton Garnett, Sr., Dayton Garnett, Jr., Samuel Keast, and Misses Gloria Welch, Joyce Ann Belles, Elaine Garnett, and Erma Garnett.

Trinity United Presbyterian Church To Confirm Class Of Ten On Sunday

On Sunday, June 5th, at the Service of Worship, these members of the Communicants Class, will be confirmed and received into the fellowship of the Church: Melanie Anne Albert, Sandra Lynne Barakat, Cindy Lou Budd, Leslie Elaine Hamm, Patty Koeb, Darcy Rogers, Jeffrey Scott Hoover, Dan Press Shannon, Harry Dalton Swepston, III, Roy Prevost Walter. These young people have received systematic Christian Education and instruction under the leadership of the pastor.

The communicants class is designed to bring into sharp focus the most essential matters of Christian faith and life. The communicants class gives opportunity to present concisely facts and convictions—on church government and Presbyterian heritage, which the well informed church member needs to have within his grasp.

Many of these matters may have been dealt with at various times over the preceding years. Yet the very reason for having a communicants class at all imparts a pointedness to such instruction that may never have been felt in such degree before. The pastor can capitalize on both the knowledge gained earlier and the ignorance that a person feels in the face of the great step about to be taken.

To make up their minds, young people need to know the facts.

Finally, the communicants class brings the pastor and the young people of his church together in an intimate and unforgettable relationship. The pastor has the chance to win the confidence of the young people—for the sake of the church of which he is a minister.

The young people have been examined by the Elders of the Church and will confess publicly the faith into which they were baptized.

JOTS FROM DOT

March 11, 1966

Dearest Family,

The Polaroid film came. Thanks very much.

I keep meaning to ask you for your latest phone number. I know you gave it to me but I don't know where to find it right now and Ede Thompson is going home March 31 and wants to call you. She has been here more or less on her own, has been in charge of the Guest House. She is a real good gal, has done lots of nice things for me.

The Embassy Party

This week seems to have more of interest going on than the last few times I wrote. All the Americans received invitation to a reception at the home of the Counsellor of the Embassy at 6 p. m. Wednesday evening .No reason was given on the invitation so everyone was curious as to what it was all about.

Clitus Olson had to go to Leo sometime so he decided to go that day; Neal Testerman was already there on business, and I decided to go just for fun ,so I drove, and Mrs. Testerman went with me, and some other people who needed a ride up.

Such fun deciding what to wear! Now if I'd had the gold done it would have been just the thing, but that lining hasn't arrived yet. So I wore the dress I made for practice out of scraps! It was the right style all right, though most people had fancier material, except the hostess who wore a simple cotton print but bare back to the waist.

There was a big punch bowl of grape juice with mint leaves in it - different and delicious. The liquor was served in a different room and quite unobtrusively and may were drinking nothing stronger than beer. I heard that it was the missionaries in Leo who sort of got the embassy on this kind of track by asking for orange pop at the first party they went to. But anyway this Embassy crowd is definitely not out of "The Ugly American".

There were at least 500 people there, more than had been expected. The small buffet of cold meat and cheese and pickles and stuff ran out but it wasn't supposed to be a meal anyway.

After milling around chatting with all our friends awhile, the host called us all onto the terrace and made a little speech and introduced Ambassador Godey who proceeded to tell us the purpose of the party. First he was celebrating the fact that he had been here two years, but that sounded a little fishy as an excuse for such a big bash, then he said he was going home, so we thought maybe it was a farewell, but no, he was just going on a routine leave and as far as he knew he would be back, since he didn't think the Texans were lined up ten deep for this job!

Then he finally came to the point, that he is getting married March 27, and he introduced his fiancee, who has been his secretary. (He is fiftyish and divorced). So everybody applauded and thought that was a sufficient reason for a party.

In his speech he reviewed the past two years, mentioning especially working with the missionaries and about the tragedies of Stanleyville, and he praised the airlines who are at present airlifting oil to Zambia. It seems to me he said something like 300,000 tons a month. He also especially mentioned that some of the guests had come all the way fromthe lower Congo and everybody seemed very impressed that we had come. I don't know that a 3 hour drive on a paved road is such a big deal as all that, but the host and the guest of honor were impressed!

Aorta Graft!

Today we had something really fabulous. Clitus Olson did an aorta graft -- I'm not even sure of the name for the thing. This old man had an aneurism of the abdominal aorta so Clitus cut it out and put in a dacron piece. Our O. R. looked like something out of Life magazine, only without all those machines going bleep-bleep

Love, Dottie

Mrs. Minnie A. Coleman Dies At Age Of Ninety

Mrs. Minnie Adele Coleman, ninety years old, died May 25 in General Hospital after a long illness.

For the past several years she had made her home with her daughter and son-in-law Mr. and Mrs. Chester L. Hill of Oak Hill .

She was born April 24, 1876, in Lairdsville, daughter of the late Benjamin W. and Margaret Hirle-Crossley. Her early years were spent in Benton, where she was a member of the Christian Church.

Completing her preliminary education in Benton, she attended Muncy Normal School.

Widow of Myron W. Coleman, she had lived in Williamsport for fifty years before moving to this area. Her husband had been associated with Coleman & Nelson Enterprises in that city.

She leaves in addition to her daughter Mrs. Hill, a son H. Clifton Coleman of South Williamsport; three grandchildren and three great grandchildren; a sister, Miss Myrtle Crossley, of Benton.

Burial was at Twin Hill Memorial Cemetery in Williamsport, following private services.

Charles Gregory Old-Time Barber

Dies In The House Where He was Born

Charles Benjamin Gregory, barber in Dallas for 55 years, died Sunday morning in the home where he had been born on Mill Street. He had suffered from an aortic aneurism for some time.

Burial was at Fern Knoll, following private services from the Disque Funeral Home Tuesday morning. Rev. Robert Sheehan, pastor of Dallas Methodist Church, of which Mr. Gregory was a member, officiated.

Pallbearers were Paul Shaver Sr., Paul Shaver Jr., Claude Shaver, Roy Bohlander, Wilson Garinger, and Gerald Gregory.

Mr. Gregory, a life-long resident of Dallas, was son of the late Charles D. and Lydia Winters Gregory. He obtained his education in Dallas Borough Schools.

When he had been a barber for fifty years, the Dallas Post wrote a feature story on him, in which changes which had come to Dallas during his lifetime were incorporated. At that time his barbershop was next door to the Himmler Theatre. When failing health overtook him, he retired, the last of the old time barbers.

He leaves his widow, the former Althea Garinger; daughters, Mrs. Samuel Ashley, Morehead City, N.C., Mrs. John Gildea, Dallas; sisters, Mrs. Ruth Gregg, Dallas, and Mrs. Claude Shaver, Dallas; five grandchildren, two great-grandchildren.

A daughter, Marian, died many years ago.
