THE ROAD WHICH WE ALL MUST TRAVEL SOONER OR LATER

Some Well Known People From Our Neighborhood Have Passed to the Great Beyond Since Our Last Issue

James Evans Brunner, a well known young man of Columbia, died on Sunday evening, aged 38 years.

J. R. Foster, one of the best known business men in Lancaster, formerly of the firm of Williamson & Foster, died on Thursday aged 66 years.

Elmer W. Brubaker

Elmer W. Brubaker died from congestion of the liver at the home of his father-in-law, Jacob Stehman, east of town, on Thursday. The deceased was married in October, and had just purchased a farm which he and his bride expected to occupy on the first of April. Besides his wife, he is survived by a sister and two brothers, Mrs. Amos Ferree, of Newtown, and Samuel Brubaker, of Neffsville, and John Brubaker, of Lititz. The funeral was held on Monday from the home of Mr. Stehman, with services at the house at 8 o'clock and at 10.30 at the Landisville Church. Mr. Brubaker was affiliated with the Mennonite Church.

Henry C. Young

Henry C. Young, one of the best known residents of Columbia, and president of the Columbia Telephone Company, dropped dead at his home shortly after noon Friday. Death was due to heart trouble and an attack of indigestion.

Shortly after his arrival at the new building of the telephone company that morning Mr. Young had an attack of indigestion, but a physician who was summoned relieved him considerably. He remained at his desk during the morning, and about 12 o'clock started for his home, at Third and Chestnut streets. He had hardly entered the house until he collapsed and fell to the floor. By the time the family physician arrived he was beyond human aid, his death occuring in about ten minutes. The end was due, the physician stated, to valvular disease of the heart.

Mr. Young, who was in his sixtieth year, was a paper-hanger by trade, and until 1894 he conducted a wall paper store in Columbia. In that year he purchased a controlling interest in the Columbia Flint Company, and became its president and general manager. In 1895 he organized the Columbia Telephone Company, which under his direction has become one of the strongest of the independent 'phone companies in the State. He was recognized as one of the best telephone men in the country. Only a few days ago the company occupied the new exchange building, which was erected under his supervision. He was the president and general manager of the company. Mr. Young was a Democrat, and at different times was a delegate to county and State conventions. He was also a delegate to the convention which nominated William Jennings Bryan for President. He was also prominent in Masonic circles.

He is survived by his wife and one daughter, Cora, wife of A. D. Smith, president of the Cornwall and Lebanon Railroad.

David U. Stoner

David U. Stoner, who served several terms as deputy sheriff, in this county, died of old age and general debility at his residence, 445 Buttonwood street, Reading, aged 86 years. His widow, Charlotte Stoner, is confined to bed for the past several weeks suffering with a dislocated shoulder as the result of a fall down a flight of stairs.

Mr. Stoner was a son of August Stoner and was born in Dauphin county. He lived in that county for several years and then moved to Lancaster county, where he resided almost all his life. Mr. Stoner was a millwright and followed this occupation for many years. In politics he was a staunch Republican. He retired about fifteen years ago. For the past two years he resided in Reading, but prior to that time lived here.

His widow and two daughters, Marion, widow of Christian Weltmer, and Annie, wife of William Kratzer, both of Reading, remain, besides three sisters, Mrs. Harriet Greiner and Mary and Charlotte Stoner, all of this place, and one grandchild and one great-grandchild.

During the Civil War he was second lieutenant of Company E, Tenth Emergency Regiment. In 1888 he was made first deputy sheriff under D. K. Burkholder and served in that capacity for three years. He then settled here, where he remained until he moved to Reading.

The funeral was held at Reading to which the remains were taken to this place at 2.28 yesterday afternoon. The corpse was viewed at the depot here by a number of people after which it was laid to rest in the family plot in the Mount Joy Cemetery.

HELD A SHOOT

"Bad Birds" Accounts for the Small Scores Made

The sporting element of the West end was at fever heat Saturday and a crowd of good fellows chaperoned by "Pop" Spickler, of the Washington House, held a little private shoot in Monroe Sheaffer's field, a short distance north of town. The score is appended and while none of the best, the participants claim it is due to the bad birds that were liberated. John Gantz was scorer.

Bennett	0 0 2 2 0 1 0 0 0 1—4
Moore	1 2 1 0 2 0 0 0 0 1—5

Out of Bounds

Hereafter "John Monday" will be in demand as a score keeper.

BUY AT HOME

Why Go Elsewhere When We Can Supply You With Whatever You Want

A few days ago we received a lot of 1913 samples of foreign and domestic calendars, fans, cut-outs, lithographs, baskets, in fact, all kinds of beautiful advertising novelties. Any person interested will certainly not go amiss by calling and inspecting these samples or if you do not have time drop us a card or call us on either phone and we will be Johnny on the Spot.

You have no doubt been approached by agents from many out of town printers, soliciting orders for 1913 calendars. You can take it from us they will charge you considerably more than we do, for various reasons. 1st, their solicitor's salary and expenses must be paid; 2nd, It costs them more to produce the printing in the cities than it costs us; 3rd, if the work does not suit you what do they care, etc., and there are numerous other good reasons.

If, after inspecting over 1,200 samples and you do not see what you want, we can supply anything shown you by an "agent" at a less price than he quoted you. Our final request, don't order printing until you see our work and learn our prices.

POLITICAL POINTERS

Roosevelt Wants the Republican Nomination for President

After publicly saying in 1907 that he would not be a candidate under any consideration for a third term, Teddy puts one over on the G. O .P. by saying that he meant "three in succession." Get over that one.

There is much ado among the applicants for the post office. Mr. B. S. Dillinger, one of the aspirants, has been busy with his petition and Monday had 150 signatures attached thereto.

Mr. Fenstermacher, we presume, will be on the job with his petition ere long, while Mr. Nissley has been but feeling his way thus far. The West End Committeeman, H. C. Myers, tells us that he is not a candidate under any circumstances and that he does not have time to think of politics at present, being busy trying to devise a plan whereby he can organize a steamship company to run boats between his house and barn. Harry says the water is there and all he wants for the privilege is an annual pass, good for two trips a day for the purpose of feeding his poultry.

A Great Sendoff

The Iron Age Hardware, undoubtedly the leading trade journal of its kind in the United States, in its February number publishes a four page article with six very beautiful inside views of the New Standard Hardware Works of this place. It describes the building as well as the various products of this enterprising manufacturing plant, as seen by a representative of that journal on a recent visit to this place. The "New Standard" is given credit for having one of the most modern and best equipped plants to be found. The entire article with illustrations will be reproduced in the Bulletin in the very near future.

Spelling Bee

A grand spelling bee will be held in Mount Joy Hall on Saturday evening, March 9th, by the Mount Joy High School. Clarence Bradley, aged thirteen years, oldest son of Mr. Abram Bradley of near Hossler's church, was severely kicked by a mule last Friday. His upper jaw was crushed, and he is minus every upper tooth. He was attended by Dr. W. M. Thome and later taken to the Lancaster General Hospital for treatment.
