

SCIENTIFIC NOTES.

The number of metals now known is seventy-seven. Iodine has been successfully used in the treatment of diphtheria.

Sulphurous acid acts, in certain cases, as a powerful oxidizing agent. An electric light is indefinitely divisible without sacrifice of economy.

The form of a halitosis is that of an inverted umbrella, being cone shaped and having ribbed sides and rounded base.

Cotton fiber, when quite ripe, consists of almost pure cellulose, a compound of carbon, oxygen and hydrogen. Professor Forbes and Dr. Young have determined by a number of experiments that the speed of a blue ray of light exceeds that of the red by about one per cent.

The telephone has been introduced on board the screw steamer Gloucester City, a vessel of 2,150 tons gross register, which was launched a few weeks ago at Stockton-on-Tees, England.

M. M. Deherain and Maquenne, in a paper read before the Academy of Sciences, Paris, show that certain electrical discharges without sparks and of comparatively weak tension will decompose water.

Late measurements of the carbonic acid existing at considerable heights above the earth's surface, appear to show that the gas is pretty evenly distributed throughout our atmosphere.

Violent atmospheric disturbances are always attended with electrical manifestations; and, in a certain paper, Dr. Rogers is disposed to consider the prevalent theory of wind as erroneous, and believes the real causes of air currents to be electricity.

In 1855 a prize of 25,000 francs, offered by the king of the Belgians, is to be awarded for the best work of means and measures for making the study of geography general and furthering instruction in that science in educational institutions.

Origin of Some Well-Known Phrases. Bo-1-A corruption of Bah, the name of a fierce Gothic general, the name of Odin, the god of war, was made to spread a panic among his enemies.

Nine tailors make a man.-This phrase originated in the following incident: In 1742 an orphan boy applied at a fashionable tailor shop in London, in which nine journeymen were employed.

His interesting appearance opened the hearts of the benevolent fellows, who immediately contributed nine shillings for the relief of the little stranger. With this capital he purchased flour, which he retailed at a profit. Time passed on, and wealth and honor smiled upon the young tradesman, so that when he set up his carriage, instead of trombling the college of heraldry for a crest he painted the following motto on the panel of his carriage door: "Nine tailors made me a man."

SS.-The abbreviation SS. is a contraction of the Latin scilicet, itself contracted from scire licet, and equivalent to the old English "to wit." The designation of the word was simply to call attention to what follows, and in modern typography it might be represented by the index finger or its equivalent. It is erroneously supposed by many to mean "place of the seal."

But better had they never been born etc. Within this awful volume lies The mystery of mysteries. Oh, happiest of human race, To whom our God has given grace, To whom our God has given grace, To whom our God has given grace.

The above lines, though originally written in pencil marks in a fly-leaf of a copy of a Bible owned by Lord Byron, and in consequence credited to him, it has been shown by a writer there by his friend and contemporary, Sir Walter Scott.

This mark, the sign of equality, was introduced into algebra by Robert Recorde, the first English author on his subject, some time about 1557. In his treatise on algebra, called "Whetstone of Witte," he says: "To avoid the tedious repetition of these words, 'is equal to,' I will sette as I doe often in works use, a pair of parallel lines of one lengthe, thus = because no 2 thynges can be more equalle."

When you go to Rome do as Rome does.-In the time of St. Augustine the question respecting Saturday being in his infancy, that great theologian was in the habit of dining upon Saturday upon Sunday; but his mother, Monica, being puzzled with the different practices there prevailing-for they had been applied to her son for a solution of the difficulty. He in return went to Milan on purpose to consult St. Ambrose on this subject. When St. Ambrose did not say Saturday, and the answer of the Milan saint to the Hippo saint was this: "When I go to Rome I fast on Saturday as they do at Rome; but when I am here I do not"-an advice that is current among us to this day-"When you go to Rome do as Rome does."

He that fights- He that fights and runs away May live to fight another day. These lines, usually ascribed to Hudibras, are really much older. They are to be found in a book published in 1556. The same idea is, however, expressed in a couplet published in 1542, while one of the fragments of Meander, the Greek writer, that have been preserved, embodies the same idea in a single line. The couplet in Hudibras is: "Which he can never do that again."

Whistling girls and crowing hens Always come to some bad end. In one of the curious Chinese books, recently translated and published in Paris, this proverb occurs in substantially the same words. It is also an injunction of the Chinese priesthood, and a carefully observed household custom, to kill every hen that crows as a preventive against the misfortunes which the circumstance is supposed to indicate. The same practice prevails throughout many portions of the United States.

An Ancestral Horror. The Vienna Neue Presse quotes from Tacitus his description of the collapse of the wooden amphitheater at Fieschi during the reign of Tiberius, by which, according to the annals, 50,000 persons were killed or wounded.

The immense structure was a flimsy affair, put up by a certain Attilus, and after reading about the horrors of the catastrophe and the measures adopted to prevent their repetition, we are in a preventive against the misfortunes which the circumstance is supposed to indicate. The same practice prevails throughout many portions of the United States.

NEWS OF THE WEEK.

Eastern and Middle States. One of the five buildings that constitute the sugar refining works of Harwester & Elder, in Williamsburg, Long Island, has been totally destroyed by fire. This refinery is said to have been the largest in the world, its capacity being over 400 barrels a day. The building burned was six stories high, and contained nearly all the machinery used in refining-valued at $750,000-and $200,000 worth of sugar. The total loss is put at about $1,500,000, and 8,000 men are thrown out of employment.

A PRIZE of $200 for the best essay on comets was awarded to Lewis Ross, director of the Dudley Observatory at Albany, N. Y. Oscar Wild, English poet and apostle of the "Aesthete," delivered his first lecture in this country a few nights ago before a New York audience.

While a strong wind was blowing at Syracuse, N. Y., two walls-all that remained of a building which had been destroyed by fire a week previous-fell upon a restaurant and precipitated the fourteen inmates into the cellar. Three young James were killed, and two men were fatally, and about ten more seriously, injured.

GOVERNOR CORNELL'S message to the New York legislature is an unusually long document. He says that with a tax levy more than one-third smaller than that of the previous year the public revenues have satisfied all legitimate claims, providing $376,500 for the sinking fund and furnished a surplus larger by $1,846,856 than that which remained at the close of the fiscal year 1880. With sound economy, the message says, the rate of taxation can be still further reduced, and the country will be benefited.

The census enumerated a loss in traffic of 1,282,151 tons, and the expenditures upon them exceeded the revenues by $235,442.45. Public school attendance during the year fell off more than 10,000. Biennial legislative sessions are recommended, as is also the prevention of the sale of oleomargarine for butter, and the modification of the usury laws.

The Pennsylvania Republican State convention has been called to meet at Harrisburg May 10. The seventeenth annual convention of the American Deaf-mutes' association was held at Syracuse, N. Y. During the meeting various papers relating to the deaf-mutes of the country were read.

The Boston University Methodist college has just come into possession of a $2,000,000 estate bequeathed to the institution ten years ago by Isaac Hill. Census statistics show that the native population of New York city is 727,523, and the foreign-born population 478,763. Ireland heads the list of foreign-born residents with 198,535, Germany coming next with 153,482. Of the native population 18,932 are colored.

South and West. PETER MARKINS died the other day in Washington, Ark., aged 111 years. Of the thirty-six members of the Utah legion church and twenty-eight polygamists. A PROHIBITION crusade has commenced in Nebraska.

A FIRE at Los Angeles, Cal., destroyed a number of buildings, doing damage to the extent of $100,000. The Iowa Republican legislative caucus nominated James E. Wilson for United States Senator for the long term, and Hon. James W. McMill for the short term. The nominations are equivalent to an election.

The Hercules powder works, at Pinole, Cal., were destroyed by an explosion, and a number of persons were killed and several more injured. A DRUNKEN violence named Mullins was fined several times for inciting during a murder trial at Mount Vernon, Ky., and finally the judge ordered his arrest. Mullins' father, a strong man in his country, came to his assistance, and a terrible riot ensued, rioters being drawn and fired, the spectators rushing over each other in their efforts to get out of the way, and the judges and jury taking part in the effort to quell the disturbance. Finally the two men were secured without any blood having been shed.

The town of Kemp, Texas, has been completely destroyed by a incendiary fire. At Dallas, Texas, 5,735 bales of cotton were sold for $220,000. This is the largest single sale of cotton ever made in the United States.

Town Her Town, an Indian, was hung at Yakima, Washington Territory, for the murder of Lorenzo Perkins and his wife in 1878. Of the seven Indians engaged in the murder three have been hung, two were shot while resisting arrest, and one was released, having turned state's evidence.

A FIRE in the Cumberland river at Nashville, Tenn., drove 200 families from their homes, compelled many to seek refuge in the city, and caused heavy pecuniary damage. An immense multitude witnessed the triple execution at Wauwatosa, N. C., of Matilda Carter, Eldridge Stiles and Joseph Hay (all colored) for the murder of Nash Carter, husband of the woman who was hanged. On the same day Thaddeus Baber (white) and William Ward (colored) were hanged in the jail-yard at St. Louis, the former for murdering a young woman with whom he had been intimate, and the latter for the murder of a young colored girl he had been killed.

At Sioux Falls, Dakota, also on the same day, Thomas Egan, for murdering his wife, met his death on the gallows.

From Washington. The agitation of the subject of reorganizing the department of agriculture has brought forward a number of bills in Congress looking to the reorganization of the department. The treasury secretary has introduced a bill to enlarge the department so that it shall supervise the commercial as well as the agricultural interests of the country. Congressmen Levee, Russell, and Updegraff, of Ohio, have all introduced bills providing for the thorough reorganization and enlargement of the department. Mr. Levee's bill provides for a number of bureaus in the department, some of which have already an existence, in fact, and also for the appointment of a secretary of agriculture, an assistant secretary, etc., making the department a full executive department.

The state department is informed from St. Petersburg that Lieutenant Danonoff, chief of the Japanese consular service at Yokohama, and six men are expected there soon. Messrs. A. M. POWELL and Wm. E. Dodge, president of the National Temperance society, of New York city, appeared before the select committee on alcoholic liquor traffic and spoke in favor of the appointment of a commission to inquire into the liquor traffic of the United States.

A BILL introduced in the House by Representative Brown, of Indiana, for the issue and exchange of fractional treasury notes of the United States, authorizes the secretary of the treasury to issue such treasury notes, payable to bearer on demand, in denominations of 5, 10, 25 and 50 cents, and the aggregate sum thereof to be $10,000,000, the notes to be exchangeable at par for other currency in sums of $100 or any multiple thereof, and to be legal tender for all debts not exceeding $5.

SUNDAY READING.

Roll the Trumpets. The good story is told of an excellent American minister that, happening one day to pass by the open door of a room where his daughters and some young friends were assembled, he thought, from what he overheard, that they were making too free with the characters of their neighbors, and after their visitors had departed he gave his children a lecture on the sinfulness of scandal. They answered: "But, father, what shall we talk about? We must talk of something!" "If you can do nothing else," replied he, "get a pumpkin and roll it about; that will at least divert your attention. A short time afterwards an association of ministers met at his house, and during the evening some discussions on points of doctrine were so loud as to indicate the danger of losing their Christian temper, when his eldest daughter, overhearing them, procured a pumpkin, and entering the room, gave it to her father, and said: "There, father, roll it about, till it is plain!" The minister was obliged to explain to his brethren, and good humor was instantly restored.

Foreign News. Six Italians who took part in the riots at Marmilles, France, last June, have been sentenced to terms of imprisonment ranging from ten years to six months. Two Indian bands, numbering 300, have murdered fifteen men, six women and four children in Senora, Mexico. Four participants in the anti-Jewish riots at Warsaw 250 persons have been held for trial.

RICHARD HENRY DANA, the distinguished Massachusetts lawyer and author, died the other day in Rome, aged sixty-seven years. A house dispute says the Garibaldi had been badly injured by the upsetting of his carriage. The Garfield, the largest steel sailing ship afloat, has been launched at Belfast, Ireland. GENERAL VALMADERA, governor of Madrid, and formerly governor-general of Cuba, is dead.

The sailing steamer Lion was wrecked forty miles from St. John's, N. F., and all hands, consisting of the crew and several passengers-about forty souls in all-were lost. A FIRE at Tokio, China, destroyed 140 houses. MORE than 250 persons were killed by an earthquake in China.

BRIGHT scenes were witnessed in Lisbon, Portugal's capital, at the meeting of the king and queen of Spain and the king of Portugal. The czar has remitted a large part of the payments due from the Russian peasants on account of the land they received at the time of their emancipation.

A crown in county Kings, Ireland, broke up the roads, threw trees across them and destroyed four bridges to prevent the carrying of oats to a market.

The dead bodies of the process server, Mr. Huddy, and his nephew, who disappeared from county Mayo, Ireland, have been found chained together in Lough Muck. FRENCH missionaries have been murdered in the desert of Sahara.

An explosion on board the British flagship Triumph, of the Pacific squadron, resulted in the death of three men and severe injuries to seven more. A DISPATCH from Calmar, Sweden, states that a Swedish mail steamer has sunk in the Baltic sea, and that fifteen persons were drowned. The coronation of the Russian czar, which is to be an elaborate affair, has been postponed until July, as the czar is expected to become a mother in May.

Forty-seventh Congress. Senate. Bills were introduced: By Mr. Ferry, to grant additional pensions to those who have lost an arm or leg in the service of the United States. By Mr. Sherman, to amend the act of the Territory of Oklahoma. By Mr. Butler, for the creation of a body of parliamentary attorneys. By Mr. Voorhees, granting pensions to the widows of soldiers who were killed in the war of 1861-65. By Mr. Sherman, to amend the act of the Territory of Oklahoma.
