The remains of General Hurlbut, late United States minister to Peru, reached New York on a steamer from Aspinwall, accompanied by the family of deceased.

J. D. ANDREWS, whose wonderful skill as a mathematician had given him the name of the "Lightning Calculator," killed his wife at their residence near Hayesville, Pa., by striking her on the head with a rolling-pin. Andrews was about sixty years old, and for some time past had manifested a tendency to insanity.

A NEW YORR daily paper publishes dispatches from thirty-seven States and four Territories concerning the present condition of the crops-The reports show that despite frosts, floods and a backward spring the general condition of the crops, with few exceptions, is indicative of an abundant harvest. The small grains promise well. Winter wheat will give an increased yield in Learly every State except Indiana, Ohio and New York, and in the lastnamed State only will less than the average crop be produced. Spring wheat is much more flattering in its promise, the increase being especially marked in the great grain States west of the Mississippi. In some of the old grain States other grains are replacing wheat-barley, oats and rye especially. In all these there are indications of a large crop. Corn shows a large increase in nearly every State where it is cultivated. Cotton is expected to give at least an average crop, notwithstanding the floods and other drawbacks. Except in a few cases the sugar cane crop is looking splendidly. The average crops of rice and tobacco will probably be secured. Hay and grass crops have been much injured throughout the country, and a light yield is generally expected. The fruit crops have been the chief sufferers, frosts having about destroyed them in several localities.

SEXTON defeated Schaefer in a cushion carrom billiard match for $5,000 in the New York Academy of Music, making 600 points to his opponent's 539.

RALPH WALDO EMENSON, the eminent American essayist and poet, died suddenly the other day at his home in Concord, Mass., of pneumonia. Mr. Emerson was born in Boston May 25, 1803, graduated from Harvard college, and was ordained a Unitarian minister. In 1832 he resigned from the church in which he was officlating, and after a tour through Europe began his carcer as a lecturer. He published several volumes of philosophical essays and contributed many articles to magazines. His last appearance in public was at Longfellow's funeral.

The boiler in the Dalton Pail company's manufactory at Dalton, N. Y., exploded, killing Newell Olney and Francis Baker, the proprie tors, and injuring several other persons.

AT the trial in New Haven of the Matley boys and Blanche Douglass, charged with the murder of Jennie Cramer, Professor Cluttenden, of Yale college, a chemical expert, testified that arsonic sufficient to produce death had been found in the body of the deceased.

The remains of Ralph Waldo Emerson were laid at rest in Concord, Mass., with simple ceremonies.

Mas. Scoville, Guiteau's sister and wife of the assassin's counsel, lectured the other night in New York to an audience of about eighty persons. The lecture was mainly devoted to her brother, whom she declared insane, and to religious subjects.

JAMES TRETHWAY, a tramp, was refused lodging by Henry Ames, living in the outekiris of Carbondale, Pa. Shortly afterward Ames, while going from his house to the barn, was shot and mortally wounded by Trethway ; and Ames' wife, upon reaching her husband, was also shot by the tramp, receiving a mortal wound.

A Desperado's Death.

The death of Jesso James recalls the death of another equally desperate bandit, "Sam" Bass, who made the plains of Western Texas the scene of his exploits. This noted robber for whose capture, "dead or alive," a large sum had been offered, was finally entrapped with a comrade in the town of Round Rock, in the summer of 1875, and after a short but bloody struggle, in which the sheriff of Williamson county and two of his deputies, as well as the companion of the outlaw, were left in the streets dead and dying, Bass himself fell from his horse in the outskirts of the town, mortally wounded by a ball from a Winchester rifle. He was buried with much "pomp and circumstance" in the cemetery at Round Rock; songs were composed and sung in his honor, and his grave is even now often strewn with flowers by sympathizing persons. His gang was broken up, many of his partners in crime going up into Misouri and joining Jesse James. Two of them, " Frank " Carter and John Underwood, have figured conspicuously in several recent train robberies.

throughout America from the announcement made by Professor Proctor that the return in nineteen years of the great comet of last sum-mer will cause the destruction of the carth. But while people are becoming so strangely exer-cised over this announcement, an event of far more serious importance, which is taking place to-day, ecems to be almost wholly overlooked. The nature of this most vital subject can be better explained by relating the following expe-tionees: iences:

Bishop E. O. Unsise dependence upon a robust constitution and naturally per ect health, and neglect of proper clothing oubliess sowed the seeds of a disease that goded but some such personal neglect as that Tuesday morning to develop. From the mptoms at first shown, it was thought that sonly trouble was nervous prostration; but his long continuance in a semi-unconsciou-state led to the belief that his illness was seated n a chronic difficulty more mysterious an angerous."

Up to the latter part of last year Mr. Ed-ward F. Rook, a member of the New York stock exchange, was doing business in Wall street, New York. He had everything to en-ourage bim and make life happy, but was the victim of unaccountable uncasines. His exlence as described by one who knew, wa as follows: "At unexpected times, and on occa-sions when he had the greatest reason to fee-loyous he was irritable and hauuted with strange feelings of discontent. He endeavore o check these feelings and appear pleasant, bu t required a great effort to do so; after which ild again relapse into his former morthhe would again relapse into his former mortal mood. This feeling continued for a number of unnths, when he became conscious of an dded scusation of lassitude. He was tirel-even when resing, and although ex-perioncing no acute pain, had dull, aching senaations in his limbs and various parts of his body. Shortly afterward his head began to ache most frequently and his stomach failed be direct persons. Being told that he was

He did not feel especially ill, but could not account for the unusual activity of his brain, nor for the restlessness which seemed to possess bim. In the morning he had but liftle appetite, but was apparently well in other respects. In a few days, however, he be-gan to feel restless and morbid, although he tried earnestly to overcome the feeling which the shado' of some evil seemed to follow him, and he was conscions of a gradual sinking and wasting away of a his physical faculties He had been an carnest and diligent worker, and in his zeal frequently over-taxed his strength, and being ab orbed in his dutics failed to observe the common symptoms with which he was afflicted, thus permitting the work of destruction to go on unheeded. But the end finally came in a most peremptory manner. Shortly before his death he wrote a lotter—the last one he ever indited—in which he spaks as follows: "A belief that death is near affects different minds differently, but

To all candid minds the force of the above facts must come with special power. They show the importance of promptness and siten-tion to the first symptoms of disordered health before disease becomes fixed and hope departs. They show this can successfully be done, and that the dangers which await neglect can only with difficulty be removed. The Congregational churches of Masachusetts report 89,962 members. STANISLAUS METAS, aged nine, arrived at Safford, Arizons, from Stevens' sheep camp with the following dreadful story of the recen Indian massacre : "Before daylight the Indians attacked the camp while we were all asleep. My father and five other men attompted to get their guns, but were too late. The Indians rushed in from all sides and overpowered them before a shot could be fire '. The work of slaughter then began. An Indian put the muzzle of his gun against the head of one man and fired, blowing his brains against the door and walls. I saw them kill my mother and two brothers by beating their brains out with stones. They killed five persons, and tied my father and tortured him most dreadfully. He begged them to spare him, but they only tortured him the more, and finally they split his skull with an ax. An Indian squaw, the wife of one of four friendly Apache sheep herders who worked with us, saved my life by holding me behind her and begging them to spare me. The bridegrooms were the Prince of Wales and the Duke of Connaught, and there were six bridemaids. The royal procession consisted of twelve carriages. The Archbishop of Canterbury was the chief officiating clergyman. The decorations in and around the chapel were rich and elaborate. The royal and princely persons, on alighting, proceeded through a covered way to waiting rooms which had been prepared for the occasion. The chapel was filled with a very brilli-nt assemblage of invited gitests, among whom were the queen's ministers, with Mr. Gladstone at their head, leading members of the opposition in both houses of partiament, the diplomatic corps and military and naval officers of high rank, all in fall uniform and many wearing decorations. At night Windsor was illuminated and a grand ball was and scientists of the world are fast learning that more than on shalf the deaths which occur are more than on -half the deaths which occur are caused by this monstrous secorrge. It is one of the nost deceitful maladies ever known to the human race. It manifests it-self by symptoms so slight and common as to seem unworthy of attention; and yet these very insignificant symptoms are the first starse of the worth complete known. the first stages of the worst complaint known in the history of the world. Thousands of people have died upon troubles that are called heart disease, apoplexy, panemonia, brain fever and similar diseases, when it was in fact Bright's disease of the kidneys. The ravages of this disease have been greatly increased of this discase have been greatly increased from the fact that until recent years no way was known to provent its beginning nor check its increase when it had become once fixed upon the system. Within the past two years, how-ever, we have learned of more than four hun-dred pronounced cases of Bright's disease, many of them much worse than those above described, and most of whom hat been given up by prominent physicians, who have been completely cured. The means used to accom-plic this end has been Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Cure, manufactured in Rochester, N. plich this end has been Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Cure, manufacturied in Rochester, N. in the entire land where it cannot be found. Although Bright's disease is so common in cities, it is still more prevalent in the country. When eminent physicians in the largest cities are not able to recognize Bright's disease, it is only natural that in the country, where there are few physicians of any kind, and those few so unacquainted with the disease as to call it by some other name, it should rage terribly and yet unknown to the ones who are suffering with it. Thousands of people can look back and recall the death of friends from what was supposed to be some common complaint, when it was really Bright's disease, aND No ONE EXEW IT.
