The show case contains a number of others, but special attention is called to Dr. Day's Cure for Piles, as having a greater curative influence over the parts implicated, than any other medicine known.

They deserve the thanks of all interested for their hard work during the progress of the fire. -Wm. M. Sweet, shoemaker, has established his business in Butterfuss' harness shop where he will be pleased to see all his old customers and as many new ones as may favor him with their work. Just the same as before the fire. -At the M. E. conference held in Warren last week, Rev. S. M. Clark was transferred from Ridgway to Palmyra, N. Y. Rev. Mr. Goodrich will occupy the Ridgway M. E. pulpit for the ensuing year. Mr. Clark has done good work here and his many friends will regret that a three-year's lease in a Methodist minister is allowed in one place. -Ron. Alfred Short, of North-East, and Ezekiah Korten, of Korton township were here last Saturday. They are part owners of the Ridgway Bank building. They are strongly in favor of brick buildings, and propose to put up a building 65 feet by 90, three stories high, and will commence work at once. -The owners of the real estate from Broad to Mill streets, the Larned district, are making a strong move to build a solid brick row from street to street. And as nearly all the owners of property on the line are in favor of the movement it will undoubtedly succeed. Contracts have already been made by some parties with J. H. Ross, Jr. for brick from his Mt. Marys kiln. Several buildings will be put under contract this fall, and work commenced. Next spring active operations will commence and brick buildings will be the order of the day. -On Monday morning the Borough Council by resolution permitted the owners of real estate in the burned district to build temporary structures, eight feet high to the roof, on the opposite or court yard side of the street, across from their respective properties. Nearly all the owners of property will avail themselves of this opportunity to put up temporary shanties in which business may be carried on. Commencing at Court street J. W. Morgester began a building Monday morning. The Rhines Bros. followed suit, and in a few days a row of wooden buildings one story high will face the court yard. -The safes which passed through the fire preserved their contents in every instance. Doctor Earley, W. S. Service, E. J. Miller of the Democrat, and A. C. Craig, safes were all in the fire. The safe of Chas. Holes Powell & Kime, A. Swartz Ross, two owned by the Ridgway Bank, J. W. Morgester's, R. I. Campbell's and Horace Little's were taken out of the buildings before the fire reached them. One safe of the Ridgway Bank was tumbled end over end out the front door, breaking one of the stone steps, and yet after the fire the time lock was running as though nothing had happened out of the usual run of things.

Seacey, the composer of the popular Sunday School songs, "Quiver," "Banner," "Ark of Promise," &c. BOSTON, 22 West Third street, Chester, Penna. Price 25 cents each. For sale by all music dealers. A Great Storm for March Next. OTTAWA, Ontario, Sept. 23.-Dr. E. Stone Wilkins, of the Finance department, says in a report just published that the recent gale would sweep from east to west over the continent, says a great storm will strike this planet in March next. He gives this timely warning: "It will first be felt in the North-west Pacific, and will cross the meridian of Ottawa at noon (5 o'clock p. m., London time), on Sunday, March 11, 1883. No vessel smaller than a cutter will be able to live in this tempest. India, the south of Europe, England, and especially the North American continent, will be the theatre of its ravages. As all the lowlands on the Atlantic will be submerged, I advise shipbuilders to place their prospective vessels high up on stocks, and farmers having loose valuables, such as hay, cattle, &c., to remove them to a place of safety. I beg further, most respectfully to appeal to the honorable Minister of Marine that he will peremptorily order up storm drums on all the Canadian coasts not later than the 20th of February, and thus permit no vessel to leave the harbor. If this is not done hundreds of lives will be lost and millions of dollars' worth of property destroyed."

Millions Given Away.

MILLIONS of Bottles of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds, have been given away as Trial Bottles of the large size. This enormous outlay would be disastrous to the proprietors, were it not for the rare merits possessed by this wonderful medicine. Call at G. G. Messenger's Drug Store, and get a Trial Bottle free, and try for yourself. It never fails to cure. -Overland Mail note paper just received and for sale as before the fire at THE ADVOCATE office, South street. -Powell & Kime have hauled their lumber on the ground and commenced Wednesday morning to put up a shanty 20x80, which will be ready in a few days, when they will be ready to do business as usual.

Fire in Ridgway

LOSS NEARLY $70,000 INSURANCE $31,000

773. THE BUSINESS PORTION OF THE TOWN IN RUINS.

Friday morning, Sept. 29, 1882, will long be remembered by the citizens of Ridgway. At about 2 o'clock a fire was discovered in the Democrat block, by a son of G. T. Wheeler, and at once the alarm was given. Jno. R. Kime, night watchman at Hyde's store heard the cry, saw the flames, and at once ran up Centre and South streets giving the alarm. The Court house bell, Grace Church bell, and some other bells were rung, and in a very short time the alarm was generally given throughout the Borough. Soon the news was received at Grant's tannery, and its whistle aroused the people there. From all directions crowds of men, women, and children came running to the scene of disaster. Wm. McVey and Chas. B. Earley climbed upon the awning in front of the Democrat office and saw flames leaping from the side of the wall next a flue at the rear of the printing office. E. E. Willard looked up the stairs, and saw flames issue from the Democrat office, or right hand side of the hall. Mrs. Wheeler who occupied rooms opposite the Democrat office was awakened, and saw flames issuing from under the door of the Democrat office. Mrs. Wheeler and family escaped by the rear of the building leaving their clothes and household effects behind. So that it is quite evident that to a defective flue may be attributed another great loss of property. And another warning that the building of fires should be in the hands of men who are competent to do the work in a manner insuring safety to property. This particular fire was built after night by men working on the court house during its erection, and by lamp light, so that it is not to be much wondered at that "defective flue" should be written as the cause of Ridgway's greatest fire. The work of the fire was rapid and in both an easterly and westerly direction.

The theatre of the fire was on the north side of Main street, being bounded on the east by Broad street, on west by Mill street, and on the north by a street running along Hyde's race by the Hyde & Ross planing mill. As building after building caught and was being devoured by the flames hundreds of people were busy carrying goods from stores, household goods, and all manner of articles to places of safety. People who had no interest whatsoever in the property worked like Trojans to save property. Of course the excitement was great but there was not many rash acts to be recorded, such as throwing the barrels from upper windows, and carelessly carrying down the more delicate feather beds. Where all did well it would not be in good taste to single out any particular individual to whom should be awarded the crown of superiority. The entire territory from the starting point of the fire to Broad street on the east was burned over. An old barn twenty feet at the rear of Powell & Kime's store being the solitary exception. Across Broad street from the fire a distance of 75 feet, stands the Hyde House a large three story building, which was saved by a great effort. Carpets were thrown over the exposed end of the building, and a stream from Hyde's store hose was constantly playing on the building until the danger was past. Twelve years ago last June Main street was burned from the Ridgway Bank to Broad street, and the Hyde House was saved that time, although the exposed end was black and blistered by the fire. This time the paint is severely colored. On Mill street, at the western boundary of the burned district stands the house of Edward Durby, an old and esteemed citizen of this place 82 years of age. This house, a one and one half story structure was saved by almost superhuman efforts, and stands as the sole relic of the great fire. On the street running along the race one lot from Mill street at the rear of Campbell's buildings was situated a dwelling belonging to Mrs. M. L. Ross both of which were saved. At the rear of the row burned there was a great many sheds, lumber piles, etc. And some of the lumber piles were in close proximity to the planing mill situated on the north side of race street. By putting carpets on the planing mill and keeping a steady supply of water on the building it was with great difficulty saved. The men on the mill worked like heroes. There was scarcely a breath of air stirring during the progress of the fire, while the moon shone brightly down on the scene of desolation. In a few hours, or at six o'clock the flames subsided, and where was once a row of prosperous business places, was at that hour a smouldering mass of ruins.

Rathburn, loss $1,500; insurance $900. Mr. Rathburn saved nearly all his household furniture.

After the Horse is Stolen.

An old adage runs: "Bust the barn door after the horse is stolen. This might be made to apply to Ridgway in the matter of the recent disastrous fire which has made such a large hole in the business centre of our Borough. Of course we can bow in acquiescence and say that it is for the best, which is true beyond a doubt, and yet a rebellious spirit prompts us to wish that it had been otherwise. Even with the prospect of a stately brick block to take the place of the less pretentious wooden row burned, we cannot help regretting that part at least of that row was not saved. The theory is advanced by many that the fire could have been stopped at Rhine's hall, as well as earlier than it was overcome at Derby's residence. And some even think that the fire could have been confined in the space between Powell's store and Rhine's hall. Be this as it may of one thing we are all certain our arrangements for putting out fire were of the most primitive sort, and with the exception of Hyde's hose and water arrangement at his store, the facilities were confined almost exclusively to the bucket brigade, composed of volunteer workers, while they did nobly, the means was at best a primitive one. Water plugs there were along the street but no hose to attach to them or else they were in such condition that it was impossible to attach to them. The lesson is now learned that a well directed fire company could have confined the fire to the building in which it was first discovered, and that a few hundred dollars invested in proper fire apparatus would have saved thousands of dollars' worth of property. For years THE ADVOCATE has urged the necessity of having an organized force for protection against fire. And now the horse is gone. May we learn wisdom for future emergencies. By the time the brick block is ready to be occupied let's have a fire engine and hose company.

Dwelling House Burned.

On the afternoon of Friday, Sept. 29, 1882, the dwelling house of John Mann near Centreville, was entirely consumed by fire, together with the contents. Loss on house $1,000; no insurance. Michael Mann who occupied the house lost a lot of potatoes, butter, etc., in the cellar valued at $200, also all his household effects, wearing apparel of himself and family amounting to about $350 more. Michael Mann is a hard working man and is deserving of sympathy in his loss serious loss.

A Golden Wedding.

Rarely is one privileged to witness the celebration of a Golden Wedding without having the joy of the occasion marred, in a measure, by vacant places, and yet this was the peculiar joy of Mr. Russell W. and Mary P. Brown of Jones township, Elk Co., Pa., who celebrated the golden anniversary of their wedding on Sept. 25. The day was all that could be desired for beauty. All nature seemed to unite in making it a day of rejoicing. The sun never shone brighter and the few fleecy clouds that were and there decked the deep blue sky brought their tribute of loveliness to add to the perfection of the day, while the few highly colored autumnal leaves on the maple and sumac gave an enhanced beauty to nature, they also spoke of the summer season as past, but the mass of bright green foliage told of a freshness and vitality which prophesied at least some days of life and usefulness yet to come.

About noon the guests had assembled. It was in fact a family gathering, consisting alone of near relatives except the officiating minister and wife. All the children (six in number) are living, married, and with their partners were present, save Mr. Geo. H. Allen, of Syracuse, N. Y., whose absence was exceedingly regretted, but compelled by business engagements. One brother and two sisters of the aged groom were present. One of these sisters being bridesmaid fifty years ago. But one death has occurred in the family, that a grandchild, an only child of Mrs. Olive Brown Meyer.

After an hour of social intermingling the company repaired to the parlor, where after a short appropriate address to the happy couple and prayer by Rev. T. S. Negley, commending them to the same loving Heavenly Father who has supported them in times of discouragement and guided them in times of perplexity in the past, they with joyous tears, received the hearty congratulations of all present.

Among the many presents received were finely upholstered easy chairs and tete-a-tete from the children. A large group of the three sons. A set of delicate china cup and saucers from Gen. Thos. L. Kane, and a pair of gold spectacles for each from Col. A. I. Wilcox.

The summons soon came to repair to the dining room where a rich repast was in readiness. One of the extension tables upon which was spread the wedding feast was the product of a tree (golden willow) planted by the aged groom in his young days. And it was loaded as only our good farmer's wives are accustomed to spread such a festive board.

But the best wine had been reserved till the last, which was the gathering of the entire company into the parlor, and several hours spent in the richest of social enjoyment. Incidents in the early struggles and pioneer life of the bride and groom were detailed and also brief sketches of the lives of each of the children were given by the second son, W. Wallace Brown, Esq., of Bradford.

As the lights and shadows which had checked the lives of each of these were painted in word-pictures, smiles and tears chased each other in rapid succession over the countenance of each present. Words, never to be forgotten, of affection, counsel, encouragement and hope, coming from full and joyous hearts, were spoken by the aged parents to their children, reminding them of a patriarch's blessing.

These exercises were interspersed with appropriate music. It was with regret that the company separated late in the evening, having participated in the celebration of a golden wedding which in striking points of interest was remarkable. May these, their sunset days of life ever be tinged with golden colors.
