went to the expense of a new shirt the other day, and found himself, when he awoke in the morning, crawling out between two of the shortest sittehes. We knew of eartsin tailors in this locality who make coats in that eccentric manner. To get the worth of one's money now-a-days, and dress elegantly. It is necessary to buy your clothes at the fashionable bazaar of Granville Stokes, No. 607 Chestmut attest.

A LIFE SAVED.—This moved we saw a misorable, dejected looking man sweating along Chestmut attest, in heavy, uncomfortable looking garments. The poor fellow was a word to give up the ghost and succumb to the fervent heat. An hour afterwards we saw poor fellow suspect ready to give up ineganes and suc-cumb to the fervent heat. An hour afterwards we saw the same individual looking comfortable and happy. He informed as that he had taken a bath, and then ob-tained for himself a seasonable suit at the Brown Stone Clothing Hall of Rockhill & Wilson, Nos. 603 and 605 Oheatnut street, above Sixth.

Mr. Mann was followed by Judge Doran and John Mr. Reed. Eagra, in able and eloquent addresses. They alluded to the fact that Judge Corrad had three everal times occupied judicial positions in this city. They spoke with great feeling of his extraordinary genius and ability, and desired the court to render the tribute to his memory so feelingly alluded to by the gentlemen that preceded them.

Judge Duran's remarks were nost felicitous and pathetic, be having been for many years associated with Judge Conrad in a judicial capacity.

Judge Allison said that he concurred in all that had been so well eaid, by those who had first epoken, of the worth and merits of both Judge Conrad and Mr. Tyson. With Judge Conrad an ability the conficially connected for one year as a brother Judge of this Court, and with him had often sat in the trial of important issues, and from the opportunities thus afforded, he could bear testimony to his communding shilty. From him he had received lessons of wisdom, which indicated a grasp of intellect and a mental power possessed but by few. Judge Conrad was endowed with a master mind that would have been felt and acknowledged in any land in wich his fortunes might have been east. His genius was acknowledged by all. Judge Kolley had said that he never passed from an interview with Judge Corrad without feeling that he bad passed from the presence of his master; the spirit of that remark he could well understand, for no one could be associated with him, officially or otherwise, without feeling that OLBARED. The addenness of the announcement of the death of the two whose names had just been mentioned had come amon him with stunning effect. A few moments before leaving home he had glanced into one of the morning journsis; and at the head of one column, was a record of the decease of his departed brother, and upon the same page followed the novice of the death of the Hon. Job R Tyson, two names connected with the history of Philadelphia, both of whom had made their mark upon their time, and had filled offices of profit and distinction conferred upon them by their fellow officens. The most important lesson taught us by these dispensations of Providence, is the uncertainty of the held which any of us have of life, and of the more important truth to each of us, that it is not all of life to live, but that we may so live that, should the summous come to us as suddenly as it was announced to Judge Conrad, we may be prepared to obey it, and to render a faithful account of our stewardship upon carth.

It had been suggested that the court do now addigurn, as a tes-luony of regard for one so lately a courtment part of it; upon consideration, he had determined that it was proper to assent to the motion; although it might be attended with some inconventience to those brought here to-day to prosecute or to defend the pleas of the Commonwealth. As an evidence, also, that the produc-tion was well received, we may state that the usual rele of allotting thirty minutes to the discussion of these monthly essays was dispensed with on this co-casion. Of the various reports received from different committees, that which was given by Mr. John C. Bliss, chairman of the committee on Gremen's prayer meet ings, was especially interesting. From it we learn that meetings for prayor are now being regularly held in twenty-two of the companies houses; also, that many of the drempt have associated themselves with differ-ent churches since this work was commenced in their schalf, and that as many as seven firemen were admitted o he communion of a single church in this city on ast Sabhath. MEETING OF THE YOUNG MEN'S CHRISTIAN Association, Notwith tanding the intense heat of the weather, there was a very large attendance, the main floor of the Church being occupied by members of the Association, principally, whilst the galleries were filed with ladies. The principal festure in the order of the exercises lest evening was the reading of an erray by Mr. William Getty, upon "The Relation of Young Min's Christian Associations to the Church."

The effort was a credit ble one in every respect; a livide ion large, pe haps, considering the state of the me-ourly and the host of business on hand to be subsequently disposed of. It exceeded the unaily alloited time some eight minutes, the privilege of concluding having, however, been grained to Mr Getty by a unant moun rote. We have neither room for reproducing much of the seasy or making comments upon it, but would merely say that the actual position of Christian associations, and their unquestionable uncludences will be accorded to the seasor of making comments upon it, but would merely say that the actual position of Christian associations, and their unquestionable uncludences will be accorded to the seasor of making comments upon it, but would merely say that the actual position of Christian associations, and their unquestionable uncludences are colearly set forth, that all who feels a proper interest in their prai-eworthy labors for the Christianizing of young men could not but have responded to the sensition of the christianizing of young men could not but have responded to the sensition.
