Stoughtp Virginia, Kelly, from Richmond, via Norfolk, 30 hours, with make and passengers to Thomas whoter, Jr. On the 22d lost, off Binepuset, spoke in brig loader, for New York, with loss of foremast tion. Americans, Whigs, Democrats, and Republicans, have found the solid platform on which they may securely stand:

That men of all pursuits in life—farmers and mechanics—miners and furnace men—laborers and capitalists—traders and transporters—have arrived at the knowledge, that they have a common interest in endeavouring so to diversify the domands for labor as to bring together the producers and consumers of the country.

That they are awake to the destructive tendencies of a system, which burdens the nation with a foreign debt that already counts by hundreds of millions—requiring the remittance of probably thirty millions of dollars, annually, for the payment of interest alone:

That they are unwilling further to sustain a polloy which condemns their own coal and ore to remain useless in they ground, while draining the country of the precious metals to pay for foreign from:

That they do not deafer lorger to be compelled to pay for foreig, labor, while American laborers are badlyfed and badly clo-hed, because unemployed:

That the belief in a necessity for total change in our domestic and foreign policy is rapidly becoming general throughout the State:

That it needs but union among ourselves to secure the permanent adoption of a system that shall restore prosperity to the per ple, harmony to the relations of the States, and dignity and chavacter to the administration of the Federal Governm nt:

The power to accomplish anch a change, fellow-citizens, is in the hat de of Pennsylvania, and it is needed only that she exercise it. Placed as he is, between the North and the St utn—great as she is in her natural resources—powerful as she is, by reason of her wealth and population—she may, if she will, guide and direct the policy of the Union Blind, however, to her true interests, she has, but too often, permitted herself to be harnessed to the car of some ambit ous and unprincipled demngogue, who, in consideration of favors to himself, has helped to secrifice her dearest interests—lending his sid to the closing of her mills and furnness, and to the expulsion of her work when, and furcely depriving her farmers of the advantage resulting from having a market near at hand. The consequences exhibit themselves in the fact that she has had no real influence in the Union—her votes having been obtained by means of frauds, like that of "Folk, Dallas, and the tariff of '42," while she herself, when asking attention to her interests, has been treated as a mire paper, seeking to be fed at the public cost. Such, fellow citizens, have been the effects of permitting herself to be led when she should have placed herself in the lead—of endorsing the opinions of others, when she should boldy have proclaimed her own.
