The batteries of the Confederater yesterday were scientifically worked. This afternoon General Order No. 18 was read to all the troops under Gen. McDowell's command, both at Centreville and Fairfax Court House, prohibiting theft of every description and kind, and enjoining respect for persons and property, stating that the penalty for its violation would be incarceration in Alexandria jail, and for crimes of magnitude the severest panalties known to military law. The order also stated that we had invaded Virginia to restore to persons their lawful invaded Virginia to restore to persons their lawful rights, and to scoure their good will. Boldiers are rights, and to secure their good will. Boldiers are not at any time to be the judges of the acts of the Southern people, and to take upon themselves the propriety of punishment. This would frustrate the designs of the Government. To this the troops acceded by the clapping of hands and huzzahs for their commander. Pains are taken by responsible men visiting the seat of war from Washington to impress upon the people that the Government will protect them in the enjoyment of their rights, and that this war is for the purpose of maintaining our nationality. MELANOHOLY DROWNING CASE.—A sad of drowning took place near York station, on its of the with a children of the Nerth Pennsylvapia hadilroad, on Tiday afternoon, about four o'clock. The tents are pitched on a level part of the field, adjoining the township line road. Colonel Geary will be permanently placed upon the park next week. The unassuming, energetic efforts of Colonel Geary to provide for the well-being of the men, have made him popular with both soldiers and civilians. Hacks are running all day to the camp from the Frankford terminus of the Fifth and Sixth-streets Railroad. The fare to camp, per hack and car, is seventeen cents. Hundreds of relatives of the soldiers availed themselves of the accommodations to visit the park and we noticed many aged women trudging along the plank road and turnpike with baskets and bundles of good things, sparing them selves the luxury or a r de, to devote the offerings of affection to their sons. The good behavior of the soldiers, and the kindness of the neighbors, have attached the one to the other. Whole companies are fested at a time by the gentry and good-folk of Milltown, Fox Chase, and other villages near by, while there has been no single cause of complaint from any quarter whatever.
