Ward, of Richmond, Virginia. This man had ordered their removal from Cocklin's stables, in this city, to Baltimere, and it is thought from thence to Richmond. The horses are fine mals, and the whole is worth about $5,000.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL. THE MONEY MARKET.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 10, 1861. Prices at the Stock Board to-day were firm, but the businesstransacted were quite limited in amount. City sixes, of the old issue, advanced 1, and Lehigh Valley Railroad stock gained !. The money market is very quiet, the only movement worthy of note being the subscription to the new national loan, which continues to be active, and daily increasing. The statement of coal tonnage over the Delaware, Luckawanna, and Western Railroad shows an increase for the year 1861, over 1860, of nearly forty thousand tons. The tonnage from the Lackawanna region this season has been more than one hundred and fifty thousand tons greater than in 1860, while the Schuylkill region falls off in its production some three hundred thousand tons, and the Lehigh region about one hundred thousand tons. The working of the agreement by which the great carriers from the anthracite regions attempted to put down competition and give each interest its fair proportion of the tonnage, appears to be of advantage to the Lackawanna region and disastrous to the Schuylkill region. The United States Railroad and Mining Register comments upon these facts, and urges anew a measure that we have repeatedly advocated in common with other papers-namely, the employment of steam colliers to ply between this city and Eastern markets. The Register says that unquestionably the commercial management of the coal trade is beset with embarrassments, arising, first, out of the tendency to over-supply, and, secondly, from the fluctuations in consumption, according to the activity of manufactures. This fact, though, instead of inclining Schuylkill interests to treaties with other interests, should rather make them hesitate to bind themselves through emergencies which cannot be foreseen, because in time of reverse in the market, individual operators in the Schuylkill are confronted by corporations that both mine and sell, especially in the Lackawanna. Hence, when undue competition prevails, it would seem to be the part of sound policy on the part of those carriers whose customers are individual operators, to impose such charges for transportation as would at least enable their customers to hold their ground in the general market. This present season, the Schuylkill tonnage has been saved from still further decrease by the low sea freights from Richmond to ports East. For instance, for several months the freights to Boston have been fifty cents lower than the freights prevailing in corresponding time last year; the same is true of sea freights to other ports. These low freights are due to the check given to the coasting trade by the war, whereby additional coasters have become colliers, the owners preferring a small compensation to idleness.

Indeed, since the organization of the Nesone honing Railroad Company is a challenge by the Lehigh to the Schuylkill to prepare for a division of the Mahanoy coal tonnage, it may in turn behoove the Schuylkill to put a quietus upon all Lehigh attempts after Schuylkill tonnage, with a few steam colliers between this port and New York. which, by the sea route, could make money on a charge of seventy-five cents a ton. With coal freights to New York reduced to that limitation, the Nesquehoning would stand knocking at the Counterfeiters seem to be particularly busy of late, and withal rather successful. The number of bank-note plates in use, with the character of which it is impossible for the great mass of the people to be acquainted, furnishes great facilities for the success of these frauds. The fraud lately noticed of counterfeit bills on the High Street Bank of Providence, R. I., is in extensive circulation, and we hear daily of the reissue of older counterfeits, of which the descriptions are likely to have been forgotten. The hard times have operated disastrously upon thieves and burglars, for while people who came honestly by the goods in their possession could find no market for them, it seemed hardly worth while for villains to steal goods that would be tenfold more difficult to sell. Hence the wits of the thieving fraternity have been more concentrated upon that class of frauds that would be most likely to bring money directly into their hands, such as the passing of counterfeit notes and receiving good money in change, and the picking of pockets. Our readers should keep themselves well provided with reliable counterfeit detectors, and exercise particular vigilance in receiving money from strangers, to see that it is stocks and money in that city to-day, says: The stock market is quiet to-day, and very firm in price on most descriptions. The leading feature of the dealings is the continued rise in Federal securities. The six per cent. bonds of 1881 have now curities. The six per cent. bonds of 1881 have now returned to the price ruling previous to the battle of Bull Run. The coupons are 90½a90½, the registered 80½90. The other issues are also held higher, and much of the business of the commission houses is made up of orders for either bonds or notes. All the old issues of sixes are scarce, the few lots which had been returned from Europe having been absorbed a leag time since. The sales of the sixes of 1862, 1867, and 1868 have been in small lots only. The treasury note market is firm. The six per cents are seiling at 98½a99, which is the highest point yet touched. It is reported that Mr. Chase has exhausted his authority, and the last payments hose exhausted his authority, and the last payments were made yesterday. The notes are wanted by importers and the banks, the latter expecting to importers and the banks, the fatter expecting to meether in part payment on the second issue of fifty million of the national loan.

Southern bonds are dull. Missouris are in good demand at 45 a 42. Tennessees are weak and fell off to 42. These are pressed on the market, for fear of confiscation. Georgias sold at 60. North Carolinas are steady at 623a65

MULE AND WAGON CAMP AT PERRYVILLE .-The encampments about Perryville, on the Susque-banna, are quite a sight to the denizens, who, living hanns, are quite a sight to the denizens, who, living in a quiet neighborhood, are unaccustomed to the sterring character of war. There are hundreds, perhaps thousands, of wagons at this place. Droves of mules are constantly going forward to Perryville, and those the Government officers purchase are branded on, near the shoulder, with "U.S." The camp, as yet, is only in a state of formation, and many more men and animals are expected to be placed on the ground in a short time. A number of Philadelphia officers are stationed at this place.
