WANTED. SMITH & RANDOLPH,

ja6-1m 16 South THIRD Street. 5-20. U.S.

The undersigned, as General Subscription Agent, I authorized by the Secretary of the Treasury to continue the sale of this popular Loan, and TRE DAYS public actics will be given of discontinuance. ABOUT TWO HUNDRED MILLIONS remain unsold, and this amount is scarcely sufficient to furnish a basis now being formed in every part of the Country. But a sorbed, the demand from Europe, Germany especially being quite setive. As it is well known that the Secretary of the Treasury has ample and unfailing resources in the duties on imports, internal revenues, and in the issue of interest-bearing Legal Tender Treasury Sotes, it is nearly sertain that it will not be necessary for him for a long time to come to issue further permanent Loans, the interest These considerations must lead to the prompt conclution that the time is not far distant when these "Five-Twenties" will sell at a handsome premium, as was the result with the "Seven-thirty" Loan, when it was all and sould no longer be subscribed for at par This is a

SIX PER CENT. LOAN,

the interest and principal being payable in soin, thus yielding about RIGHT per cent. Per annum at the present premium on gold. It is called "Five-Twenty." from the fact that whilst the Bonds may run for twenty years, yet the Government has the right to pay them offer sold at par, at any time after fee years. The interest is paid half yearly on the first days of No-Subscribers can have Coupon Bonds which are payable to bearer and issued for $50, $100, $500, and $1,000. or Registered Bonds of similar denominations, and in addition $5,000 and $10,000. These "Five-Twenties" cannot be taxed by States. sities, towns, or counties, and the Government tax or them is only one and a half per cent, on the amount of income, when the income exceeds six hundred dollars per annum. Income from all other investments such as mortgages, railroad stocks, bonds, &c., mus Bay from three to five per cent, tak on the income Banks and Bankers throughout the sountry will continne to dispose of the Bonds, and all orders by mail or bing, or at farthest in FOUR days. This arrangement will be gratifying to parties who want the Bonds on payment of the money, and will greatly increase the sales. JAY COOKE.

The Treasury Department having perfected arrange-ments for the prompt delivery of Bonds, Subscribers will be enabled to receive them at the time of subseri-

ARMY OF THE POTOMAC.

Special Correspondence of The Press. ] OULPEPER COURT HOUSE, Jan. 12, 1864. Mrs. Matilda Rixey and Miss Annie Burrows re ceived a pass from Lieut. Egbert, signed by Gen. Robinson, to visit Mr. Browning, residing on the Sperryville road, twelve miles from this town. Dr. Heard furnished them with an ambulance, and they left this town on Saturday morning, with the inlett his town on Saturday morning, with the intention of returning in the evening. When within about half a mile of Mr. Browning's, they were met by Private William Scott, of the 4th Virgints Cavalry. He demanded their pass, and refused to return it. They begged him to allow them to go to Mr. Browning's, and return with the ambulance, as their having the ambulance was a civility shown them by the Union officers; but he refused in very rough language, and told them they would have to go to Richmond, or walk home. They then requested him to carry them to the nearest headquarquested him to carry them to the nearest headquarters of any troops. He started, and carried them as far as Slate Mills, where they remained all night, with the intention of starting again in the morning for Madison. In the morning Scott sent word to them, before they were up, that the horses had got loose, and gone backeto camp; he then left, with the driver of the ambutance. The opinion of the ladies is, that Scott had smuggled the horses away in the night. Through the kindness of the neighbors, the ladies rode to within two miles of our pickets, and walked from that noint to Chipeper Court House, a distance om that point to Culpeper Court Rouse, a distance of ten miles, arriving here this morning. Scott knew who they were. They think that the ambu-lance will be sent back, as their friends assure them that they will properly present the matter to the rebel officers. As soon as possible, a squadron of one hundred and fifty picked men were despatched in pursuit of the captured driver and ambulance. After travelling about sixty miles, they returned with Lieut. Wyginton and six men, belonging to the 6th Virginia Cavalry. One man was drawn out from between two beds, while two ladies pretended to be natching a brief repose above him. Reconnoissances toward Sperryville have disco vered large quantities of grain and other stores, which will no doubt be ours ere this is published. The negrest rebels are at Madison Court House, and do not number over fifty men. The men are grow-ing insubordinate, and threaten to help themselves from the commissarit; already they have taken all the stores from the sutlers. Every man and boy, from sixteen to sixty, is being gathered into Lee's army. Our scouts tell me that large numbers of men are concealed in the mountains, to avoid the conscripting officer.

The 1st Division of the 3d Corps shifted their quarters to a large belt of woods, a mile or two in advance of their old position. It provokes the men to have new quarters to build, after they have just got anugly settled. The snow is slowly wearing away, and the weather is gradually growing warmer. A Miss West got married to day to a Green Mountain boy; all the ladies are in convulsions about it. They disclaim all knowledge of her; say she is from North Carolina, and is a "Tar Heel." B. Re-Enlistments. Professor Saunders gives the following views of the best mode of obtaining recruits. They have already been practically tested in the Twenty-fourth ward, and there can be no question of their efficiency: [From yesterday's Bulletin.]

ward, and there can be no question of their efficiency:

[From yesterday's Bulletin.]

Peculiar circumstances have made the undersigned acquainted with important facts respecting enlistments, and constitute his apology for these brief statements. The present unanimity of our citizens, of all political parties, for the prosecution of this war against rebellion, is both amazing and delightful. The desire to fill the quots of the city by voluntary enlistments, is so great, that extremely poor men, to escape the draft, will very generally subscribe five dollars, and men of means give proportionally to supply the ward bounties. So willing are men to enlist, that the writer confidently believes that a ward bounty of fifty dollars, with responsible names that a will be critarily and immediately paid, in addition to all the other bounties, will soon fill the quota of every ward.

The following arrangements are the beat he could devise to raise the money and secure the recruits in any ward disposed to make the experiment:

Let a war meeting of the citizens of the ward be called; let a few patriotic and eloquent speakers, easily obtained, make addresses; let resolutions be passed; let a finance committee of six, eight, or ten, be appointed in each precinct, to obtain subscriptions by personal visitation made with the greatest despatch; let every member of the finance committee bear in mind that success will depend, under God, on the amount collected and that a small additional sum collected will immediately send forward to the fields another volunteer; let an executive committee of eight or ten of the most energetic and interested gentlemen of the whole ward be appointed, who shall be emptywered to success their number by electing the best workers to be found in the ward, as they shall be developed; let this committee ind some one who will onneen to act as a chairman, and who will be willing, for the short period necessary, to give his whole time to the cause; let him be supplied by the treasurer with the means to pay pr and thus superceue the hercessty of a resort to the Graft.

Good judges, among whom is Marshai Lane, of the Fourth district, think that the muster-rolls can yet be so altered that all our soldiers re-enlisted in the field may be accredited to the quotas of their respective wards. If this cannot be done, however, each ward will doubtless regard it both a pleasure and a duty to extend its bounties to its own re enlisted patriotic herces, including the officers to whom, without exciting jealousy, the same sum could be given by the Executive Committee in the grateful form of some suitable memento.

I have the day, we have yet preserved our honor, and no one need blush for the Army of the Potomae. I have lost this battle because my force was too small. I again repeat that I am not responsible for this, and I say it with the earnestness of a general who feels in his heart the loss of every brave man who has been needlessly sacrificed to-day. I still hope to retrieve our fortunes, but to do thus the Government must view the matter in the same earnest light that I do. You must send me very large reinforcements, and send them at once. I shall draw back to this side of the Westlew have I shall draw back to this side of the Westlew have lost nothing but men, and those the best we have. In addition to what I have already said, I only wish to say to the President that I think he is wrong in regarding me as ungenerous when I said that my force was too weak; I merely intimated a truth which to-day has been too plainly proven. If at this instant, I could dispose of (10,000) ten thousand fresh men, I could gain the victory to-morrow. I know that a few thousand more men would have changed the battle from a defeat to a victory. As it is, the Government must not, and cannot, hold me responsible for the result.

I feel too earnestly to night—I have seen too many dead and wounded comrades, to feel otherwise than that the Government has not sustained the army. If you do not do so now, the game is lost.

If I save this army now, I tell you plainly that I went on thanks to you, or to any other person in Washington.

You have done your best to sacrifice this army.

** A. LINCOLN. FOURTH OF JULY LETTER TO THE PRESIDENT On the 4th I sent the following to the President HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC, Barrison's Bar, James River, July 4, 1862.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,

Bartison's Bar, James River, July 4, 1862.

To the President:

I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your despatch of the 2d inst.

I shall make a stand at this place, and endeavor to give my men the repose they so much require.

After sending my communication on Tuesday, the enemy attacked the left of our lines, and a flerce battle ensued, lasting until night. They were repulsed with great slaughter.

Had their attack succeeded, the consequences would have been disastrous in the extreme. This closed the hard fighting which had continued from the afternoon of the 26th ult., in a daily series of engagements wholly unparalleled on this continent for determination and slaughter on both sides.

The mutual loss in killed and wounded is enormour—that of the enemy certainly greatest. On Tuesday morning, the lat, our army commenced its movement from Huxall's to this point; our line of defence there being too extended to be maintained by our weakened forces. Our train was immense, and about 4 P. M. on the 2d a heavy atorm of rain began, which continued during the entire day, and until the forenoon of yesterday.

The roads became horelible. Troops, artillery, and wasons moved on steadily, and our whole army, men and material, was finally broughtsately into camp. The last of the wagons reached here at noon yeaterday. The exhaustion was very great, but the army preserved its morale and would have repelled any attack which the enemy was in condition to make.

We now occupy a line of heights, about two miles. any attack which the enemy was in condition to make.

We now occupy a line of heights, about two miles from the James, a plain extending from there to the river. Our front is about three miles long. These heights command our whole position, and must be maintained. The gun-boats can render valuable support upon both flanks. If the enemy attack us in front, we must hold our ground as we best may, and at whatever cost.

Our position can be carried only by overwhelming numbers. The spirit of the army is excellent; stragglers are finding their regiments, and the soldiers exhibit the best results of discipline. Our position is by no means impregnable, especially as a stragglers are finding their regiments, and the solicier exhibit the best results of discipline. Our position is by no means impregnable, especially as a morass extends on this side of the high ground from our centre to the James on our right. The enemy may attack in vast numbers, and if so, our front will be the scene of a desperate battle, which, if lost, will be decisive. Our army is fearfully weakened by killed, wounded and prisoners. I can not now approximate to any statement of our losses, but we were not beaten in any conflict.

The enemy were unable, by any efforts, to drive as from the field. Never did such a change of base, involving a retrograde movement, and under increasant attacks from a most determined and vastly more numerous foe, partake so little of disorder. We have lost no guns, except twenty-five, on the field of battle, twenty-one of which were lost by the giving way of McCall's division under the onset of auperior numbers.

Our communications by the James river are not secure. There are points where the enemy can establish themselves with cannon or muskery, and command the river, and where it is not certain that our gunboats can drive them out. In case of this, or in case our front is broken, I will still make every effort to preserve at least the personnel of the army, and the events of the last few days leave no question that the troops will do all that their country can ask.

Send such reinforcements as you can; I will do tion that the troops will do all that their country can ask.

Send such reinforcements as you can; I will do what I can. We are shipping our wounded and sick, and landing supplies. The Navy Department should co-operate with us to the extent of its resources. Captain Rogers is doing all in his power in the kindest and most efficient manner.

When all the circumstances are known, it will be acknowledged by all competent judges that the movement just completed was unparalleled in the annals of war. Under the most difficult circumstances, we have preserved our trains, our guns, our material, and, above all, our honor.

LETTERS PROM THE PRESIDENT.

WASHINGTON, July 5, 1862—7 A. M.

Major General G. B. McClellan, Commanding Army Potomac:

A thousand thanks for the relief your two despatches, of 12 and 1 P. M. yesterday, gave me. Be assured the heroism and skill of yourself and officers and men is, and forever will be, appreciated.

If you can hold your present position, we shall hive the enemy yet.

WAR DEFARTMENT.

If you can hold your present position, we shall hive the enemy yet.

A. LINCOLN.

WAR DEPARTMENT,

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 4, 1862.

I understand your position, as stated in your letter, and by General Marcy. To reinforce you so as to enable you to resume the offensive within a month, or even six weeks, is impossible. In addition to that arrived and now arriving from the Potomac, (about 100,000, I suppose), and about 10,000 I hope you will receive from Burnside very soon, and about 5,000 from Hunter a little later, I do not see how I can send you another man within a month. Under these circumstances, the defensive for the present must be your only care. Save the army first where you are, if you can, and secondly by removal, if you must. You, on the ground, must be the judge as to which you will attempt, and of the means for effecting it. I but give it as my opinion that, with the aid of the gunboats, and the reinforcements mentioned above, you can hold your present position, provided, and so long as you can keep the James river open below you. If you are not tolerably condient you can keep the James river open, you had better remove as soon as possible. I do not reinember that you have expressed any apprehension as to the danger of having your communications cut on river below you; yet I do not suppose it can have escaped your attention.

P. S.—If at any time you feel able to take the offensive, you are not restrained from doing so.

TRLEGRAM FROM M'CLELLAN.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAG,
As the boat is starting I have only time to acknowledge the receipt of telegram by Gen. Marcy.
The enemy have not attacked. My position is very strong and daily becoming more so. If not attacked to day, I shall laugh at them.

I have been anxious about my communications. I had a long consultation about it with Flag-officer Goldsborough last night. He is confident he can keep the river open.

He should have all gunboats possible. Will see him again this morning. My men in splendid spirits, and anxious to try it again.

Alarm yourself as little as possible about me, and don't lose confidence in this army.

While general-in-chief and director of the operation of all our armies in the field, I had become deeply impressed with the importance of adopting and carrying out certain views regarding the conduct of the war, which, in my judgment, were assential to its objects and its success.

During an active campaign of three months in the enemy's country these were so fully confirmed that I conceived it a duty, in the critical position we then occupied, not to withhold a candid expression of the more important of these views from the commander-in-chief, whom the Constitution places at the head of the armies and navies, as well as the Government of the nation.

The "Life of Archbishop Hughes," also published by Messrs. Peterson, is a hasty and badly executed performance. Out of 54 pages, (nominally 74,) only fourteen are occupied with the biography. The remainder consists of details, scissored from the newspapers, of the lying-in-state and other funeral ceremonics. So carelessly has the matter been put together that (p. 36) it is stated that "the music will be cf a splendid character;" "the array of musical talent will be quite heavy;" Mozar's Requiem "will be mang;" "proper arrangements will be made;" and ex-Sheriff John Kelly "will no doubt" do Governor Brough's Inaugurat.

The new Governor of Ohio concludes his receases with the following sensible thoughts:

There are but two ways in which the restoration of peace and the Union is to be secomplished: first, the unconditional surrender of the leaders and the abandonment of the rebellion; or, second, the continued progress and conquests of our arms, until the military power of the Confederacy is broken and the heart of the rebellion or ushed. All intermediate plans of schemes are mere pallistives, that, like our compromises of the past affecen years, will only serve to prograstinate existing evils; rectore peace that will require constant watchfulness and concessions, and prosperity that will be dependent upon almost annual saorthices to avoid future demands and insurcetions. In view of the permanence of our Government and the integrity of our Union, there is no such the same as compromise with rebels in arms against the require to every reasoning mind, that submission of the landers of this rebellion, are the only effective means of rectoring peace and good government again.

The first of these is not likely to occur in the present of these of the differences of the rebellion, are the only effective means of rectoring peace and good government again.

The first of these is not likely to occur in the presence of the returns of the civil and military heads of the rebellion. The second, therefore, censtitutes our only certain means of success. In its progress to his end, our gallant army has a two-fold mission to fulfil. The first is to prese sack step by step, it necessary, the arbitrary power of the Confederacy from the usurped soil of the seceding States; and eventually to subdue that power, and bring it to terms of peace. The second to evelop the principle of loyality in the relieved people, and protect them in its exercise and enjoyment, while they restore the civil functions of their State Governments, and unite them again with their sister States under the provisions of the National Constitution. BITTER LETTER TO ME, STANTON.

On the night of the 23th I sent the following to the Secretary of War:

HEADQUARTERS ABMY OF THE POTOMAC,
SAVAGE STATION, June 28, 1852, 1220 Å. M.
I now know the full history of the day. On this side of the river, the right bank, we repulsed several strong attacks. On the left bank our men did all that men could do, all that soldiers could accomplish, but they were overwhelmed by vastly superior numbers, even after I brought my last reserves into action. The loss on both sides is terrible. I believe it will prove to be most desperate battle of the war. The sad remnants of my men behave as men; those battalions who fought most bravely, and suffered most, are still in the beat order. The regulars were superb, and I count upon what are left to turn another battle, in company with their sallant comrades of the volunteers. Had I (20,003) twenty thousand, or even (10,000) ten thousand fresh troops to use to morrow, I could take Richmond; but I have not a man in reserve, and shall be glad to cover my retreat and save the markets.

Major General Grant not U. S. Grant.—In a recent trip over the Ohio and Mississippi Railroad, in company with Major General W. T. Sherman, that gentleman, who is a warm admirer of General that gentleman, who is a warm admirer of General Grant, related a circumstance as to how he obtained the initials "U. S.," which we do not recollect having seen in print. He stated that General Grant's baptismal name was Hiram Ulysses, and he bore that name till he was appointed a cadet at West Point. The member of Congress who nominated him somehow got his name mixed up with that of his brother, and he was appointed as Ulysses Sidney, and, that name once on the records at the military academy, could not be changed. He was apptized into the military school as U. S. Grant, avd he has ever since borne that name.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL. THE MONEY MARKET.

Operations in gold continue to be very large and active and the price to-day still further advanced, reaching at one time 186. Towards the close the market weakened, and it was freely offered at 156%(2015). The large shipments being made to Europe are having this effect, and there being no counterbalancing facts to oppose this one, the price naturally advances. Senator Lane's bill, making it a penal offence to buy or sell gold at a premium, seems to have very little effect, and is generally laughed at. The returns were regarded as very favorable, and more particularly so as there had been an increased de-mand upon the bank for money. The London Post, of the 1st inst., thus speaks of the rebel loan:
Messrs. Schroeder & Co., as the London representatives of Messrs Erlanger & Co., of Paris, in March last, brought forward a loan of £3,000,000 for the Confederate States of America, it being issued at 90 per £100, and bearing interest at the rate of 7 per cent, per annum, the security for the interest and repayment of the principal being the cotton within the Confederate States, and which was secured to the bondholders, when it could be set free, at 6d $\pi$ D. This loan was received with great fevor by the public, and at once advanced to 5½ per cent, premium A reaction, however, soon set in, and it fell to 4 cent discount, recovering, however, to 2 per cent, premium, since which it has steadily dealined, so that now it only stands at 37.9.
