In view of the above points, we respectfully ask your honorable body favorably to consider the question of increase of our salaries, and to grant even larger salaries than those proposed by the Controllers.

The Councils have, in view of the necessities of the case, been generous in other departments; we ask them to be just to ours. Alumni Liberality. No college in the country of its size has such a number of wealthy graduates. and yet it gets not a penny from them. The college tuition is thirty five dollars a term, or one hundred and five dollars per annum. Now, take this fact into consideration, and is it all to be wondered at that people living in the towns near Philadelphia, and the country surrounding, should send their sons to other colleges rather than to the University? At Yale the college tuition is $45 per annum, and no college is it as high as at the University. William D. Packer, of Camden, N. J., bartender at the hotel of Mr. Davis, Market-street wharf, was arraigned at the Central Station yesterday afternoon, being somewhat implicated in the drawing of a bogue check for $1,600, upon which goods to the amount of $300 had been obtained at the store of John G. Tilney, near Fourth and Market streets. The evidence was developed as follows: John McGowan, messenger of the Philadelphia Bank, testified that a little after It o'clock in the morning a check for $1,500, signed by Wm. R. Roach, was presented at the counter of the bank. The paying teller scaled on Mr. Cummings, the board being in session, and the check was handed to him and examined; he requested me to go with the person presenting it until found a police officer; we went to the store near Fourth and Market streets, and finally went to Davis' Hotel at the foot of Market street; heard the defendant say he signed the check.

Daniel O'Brian, employed at the store of John G Tilney, testified that a man, calling himself Roach, purchased some goods to the amount of $300 at the store, and ordered them sent to the hotel of Mr. Davis that morning, he gave a check to the lad, and told him to go to the bank and gatti marked good; the goods were left at the hotel; upon finding the check was not good, the purchased articles were recurred at the hotel and taken back to the store. The defendant, in answer to inquiries, taid the man's name was Roach, that he had not signed the book of regittry, as he had fallen in the morning and almost broken his arm.

The magistrate asked the defendant, the answer to inquiries, taid the man's name was Roach, that he had not signed the book of regittry, as he had fallen in the morning and almost broken his arm.

The magistrate asked the defendant what he had to say in regard to signing the check man who gave the name of Roach stopped at the hotel on Wednesday night. He said that he had just arrived from New Beeford, and was it search of goods of various kinds, as he [Before Mr. Alderman Beitler.] Respectfully. PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 22, 1864. SWINDLING CASE FRUSTRATED THE CITY. MISCELLANEOUS. SALARIES OF PUBLIC SCHOOL TEACHERS. SALARIES OF PUBLIC SCHOOL TRACHERS.

The subject of an increase of wages is one of importance. It has engrossed private and public attention, and though there has been an advance granted in various instances, yet there are many persons engaged in occupations that require mental as well as physical labor who have not received an advance in accordance with the exigencies of the times. In reference to public positions, the principal teachers of the gram man schools have addressed to the City Councils a circular, of which the following is a copy: o the City Councils a circular, of which the following is a copy:
A committee of eleven teachers, having the subset referred to them, submit the following relative to the salaries now paid for their services:

The Board of Controllers of Public Schools, Nomber 22d, 1864, by a vote of eighteen to four, dopted the estimates presented by their Committee in Estimates, which include an increase of twenty controllers of the school department. which contains the following language in reference to salaries:

"The increase of salaries of those employed in this department has enlisted the earnest consideration of this committee. A committee of male principals of schools appeared before us with a detailed statement of the salaries paid and the increased cost of living. We are satisfied that their salaries are inadequate; and, as the wages in almost every other department of lator have been largely increased, we believe that justice to a calling which requires a high order of talent and unceasing industry demands a corresponding increase in their salaries. Your committee would, therefore, recommend an increase of twenty per cent, upon the salaries of creased, we believe that justice to a calling which requires a high order of telentand understing indicatory demands a corresponding increase in their salarity of the control of the cont cent. additional, or eighty per cent. In all on the old rates.

We would call attention to the fact, well known to all, that the actual cost of living has increased from two and a half to three times what it was previous to the war. Thus:

In accordance with the increase in the prices of the necessaries of life, a corresponding increase has been made in the wages and salaries of most omployees and tradesmen; in some cases, small in amount at one time, and obtained without delay, but occurring frequently, so that, although not noticed as much as an increase in the salaries of 1,000 teachers, occurring but once or twice, and requiring the donourrence of everal public bodies, yet it has been as a whole closely corresponding to the rise in the prices of food, &c.

Boston, with one-third the number of pupils in her schools, has made an increase in the salaries of her taxchers, amounting to $50,000, which increase went into effect on the first of September last.

The American Publishers' Circular of Sept. Latsays: It is acknowledged by everybody that the German language is peculiarly rich ia a class of stories comprehenced under the term "Mährcher," which are especially attractive to juvenile readers. The Grimm collection has become almost domesticated in our kionies. We have here another brimming draught brought up from the same olden well. It is just such a collection as will delight the hearts of bright boys and girls. We almost envy the little folks the pure, hearty pleasure which the book will give them, as their wijde opened eyes go staringly from page to page, and their little hearts beat are excited accompaniment to the purfolding of strange eventh. Messrs. Ashmead & Evans have issued the work in the handsome style which it deceives It is, in every way, a highly creditable specimen of book-making. The typography is admirably executed, the paper is delicately tined, and the binding, the gilt top and the lettering, present an attractive external appearance.
