the prosecutor in the case.

DISTRESSING CASE AND SINGULAR CONDUCT OF A JULY.

A novel and distressing case was tried, in which a girl, sixteen years of age; charged a boy, of about the same age, with rape. The girl lived at service, and went out on a Sunday evening, in July last, in company with another girl, seventeen years of age. Another boy and girl were met with, and; the party proceeded to a brick-yard, in the western part of the city. It is here where the alleged outrage was perpetrated, the girl testifying that she was twice outraged by the prisoner. She cried murder the first time, when the girl with her placed her hand over her mouth, and held it here placed her hand over her mouth, and held it here until the act was accomplished. After sitting and talking some time with the girl the prosecutive alleges she again aided the boy. On this occasion she gave no alarm, because she was too weak to do so. The girl underwent a scarching cross-examination, denying even having frequented churches on Brond street during evenings, for improper purposes.

The father testified to finding the girl in prison on Monday, and after taking her out she told him of the outrage; she was so weak that she could scarcely walk.

Mr. Cessida, for the defence, stated that he had witnesses to prove the bad character of the girl and witnesses to prove the bad character of the girl and witnesses to prove the bad character of the girl and witnesses to prove the bad character of the girl and witnesses to prove the bad character of the girl and witnesses to prove the bad character of the girl and witnesses to prove the bad character of the girl and witnesses to prove the bad character of the girl and the baste than they had already been.

Policemen Carroll and Cully testified that they mere girl at 30 elock in the morning who saddthat some girls in the brick-yard and hear of the girl and and were caught a half-square off; the boys, or men, it could not be distinguished which in the darkness, fled; on the girls teing caught they were as reviewing the evidence given, and said it was certainly a weak case.

The bill of indictment was handed to the jury, who hesitated, notwithstanding the abandonment of the case by the Commonwealth.

Mr. Casidy arose and demanded that his witnesses be heard, as there was a besitancy on the part of the jury to not as promptly as was expected. Judge Ludlow said that could not be done, as the case was closed.

NEW YORK CITY. NEW YORK, Sept. 26, 1865.

A House of Correction and a Police Court.—The great and pressing need of our city is a House of Correction, to which persons may be remanded for such trivial crimes as do not warrant incarceration in the penitentiary, and to which vagrants can also be consigned, and compelled to do something towards earning a living for themselves.

The police reports of our city, the dockets of the various committing magistrates, and the records of the criminal courts, will show a vast number of petty cases, of larceny, assault and battery—many of them not worth a hearing before a jury, and which are often dismissed with a fine, or even a reprimand. The judge, even should a verdict of guilty be rendered, does not think it always necessary to consign these oftenders to the county prison. For these petty grades of crime a House of Correction would afford the best place of detention. It should be a house of refuge for adults. In the solitary cell, men get morose and moody, meditating fresh crimes on society. There they are compelled to work, but it is in solitude; and the monotonous click of the loom is almost the only sound they hear.

To secure this desired end, let a large institution be built, with proper safeguards against the escape of prisoners, and stocked with machinery of various kinds. To such a place let petty offenders and prisoners awaiting trial be committed, there to labor for their own good until they are discharged. Let the varears where the surface of the contraction of the counts with a contraction of the committed, there to labor for their own good until they are discharged. utineers were placed in the hands of GENERAL NEWS.

chinery of various kinds. To such a place let petty offenders and prisoners awarting trial be committed, there to labor for their own good until they are discharged. Let the vagrants who fill the cells of the county prison be sent to such an institution and made to do their share of the work. Such a course would not only pay all the expenses of the institution, but would in time inure to the benefit of the prisoners. At present they are committed to the county prison, and there waste their time in comparative idleness. The convicts are employed in various ways, but, owing to the limited nature of the work they can perform, the system is only sustained at large cost. Markets by Telegraph.

are employed in various ways, but, owing to the limited nature of the work they can perform, the system is only sustained at large cost.

Concerning the question of expense, there are those who would maintain that the county has no wish to make a profitable speculation, and receive income from the result of the labor of those the law has deprived of liberty. No one ought to take this view. The increased revenue would be a benefit to all. An institution properly conducted, and filled as it would always be in a large city like our own, should always be in a large city like our own, should always pay its own expenses, and afford a surplus. This excess could be used as a fund to procure outfits for the discharged prisoners, and to provide each one with a small sum of ready money, to enable him to go to another locality, should he so desire. In this mauner each would receive benefit. The county would be relieved of a heavy annual expense, and the condition of the prisoners would be much ameliorated.

But to this there should be a companion reform. There should be established in the city a police court, which should have jurisdiction in the more trivial cases of assault and battery, and which should be empowered to commit parties convicted before it for terms of imprisonment not exceeding six months. This would vastly relieve the already overworked judges of the criminal courts, and enable them to transact the more important business with greater ease and despatch. Parties tried before such a court need not have a preliminary hearing before an alderman, but the trial could take place on original appearance, or as soon after the arrest as proper. Important eases could be referred to the higher tribunal for adjudication. Such a plan would examine swith would accrue from it would be so numerous that none would grumble. The office might be made elective, or the incumbent might be an appointee. The other courts, already burdened, would gladly hail a change that would relieve them in part from the drudgery and vexation att

Jurors.

Judge Ludlow. Gentlemen, I will settle this immediately. Mr. Clerk send for the Sherin.

In a few minutes the wheel was brought into court, and the amiable Sheriff soon afterwards appeared and drew the necessary names from the wheel. He was requested by the court to make return this morning at ten o clock.

The eleven jurors were charged not to converse about the case, and discharged till this morning.

The juries in the case of R. L. Curry and others, charged with conspiracy, who went out at noon on Monday, and the other case referred to, were still out when the court adjourned. The case of George M. Lauman vs. the Lebanon Valley Railroad Company having been referred to a referee for adjudication, a meeting of counsel in the case was held vesterday in this city. Owing to the absence of a witness for the company, an adjournment was had till Wednesday, October 18. Messrs, St. George Tucker Campbell, James E. Gowan and John C. Kunkel appeared for the company, and Jacob Hoffman, Hon. J. Glancy Jones and Wm. L. Hirst for the plaintiff. Mr. Edward Olmstead is the referce, having been selected by both parties. VISIT TO BISHOP STEVENS BY HIS CLER-VISIT TO BISHOP STEVENS BY HIS CLERGY.—Yesterday morning the Episcopal clergy of this city and vicinity paid an official visit to their new Diocesan, Rt. Rev. William Bacon Stevens, D. D., who is now, by the death of Bishop Potter, the Rishop of the Diocese of Pennsylvania. As a recognition of their new relations, the clergy waited on the Bishop at his residence, where they were received by him in a most cordial manner. Rev. Dr. Ducachet, chairman of the committee appointed for the purpose, submitted the following address: dress:

Reference and beloved bishof: We have come to you to-day to welcome you as our Diocesan, and to take you to our hearts as our father in God. The occasion is to us both sad and pleasant. Sad, because it recals to us that venerated man who has passed away, and whose place you now occupy; and pleasing, because we thankfully recognize in you, as his successor, one to whom we can transfer our confidence, and who, we believe, will worthily supply his place at the head of this important Diocese. You have been called, in the providence of God, to a post of vast responsibility, of arduous labors, and unteasing cares; and, knowing as we do, the power of sympathy, we are forward to tender you ours, as your brethren in the ministry, and those who have been committed to your oversight, as their chief pastor. In your weariscille, journeys, in your perplexing desidentials. [Before Mr. Recorder Enen.]

CHARGAD WITH BIGAMY.

Samuel F, Baker, allas Blunt, was arraigned upon the charge of bigamy. It is alleged that he has four wives. The evidence, showed that on the 8th of July, 1854, he was united to a lady by the Rev. Joseph Beicher. On the 25th of December, 1864, he was married to another lady, by the Rev. T. A. Fernley, and on the 23d of May, 1885, to another, by the Rev. James W. Robbins. The fourth wife did not appear at the hearing. Wife No. 3 remarked that she didn't care how many wives he had, she was bound to have him. Baker was sent to Moyamensing in Gefaulto of bait. He will, probably be emigrating to the regions of Brigham Young before long.

welcome.

Rev. J. W. Jackson responded in a few pleasing remarks.

Rev. John McClintock, D. D., then made an eloquent address. He was hardly prepared to make an address, but as he had been connected with Sunday-schools for forty years, he was always ready to speak upon that topic. He then spoke of the necessity of Christianizing the world. The time is not far off when Christianity will conquer the world. The war with muskets is over. The great war of the Spirit, and of the mind and heart is to begin. He then reviewed Methodism, Catholicism, and Calvanism, and argued in favor of the superiority of the first to all others as a Christianizing power. We must keep up with the advancing progress of the world in matters of religion. We must get ahead of it by means of the teaching in our Sabbath-schools.

Rev. Bishop Simpson followed in a few well-timed remarks. He related an incident of the starting of a Sabbath-school by himself, and another in a far off town, and of the prosperity of the school, and how that of the three, who were first to enter into the project, were now eminent divines.

The hours of meeting adopted were: 8/4 A. M. to 12 M.; 2½ P. M. and 7½ P. M. Adjourned with the benediction by the Rev. Bishop Simpson.

The convention was onened with prayer by try, and those who have been committed to your oversight, as their chief pastor. In your wearisome journeys, in your perplexing deliberations, be assured that our hearts will be with you, and that our prayers shall ascend to God, that He will bless, preserve, and keep you; that He will give you strength equal to your day, and grace to discharge, with success and usefulness to His church, your appointed obligations. As your lamented predecessor was honored universally by his flock, so may you be; and may his mantle and spirit (a prayer in which we know you will be only too ready to join) fall upon you! As your presbyters, we offer you our fealty; and, as your brethren in the Lord, our affectionate regard and sympathy. And, as years roll by, may they find the bond which unites us only strengthening, as we labor together in one common cause, the glory of God, under one Head, Jesus Christ our Lord, and anointed by one spirit, the spirit of Holiness and Power.

H. W. Ducachér,

Edward Lounsberry,

Robert G. Chase,

O. B. Keith,

James W. Robins.

The Bishop eloquently replied. He alluded in touching language to his distinguished and venerated predecessor, of whom he spoke as being immeasurably above himself in all his good and great qualities. He was gratified at the cordial manner in which the elergy of the Diocese had tendered their sympathy and support, and hoped that their future relations might be as pleasant and profitable as they had herectofore been.

All them united in devotional exercises. The hymn, "Come, holy spirit," was sung, and the benediction pronounced by the Bishop.

An interchange of courtesies followed, and the assemblage dispersed. LARCENY OF A POCKET-BOOK.

George H. Allen, arrested on Noble street, below Thirteenth: on Monday night, was charged with the larceny of a pocket-book, containing six dollars. He was held in $1,000 bail for trial. [Before Mr. Alderman Jones.] [Before Mr. Alderman Jones.]

LARCENY OF LEAD PIPE.

Barney Clark and Daniel Boyle were arraigned upon the charge of the larceny of about one hundred and fity pounds of lead pipe, which, it is supposed, was stolen from the Twenty-fourth ward. The accused were arrested early yesterday morning, at Thirteenth and Race streets. They were held in $500 bail for a further hearing to-morrow.

A DISTRESSING CASE. A DISTRESSING CASE.

A woman, named Joanna Jine an, who was ill, was taken to the Twelfth-district police-station, about twelve o'clock on Monday night. She was kindly cared for by Lieut. Jacoby, and soon afterwards gave birth to a maie child. The poor woman has four other children, and her husband is now in prison on the charge of deserting and neglecting to provide for his family. - [Before Mr. Alderman Beitler.]

A MIXED-UP AFFAIR.

A chaise-driver was hauled up for overcharging. The complainants were a couple of Jerseymen. One of them was put upon the stand, and sworn.

"What is your name?" inquired the Alderman.

"I'm a captain," was the reply.

"What is your name?"

"My name is Pinchors."

"My name is Pinchors."

"Where do you live?"

"I don't know, it is in Jersey."

"What is your post office address?"

"I don't know, it is in Jersey."

"How do you get your letters?"

"How do you get your letters?"

"Well, where do you live?"

"I don't know, it ere, Brown (his companion), you tell him about it."

Brown said that they lived near Millville,
The captain was then questioned about the complaint. He said that he had not hired the eabman, but Brown had; he didn't know where they met him or where they had been driven to, but they had been charged five dollars. FIRE AND INCORRECT ALARM.—Yesterday morning, about one o'clock, an alarm of fire, first district, southwest, was struck, and the signal box struck one hundred and twenty-six. That box is stationed at the house of Fire Marshal Blackburn. He was surprised at the appearance of so many companies in front of his house, as his box had not been struck.
A light was seen in the neighborhood of the arsenal, and another in a southerly direction.
The firemen ran to both. The fire near the arsenal turned out to be some barrels burning in honor of an Irish wedding, and that down south was a brick shed in the Neck. It was subsequently ascertained, however, that the alarm was given from box twenty-nine, at the Niagara Hose house, and the operator at the central station had made a mistake in consequence of the indistinct registering of the numbers on the telegraphic paper. The fire was in the stable of Marshal Dowling, at Trout and Barron streets, in the Fourth ward. Damage trifling.

Arrival of The U.S. Schooner Ar-FIRE AND INCORRECT ALARM .- Yester been charged five dollars.

There was nothing to be made out of this witness, and the other native of the sandy soil was placed then put out, and that the charge was to be a dollar an hour.

"Alderman, I'll tell you all about it, "exclaimed the prisoner; and he proceeded to relate how he had driven to this place where they had something to eat and that place where they got a drink. They were riding about for some four hours and finally brought up at a house in Sansom street. They refused to settle the bill, were arrested and taken before Aletrman Moore. They then concluded to pay the five dollars, and were also mulcted into costs to the tune of two dollars. To revenge themselves they had the cab-driver hunted up by Detective Levy. The Aletrman was unable to make anything out of the cas and therefore dismissed the cab-driver. The Jerseymen retired, muttering about the uncertainty of Philiadelphia justice. ARRIVAL OF THE U. S. WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 27, 1865. SPORTING.

A Prize Fight, for Foul Hundred Dollars, between Messrs, sweeney and Porter—The Latter Victorious—A Good Fight, but Attended with Unsatisfactory Results—The Whole Gathering Stampeded.

(Special Report for the Press.] A James Sweeney and Robert Porter were lately matched against each other to fight for four hundred dollars, at eatch weight, and yesterday was the day appointed for its decision. Both men reside in the neighborhood of Germantown road and Master streets, and are nearly the same weight, though Porter has a little the advantage in both weight and height, and is somewhat older than Sweeney. They have both been in training, and have taken every pains with their physical condition. The place of fighting was at Edge Hill, about eleven miles from the city, and the ground was reached about six o'clock, but much time was wasted in fixing the ring and choosing a referee. At length everything was fixed, and the men were prepared for their work, Sweeney attended by James Elliott and John Mackey, Porter by James Dunn and Butte Riley. The betting was in favor of Porter, before the men went to the scratch, but ere many rounds were fought the odds were in favor of Sweeney, and at length two and three to one went a begging, the Porter stock being, like some oil stocks, badly depre-

Porter got first blood and first knock down, but Sweeney kept punishing terribly, quickly closing one eye entirely, and the other fast following suit, and his nose laid open on the bridge and spread to treble its usual propor-tions, losing his strength and stamina, and being terribly demoralized. The cry of "po-lice," was given twice, and on the end of the fifteenth round, which made the fight last thirty-eight minutes, Porter was hurried from the ring to his coach, and moved from the ground. The referee ordered his return, and gave his friends ten minutes to place him in the ring. At the end of this time, Sweeney never having quitted the ring or his corner. vas declared the winner by Mr. Thomas Carr, was declared the winner by Mr. Thomas Carr, who was mutually chosen referee by the two principals. The ring was at once deserted, and some countrymen appeared armed with clubs and shot-guns. A stampede was made for the station, and those in carriages and wagons started in all directions. About thirty were arrested by a party of extemporized preservers of the peace, headed by the sheriff of Montgomery county, who were armed with pistols, clubs, &c-Another party of nineteen were arrested in a by-lane, and taken to a county tavern. The sheriff fired two shots at one man, and some eight or ten were fired in all, but no one was hurt. After a detention of about an hour, the sheriff made a speech to the law-breakers and then dismissed them with a caution against ever again entering Montgomery county for any similar purpose. The men who were held at the tavern were also discharged, and the fun-seekers got back to the city in all kinds of ways and at different hours. The fight lasted 15 rounds, and occupied 35 minutes.

A great number of the New Yorkers were present, including the once well-known Geo. H. Suse, the ("veritable George") Colbert, Noble, and many more. About three hundred men were present in all.

THE TURNER PRIZE-FIGHT. THE REFEREE STANDS BY HIS "FOUL" DECISION HE STAREHOLDER REFUSES TO GIVE UP THE MONEY FOR THIRTY DAYS-THE BACKER OF JACK AND HIS PRIENDS THREATENED WITH EX-TERMINATION-NARROW ESCAPE FROM BEING STARBED AND BEATEN TO DEATH, ETC. A meeting of the backers of the Turners and their adherents was held at 4 P. M. yesterday at the house of Andrew Brumacher. A crowd at the house of Andrew Brumacher. A crowd of ruffians were in attendance to carry out any hint of the Miller and Hastings' party, and Jack's friends being in the minority, as one to fifty, were glad to save their bacon at the expense of the money.

Mahogany Hall McKeown, the unprincipled meferce, unblushingly stuck to his decision, although it was proved that he was never appealed to, but actually called Billy Dwyer, three second to him and told him to claim the service. Since he had, put on the uniform he had been shot twenty-two times. bert is in possession of a letter written by McKeown, telling him of Jim Turner's being sick, and not fit to fight, and a de-termination on the part of Hastings to save the money by an arrest. This was a ruse to win the confidence of the New York party, and secure their consent to his being appointed referee, and carry out the purposes of his employers, "Caddy" Miller and Ned Hastings. It can be proved that Ned Hastings was the rascal who applied for the arrest of the two Turners, and had the warrant made out by Alderman Jones for that purpose. It is also asserted that he procured the arrest of the man Butler, against whom he was matched to fight for $1,000 some months ago, and thus btained the money he was unable to fight for.
Andy Brumacher, the stakeholder, has decided to retain the stakes for thirty days, in order to give a chance for the parties to come to some arrangement—either to fight for it or The crowd of roughs collected together by The crowd or roughs collected together by Ned Hastings, who keeps a low house on Vine street, were intent on finishing up Jim Filiott, who chastised Hastings on Monday. They were urged to their purpose by every means, but no one seemed willing to commence the rious affray was thus prevented, in which more than one life would have been lost. The organization were armed with pistols and enives, the latter open in their hands, and the champion escaped his intended death, and may yet meet in the championship Davis, who s backed by Brumacher, the stakeholder in the present affair, against Elliott.

Colbert offered to back Jack Turner by putting up another $1,000, and make the stakes $2,000 a side, and fight in a week, but after much vindy nonsense Hastings did not appear to be able to raise $50, as Miller appears to be sick of his connection, having to put up an extra $25 above his share of the last $500, and also Hastings' half of the $25 they had to pay for the ropes and stakes, his friend "Oyster Jack," not being willing to credit him. The New York party, consisting of Colbert the "Veritable" George Sees, Wm. Varney, Mackey, Elliott, and some five or six true friends belonging to this city, left Brumacher's rum-mill, followed by curses both loud and hands of the Hastings party has been given up to their friends, and fifty dollars bet by Elliott, on Saturday night, on the "first knockdown," has been given against him, although no knock-down was given by either man The allusions to Messra. POLITICAL Meeting in the Ninth Ward. A meeting of the Union citizens of the Ninth ward was held last evening, in the east room of National Hall, Market street, below Thir-teenth. The room was filled with an intelli-gent audience, who frequently testified their gent audience, who frequently testified their approbation of the sentiments put forth by the speakers.

William S. Stokley, Esq., was called to the chair, after which resolutions were adopted recognizing the benificence of Providence in ing the country through the war; depr ating the action of the men who deno the efforts of the armies to suppress the rebel-lion, and now attempt to ask the support of those they derided; reasserting the importance of the doctrine of protection to home in-dustry; and declaring that a continuance of the policy which has governed the city for six years is needed, and that Morton McMichael dustry; and deciaring that a continuance of the policy which has governed the elty for six years is needed, and that Morton McMichael is the man to do it.

Brigadier General Joshua T. Owen was the first speaker. His address was lengthy, but well received. The designs of the Democrats were unmasked, and their hollowness and hypocrisy all shown. They were making all manner of shifts to obtain a little help from the soldiers. They charged the war upon the Republican party. The truth was, that it was impossible to avoid the war; it was the sequence of events, and could never have been avoided. It might have been delayed, but only to burst in greater fury. That it came when it did was a subject of congratulation, for the country might never have been saved to freedom. It has done good; and one of its results has been that the people know each other better. The great work has been done, and the armies are to receive the praise of it. They have saved the Government from anarchy and confusion. Slavery has been abolished, and God be thanked! [Applause.]

Colonel William B. Mann then addressed the meeting. He commenced by combatting the idea that there was no need of taking any interest in the coming election. This was wrong. The opposition were making strenuous efforts, and would bring up all their forces, and it behooves the Union men to watch them. It was like the message which the wolves sent to the sheep to let the dogs go. They did so, and the first night the wolves made a raid and carried off nearly every sheep. So it was with the Democrats. They passed resolutions, saying that the war was a failure, and wanting to withdraw the troops, to discontinue the war, and take Jeff Davis by the hand. All this could be seen, for it was so declared in the Chicago platform. Now they say a great deal about the brave soldiers, and even go so far as to nominate soldiers on their ticket. But they have only nominated them where the Union min the the proverse of diers and even go so far as to nominate soldiers, and even go so far a 1865, and now they are trying to steal Andrew Johnson. That is the record of the Democratic party.

The mayoralty question was another and a grave subject. Fatriotic men are wanted, men who believed in the Union and sustained it. When the State was invaded Mr. Fox was nowhere; he said nothing. On the contrary, Mr. McMichael, his sons in the service, aided with pen and voice in sustaining the Government. He gave his money for the support of the cause. Such is the man who should be mayor in place of him who raised no flag on his house until every one else complained about it—who would fill the places of honest men by bounty-jumpers and deserters. That Mr. McMichael was opposed to the interests of the workingman he denied. The men who had the welfare of the city and country at heart would vote for him as an honest, true Union man. The proper spirit was needed, and with this the people would succeed in electing him by an overwhelming majority. They would never throw themselves into the chasm of Democratic misrule. Elect Fox and evil would predominate instead of good.

The other candidates were also adverted to, the speaker being being frequently interrupted by applause.

Mr. F. Carroll Brewster followed, unmasking the speaker being being frequently interrupted by applause.
Mr. F. Carroll Brewster followed, unmasking the Democratic party. The result of the grand struggle was being watched for with great interest by many. There was one at Fortress Monroe, a certain Mr. Davis, for whom a yard or two of hempen rope was waiting. Perhaps he thinks it might lessen the chances of the rope being tightened about his neck if the Democratic party succeeded. And that other good Democrat in Washington, now undergoing his trial, also waits with intense interest.

The incoherencies and misstatements of the Democratic party were next unmasked amid buried two brothers, who lost their livés in the service of the country, and he had fought the good fight, and kept the faith, although he entered the service. Since he had put on the maiform he had been shot twenty-two times. The men who stood between irrectom and slavery at Gettysburg, who elimbed to the top of Lookout Mountain, and who marched from Chattanooga to the sea, will hoist the Union flag. They have found the party true to the country and the flag, and they will trust those men again. All they ask is that the widow and orphan of the fallen soldier shall be taken care of. The men did not go into the service for money, but for the defence of the Government, given to her in trust to keep for the coming generations.

Mr. Walter P. Mitchell said that though the rebels were cowed and their armies were whipped, yet the fight was not yet ended. But now the fight was against the Democratic party. The country had been baptized in the blood of her honest sons, and now it is for them to say again whether there is to be harmony or not. The people must not allow those who have no right to the suffrages of the citizens of Philadelphia, or allow such candidates to disgrace our city, that stands first in everything that is patriotic and loyal.

Mr. John Goforth next spoke. He said that the cowardly hearts of the Democrats were as treasonable as they were a year ago, when they carried a banner through the streets bearing a body of a jackass with the head of Lieutenant General Grant, and the inseription "I fight for what pays the best." They do not speak the treason which is in their hearts. They voted against increasing the pay of the enlisted men of the army, and yet they have the impudence to ask the votes of those very soldiers. They are the same men and the hearts. They are they have the impudence to ask the votes of those very soldiers. They are the same men that voted against allowing the use of the hall of the Senate at Harrisburg to Governor Andrew Johnson, but now they are endeavoring to the military service

After a glowing recital of the military services of General Hartranft, which held the audience spell-bound, the speaker retired amid loud applause.

Hon. John Cessna was introduced, and expressed his gratitude for the interest which the people were taking in the matter of the election. It was not for him to speak of the merits of the candidates on the city ticket, for he did not know them well enough. The issue of the city clection was important. The outsiders were hungry, and were wanting to get in and have anibble. The opposition are calling the city offices foul dens, and they had headed their ticket with a Franan animal which had great partiality for anything foul. [Laughter.] The influence that the result of the city election would have in the State was very great. The people in the interior look with intense interest on the matter, and they rely upon having a victory here. The country is looking upon Pchnsylvania, for everything depends upon the result there. If the great battle is lost here this fail, all that you have contributed to the Sanitary Commission is wasted. The great object of the people down South, to break up the Government, is not abandomed. They expect to send their representatives, such men as John Mosby and Wade Hampton, and to co-operate with a few Northern rebels and repudiate the national debt, or saddle the rebel war debt upon the people of the North. Whether they should succeed or not, depended upon the result of the election in October next.

The meeting then adjourned with three cheers for the Union ticket. MEETING IN THE NINETEENTH WARD.-A large and cuthusiastic meeting of the Union citizens of the Nineteeth ward was held last evening at Germantown road and Morris street. Dr. Henry S. Hunt, from the Sunday-school convention of the State of Maryland was introduced, and made a few remarks.
Committees on business and resolutions were appointed,
The Committee on Business reported the following topics for discussion by the members of the convention:

1. By what means may our larger scholars be more generally retained in our Sabbath-schools? oe more generally retained in our Sabbath-ichools?

2. How may the teachers in our Sabbath-ichools be made more efficient in their work as teachers?
3. What are the qualifications of a successful attendance of our scholars upon Divine wor-ship?

5. How can the great design of Sunday-schools—namely, the conversion of scholars— be best secured?
6. What is the best order of exercises in con-ducting a Sunday-school?
7. How shall the co-operation of the older members of our church be secured in our Sab-bath-school?
On notion it was agreed that each speaker members of our church be secured in our Sabbath-school?

On motion, it was agreed that each speaker be confined in his remarks to five minutes on each topic, and that each subject be debated but half an hour.
The first topic was taken up.
Rev. William L. Gray thought that the Sunday-school ought to be more thoroughly divided. The older scholars should be kept apart from the younger ones. There is not a well-defined line between medium and older classes, as there should be. The most successful schools in his district demonstrate the truth of his remarks.
Rev. Wesley Kenney thought that the religious literature of Sunday-school libraries should be adapted to the minds of the older scholars. A literature, too, that would lead them to the cross; without this all else fail, and by it scholars not only attach themselves to the Sunday-school but bind them to the church. Merely intellectual teaching violates God's day.

E. J. Kenney. Esc., of Wharton-street. church. Merely intellectual teaching violates God's day.

E. J. Kenney, Esq., of Wharton-street Church, said that not more than sixty-five out of every hundred brought into the school were retained. We must have men and women to train them. The misfortune is that the education of the youth is left to incompetent teachers, and they consequently wander away. Measures must be adopted to reach intelligent men, and bring them into the work. Rev. A. Attwood believed in kindness on the part of teachers. Cross, scolding, unkind piety don't make much impression.

Rev. J. F. Crouch thought that there should be a written course of instruction to be placed in the hands of inexperienced teachers.

Rev. A. Cookman was in fayor of multiplying Bible classes and securing good teachers. Social influence should be thrown around Bible scholars.

social inhuence should be thrown around lible scholars.

Rev. G. W. Lybrand thought that the interests of the scholars during the week should be looked after.

Thomas Hull, Esq., believed that one fault lay with pastors not taking proper interest in larger scholars.

The second topic was taken up.

Rev. G. B. Carrow thought that teachers should prepare beforehand their lessons. It requires as much study to teach one hour as to preach.

m. Carson offered the following resolutions, which were adopted amid much cheering:

1. Resolved, That the Union citizens of the Nineteenth ward are profoundly grateful to the God of nations for guiding and directing our Government and the Union citizens of the Nineteenth ward are profoundly grateful to the God of nations for guiding and directing our Government and the best of the scholars during the week should be that the past of the scholars during the week should be some the scholars during the week should be some the scholars during the week should be some the scholars during the week should be stated to the brave men of the army and navy who battled so validantly and persistently for the preservation of our captures and the scholars during the week should be strictly do the scholars during the week.

EXHIBITION OF CHOICE PLANTS.—The choice collection of plants belonging to the estate of James Dundas, deceased, were exposed to public view, yesterday morning, on the grounds adjoining the late residence of the deceased. The sale takes place to morrow. The collection is one of the finest in this country. It embraces over one hundred varieties of orchedaceous plants, and a large number of azaleas, camelias and miscellaneous plants. NARROW ESCAPE. - On Monday evening, NARROW LEGAPE.—On Montay evening, about six o'clock, a horse, attached to a wagon, became frightened at a "dummy" engine on the Frankford plank-road, above the Reading Railroad. The vehicle was overturned down an embankment, and was broken to pieces. The inmates, comprising a gentleman, two ladies, and a child, were thrown out and landed in a puddle of water. They escaped with a few slight bruises and a pretty thorough ducking. Asking to be Discharged.—The Veteran Reserve Corps stationed at Camp Cadwalader have adopted resolutions setting forth their services to the country, giving their reasons for enlisting, and asking Lieut. General Grant to have the corps discharged, as they are no longer required. NEW RESERVOIR.—Work has been begun on the exection of the reservoir for the new water-works to supply the Twenty-first and Twenty-second wards. It will be 220 by 370 feet, and will hold 12,000,000 gallons. Its elevation is 375 feet above low-water mark. FOUND DROWNED.—A white man, aged about thirty years, was found drowned, yesterday, in the Schuylkill river, at Vine street. From papers found upon him, he is supposed to be Patrick Hagan, who worked at the Fairmount Iron Works. N. K.
