WASHINGTON, Dec. 12, 1849. SENATE.—The Senate met at 12 o'clock, and adjourned without doing any business.

Mr. Pierre Soule, the newly elected Senator from Louisiana, appeared in his seat this House.—The House met at 12 o'clock.

Journal read, and Mr. Cobb, of Ala. adverted to an article which appeared in the Union of this morning, which said that the election of Mr. W. Brown, of Indiana depended in part on him. And in conclusion said that he would take a choice of two men rather than that there should be no organization.

Mr. Wilmot, of Penna said that he had been more honored by the votes which had been given him than if he had been elected to the chair. He said that he was unwilling, both the candidates having retired, to stand in the way of an organization, and, therefore requested his friends not to vote for him.

The House then proceeded to vote viva voce for Speaker. The following is the result of the FORTISTH BALLOT.

Two hundred and twenty-six cast. Necessary to a choice 114. W J Brown, D. Ia, 112 McGaughey, W. Ia. 13 Duer, W., N. Y. 26 Winthrop, Whig, 17 Morehead, W., Ky. 17 Scattering, 53 Stanley, W., N. C. 18

Messrs. Giddings, Allen, Preston. King, and Wilmot voted for Mr. Brown, and several of the Southern members who voted for him yesterday fell off.

Mr. Stanley, of N. C., offered the following resolution: Resolved, that the members of the Democratic party appoint three members to confer with three members to be appointed by the Whigs to operate relative to a

Mr. Stanley remarked that the resolution was not of his own suggestion, but came from the other side. He believed, with Hon. Mr. Benton, that the Union was not to be dissolved at this end of the Capitol, and so long as Rough and Ready was in the chair there was no danger. He believed, in respect to the Democratic party, that there was "Something rotten in Denmark."

He repeated that his desire was to have an organization-some competent man; for himself, he was not competent to preside, and while he felt gratified at the number of votes cast for him, he did not wish to be a candidate. He blushed for the Democracy, but not for the Whigs.

Mr. Bayly, of Va. replied to Mr. Stanley's remarks, and referred to the northern and southern Whigs peing at variance as to General Taylor's sentiments on the Slavery question, and excused them of being answerable for the state of things which now exist.

Mr. Ashmore, of Mass. rose merely to ask the gentlemen-whether there was truth in a remor that a written engagement or assurance had been entered into between Mr. Brown and the Free Soil Reps. Mr. Bayly indignantly denied it. He said

Mr. Brown, of Ia., was then permitted speak for himself. He stated among other things, that when he came here he had no intention of running for Speaker. That his friends pressed him. That he had pointed Southern gentlemen to his vote, when he formerly occupied a seat in Congress. Mr. Burt, of R. I., wished to see the correspondence, wished to see it now. Mr. Brown-I have it. [Gentlemen crow ded around him-some took a standing position in the centre of the Hall.] Mr. Brown remarked that the letter from Mr. Wilmot merely asked him in what manner he would if elected Speaker, constitute the committees and he (Mr. B.) stated in reply that he would make them satisfactory to him and his friends.

Mr. Wilmot remarked that he had addres ed the note to Mr. Brown, asking him no thing more than to organize a committee or the District of Columbia, or the Territories, and the Judiciary in such manner as to give full and fair expression to the will of the Government should be restrained from the responsibility of slavery when it has the constitutional power to abolish it. Messrs. Burt, Bayly, Harris, of Tenn., Star ton, of Tenn., Hubbard, Venable, MacMullin and Woodward made a few remarks in substance that they had been deceived in word by Mr. Brown. There was considerable excitement in House during the proceedings. It should not be omitted that Mr. Brown declined being considered a candidate for Speaker.

GREAT EXCITEMENT IN THE HOUSE YES

TERDAY. Washington, Dec. 13, 1849. The scenes of to-day in the House beggar description. The scenes of yesterday were a mere bagatelle. The south and the north are really getting by the ears sooner than I expected. The excitements of this day, I fear, are but the forerunner, the premonitory symptoms of more disgraceful scenes before the House is organised.

The members came together this morning without any concerted plan of action. It was expected, however, that, as all parties were at sea again, they would commence boxing the compass for a new candidate for speaker that would command a majority of the votes of the House. But after a short time it became apparent that there was an itching for speech-making which could not be longer repressed. The ball opened with two or three propositions in the form of resolutions, proceeding from the north.

Mr. Thompson, of Pennsylvania, made a proposition of a mode to elect a Speaker. which was amended in form of a resolution by Mr. Carter, of Ohio, who wished the powers of the Speaker to be restricted as to the appointment of the members of the Committees on the District of Columbia and the Territories. These propositions formed a basis for speeches from both and all sides of the House. Things went on harmoniously, however, that is comparatively so, until Mr. Duer, of New York, made a speech. These speeches, let me premise, were upon the exciting topics of the day, and not upon the resolution or its amendment, and several were made which were much of the seme character, according to the geographical divisions which parties have assumed. Mr. Meade of Va. finally made an ultra southern speech, and cast some pretty severe reflections on the people of the north and on the motives of members representing them. He concluded, and Mr. Duer, an able member from New York, arose and made a powerful and conciliatory speech.

In the course of his remarks, Mr. Duer that there was no foundation in truth for the unionists in the House. Mr. Bayly of Virown state. Mr Rayly asked him to engelf the member. Mr. Duer pointed to Mr. Meade who stood in the centre aisle quite near him

> Mr. Meade said "it is false, it is false, it is false !"

Mr. Duer replied, "You are a liar !"

You can scarcely imagine the scene that followed. The members had previously congregated about Mr. Duer, and there was considerable excitement manifested in this contest between the north and the south, but when this latter charge was made the members rushed to the spot, and there really seemed a danger that there would be a general melee. The Sergeant at Arms, however, proceeded to the spot immediately with his mace of office and prevented any outbreak of violence. After a time the House attained a comparative state of order, and Mr. Duer proceeded with his remarks, stating at the commencement that he expected pardon from the House for the remark which he had made out of order; but that he had felt himself called upon to make that charge under the circumstances. &c. There was really some danger of a collision between the North and the South, and God only knows what things may come to yet here. The doorkeepers say that knives were drawn on the part of the South, but I was too far from the scene of action to observe them. The House abandoned all order, and the Clerk of course having no rules, could not enforce it. Mr. Toombs, of Georgia, made an eloquent ultra-Southern speech, and received nine separate rounds of applause from the South. He was not in favor of disunion, except in certain contingencies.

Mr. Baker, of Ill., a democrat, followed him, and received great applause from the

Mr. Stevens, of Geo., and Mr. Cleveland of Ct., also spoke, and were applauded at inof a regular mass meeting in Tammany Hall The members left their scats and gathered around each speaker, and the applauding even went on in the galleries. It is now half-past four o'clock, and the House has just adjourned, taking one vote. however, for Speaker since the speeches were made. Neither party concentrated upon any one man. The course taken by Mr. Brown, to cure the Speakership of the House, has called down heavily the censure of his own party, and created a disgust in the minds of many of the other political divisions. His attempt the expression of the will of the people from to justify himself was a most lame affair, and his persisting to the last in saying to his farce. friends, both Southern and Northern, when appealed to in private conversation, that he had made no pledge to any party, makes the matter still worse for him. I candidly believe that not a single member of his own

The Southern democrats of course would not have voted for him if they had suspected such a I have always opposed the extension of slavery. And further than that the Federal bargain. No man was ever more effectually and suddenly killed off, politically speaking, by the proof of corruption, which he was conpelled to furnish himself, than Mr. Brown of Indians, was yesterday. Without any party bias either way, I consider the expose a mos fortunate occurrence for the country. Had he gone into the chair, and constructed the three committees named in the correspondence, as he promised to construct them there would have been such turmoil as we have seldom seen in Congress, which would have ended in his expulsion from the chair, if not the House. Although the parties are closely balanced, there would be an overwhelming majority in favor of rebuking such bare-faced corruption.

Members are, however, getting tired of this state of affairs, and propositions are constantly made to bring about a compromise. That which meets with most favor is, the appointment of a committee to select a Speaker. Another proposition is to diminish the number necessary to a choice by one less after every ballot. The last we think is the best and most satisfactory me thod. It is certainly time something was done, and we think with some member who offered a resolution to that effect, that the members should receive no pay until an organization was effected. We sincerely trust that matters will be compromised in a few days, and that we shall be able to lay the President's Message before our readers, in our next paper.

POINTS OF HONOR.

The difficulty between Mr. Duer of New York and Mr. Meade of Virginia who called each other liars on the floor of Congress has been amicably arranged by their friends. who have made a report in which they say that in effect Mr. Duer did not intend to stigmatize Mr. Meade as a liar in the abstract, and that Mr. Meade only imputed the term "false" in connexion with certain conditions, which were dependent in their nature on certain contingencies and that the parties only used the offensive terms in a "Pickwickian" sense. This is our understanding of the report, which when read was received with great applause. If any other than distinguished Honorable members of Congress had been the parties, the affair would have looked much like a Separate trials were granted and a Jury was sworn in the case of J. H. Giese the Son. The indictment contained a number of counts, the substance of which was, that Giese & Son had indubills of exchange of $2,000 each, and a note of $1500 endorsed by Ner Middleswarth, Esq., on which money was to be raised for the purchase of grain by the prosecutors, to be consigned to Giese & Son. The prosecutors alleged that the note was not to be used, and that Giese & Son contrary to agreement had it discounted at the Bank, and converted the money to their own use shortly before they failed. This was the gist of the fraud. The defendants objected to the admission of the bills of exchange and the note, on the ground of their variance from the instrument of writing as laid and described in the bill of indictment, the note having been laid as a draft.
