(From the American Fowl Breedet.)
FREDING FOWLS.

It is a good rule never o feed your hens too highly beformediately after ceasing to lay, laying you wish to fatten them for table use; for an soon as a fowl begins to fatten, she stops laying. You must, therefore, separate the two classes of fowl, layers and fatteners, at all events at feeding time. Make some separate provision for your cocks; if they are only fed in company with the hens, they are upt to think too much of their mistresses. and to neelect their own appetites; and recollect that to have strong chickens, you must have a strong male, which and ill-fed bird cannot be expected to prove. You should also make a separate provision for such fowl as are bullied or oppressed by the rest. Fowls are much given to jealousy; the cock's favor is sometimes the cause of this, but by no means invariably so, and indeed, the cause is not at all times to be ascertained; however obscure the cause, it is incumbent on the poultry fancier to prevent the effect, by

Dry Goods, Groceries, Queensadopting the separative system at the times indicated.

In such an occurrence, which is easily recognizable by the cock's comparative neglect | ELEGANT NEW STYLE CHANDELIERS, of the others, it is better to remove the favorite at once; if you do not do so, quarrels will ensue; this hen will nearly always be made a victim, and in many cases the quarrels on her account will give rise to other and more general affrays.

Oars .- When oats are to be had, a few handeful are well spent on your fowl -WHEAT -When damaged wheat can be bought at a low price, it may be used for the feeding of poultry with much profit and advantage ; when no such thing can be procured, however, and when it is proposed to feed them upon the sound, marketable article, turn a deaf ear to the thoughtless adviser. The same may be said of barley, w. ch is also objectionable as acting in a purgative manner; it is useful as an occasional feed, when towl are over-fed. Rye is generally a cheaper description of grain than any other, and damaged rye may be used, to a certain extent, with poultry with impunity, even when affected with the ergot.

When fowls are precluded by Nature's operations from picking up any kind of animal food, such as worms, snails, &c., some should be provided them. A sheep's or ox's liver is a good substitute for what fowle usually pick up in the shape of animal nutriment Green vegetable diet, such a cabbages, turnips, &c., should also be similarly provided.

Fowl of all kinds require sand or gravel as an aid to digestion, being, in fact, necessary to promote a medium of trituration in the gizzard, as well as to supply calcaroous matter for their egg-shalls. You should, therefore, always have such placed within the bird's reach. This, we must admit, applies more immediately to such fow! as are kept in a confined yard; when the walk is at all extensive, the birds can usually pick up enough for themselves. Fresh water gravel is the best; if you live near the sea, and wish to use sand so easily obtainable from the beach you should first wash it, and in two or three waters. Where no sand of any kind can be obtained, as in towns, you can buy chalk : you will, of course, pound before placing in the yard.

Cayenne pepper, indeed, all descriptions of pepper, especially the Cayenne in pods, will be found a favorite with fowl, and will be greedily devoured by them; it acts as a powful stimulant, and remarkably promotes laying, and, when mixed in, of course a ground state, with boild oats, will be found productive of the best effects. In this, however, as in every thing else, let moderation be the ruling principle. Pepper will be found particularly useful in feeding your turkeys, as indeed, are all stimulating vegetables, amongst which are nettles, horse-radish, and water-crosses. Geese and ducks will eat greedily-and so, indeed, will your other fowl-cabbage or other greens boiled and handbruised with bran or pollard; a little pepper added to this forms a valuable dietetic.

VALUE OF CORN CORS .- A "Subscriber" in the American Agriculturist, offers the following important facts in relation to the value of Corn Cobs, which commend themselves to the attention of every farmer. We have often expressed ourselves favorably towards the use here made of the article, to be found upin most cases regarded as valueless, except

I have used corn and cob-meal, ground fine with and without oats, for horses, the last 12 or 14 years, and I think it an excellent feed. It keeps a horse loose in his bowels, his hair lies smooth and it makes a great improvement in his looks. I also use the meal with wheat or out chaff, to feed horses. When I first came to live in the neighborhood, I was ricame to live in the neighborhood, I was ridiculed by the neighbors, who said my horses every variety suitable for Parlors, Entries, Dining would not live till spring; but when spring came, they were fatter, and in far better condition than theirs. I found that they took lower rate than any store doing a my advice after this, and fed the same as myself, making a great saving in feed.

Wise Frace .- Much has been said in the papers in favor of the cheapness and durability of wire fences. We fear that a few their stock before purchasing elsewhere. year's trial will disappoint many who have erected them. If the wire is so light as to be afforded at less than two dollars per rod heavy cattle will frequently snap it by accidentally plunging against it, if it is tightly READ the following certificate from Capt. Devoe, the stretched. If slack, is frequent swayed mostretched. If slack, is frequent swaved motion serves in the course of time to crack it off at the post, which tendency is greatly increased by the water which lodges in the holes and gradually diminishes its strength by rusting .- Albany Cultivator.

ROSE OINTMENT, FOR TETTER

PHILADELPHIA, October 31, 1846. PHILADELPHIA, October 31, 1846.

Several years since I was attacked with a breaking out on my neck in the form of Tetter, which I am convinced was c structed at the Barber's Shop. It grandually extended over my face until it reached the upper part of the checks. During the several ments that it c unimed spreading, I used different applications, a one of which had the effect, appearity at loast, of increasing the disease, but from none of them did I perceive the least benefit until I applied the Rose Onymest. By the use of one jut of it, I was perfectly cured and have remained free of the affection.

Detror Charles Oscood,
Dear Sir.—I have read with much interest, your little Translates upon the "causes, treatment and cure" of the febrile diseases which have a extensively prevailed in our country during the last few months—an interest increased no doubt, by the fact that I have individually suffered as much from them. Though I feel myself very inc unpetent to judge safely upon a subject so entirely professional, yet your the sy seems to me well reas used, and your c melu stons just, and I think withal, that your pampilet is extendated to produce much practical good.

Speaking of the medicine he says.—It fully instified your flattering expectations, and as a safe, convenient, and popular remedy, my own experience, so far, in lower me I believe that it will prove a great public benefit. I am pleased to learn that you have resolutly established several agencies for its disposition—though I regret that, with a view to a more general dissemination of it, you should have found it necessary to remove from your present residence among us.

"THE DISPATCH." AN INVALUABLE MEDICINE -We have frequently heard the Celebrated German Bitters, manufactured by Dr. Hoofflond, spoken of in terms of e immendation, and we know deservedly so. It has too common practice, in certain quarters, to pull all manner of useless trash, but in the law of Bitters, hundred, are living winnesses of their great in rad and physicial worth. As a medicine of the Laver Complaint, Jamolice, Nervous Delethty and Dyspessia, it has been i and invaluable, effecting cures and the roghly eradicating diseases, when all other medicines have foiled. We feel a meinted, that in the use of the German Bitters, the patient does a side medicinely diseases, when all other medicines have foiled. We feel a meinted, that in the use of the German Bitters, the patient does a side medicinel, but constantly gains strength and vig or to the frame—a fact worthy of great consideration. The Bitters are pleasent in teste and much, and can be adminimered nucler may circumstances, to the most delicate at much.—indeed, they can be used by all persons with the most perfect sariety. It would be well for these why are much affected in the nervous system, to a material with one ten appendix or less, and gradually increase. CURIOUS CASE OF CONSUMPTION.

There is sourcely a day pusses but there are a number of cases of consumption reported as corred by the use of Dr. Townsen's Sursuparilla. The following was recently received:

Dr. Townsen - Dear Sir. For the last three years I have been offligged with general debility, and nervous consumption of the last stage, and did not expect to ever gain my heath at all. After going through a consec of fieldleine under the case of some of the Baral of Heath in New York and elsewhere, and spending the met of my serminge in attempting to regain my heath, and after reading in a one paper of y an Sarsuparilla i res dved to try H. After using six bestles I found it done me great good, and called to see you at your office; with your advice I kept on, and do most lumrity thank your for your advice. I persever in thing the Sarsuparilla, and have been able to attend to my usual labors for the last four mouths, and I hope by the blessings of G all and your, Sarsuparilla to continue my health. It helped me beyond the expectations of all who knew my case.

TWO GHILDREN SAVED.

Very few families indeed-on- fact we have not heard of one—that used ler. I wassend's Sursparilla in time, but any children the past Summer, while those that did not, suckened and died. The corplinate we publish below is a calcusive evidence of its avaina, and is only another instance of its avaing the lives of children:

Dr. Townsesso-Dear Syr: I had two children cured by your Surspanish of the summer complaint and dysentary; one was only 15 ments old not the other 3 years. They were very much reduced, and we expected they would die; they were given up to two recoverable physicians. When the theet or and rouch as that we must lose them, we resolved to try your Satsaparilla we had been been my for learning the first we had been do much of, but they were given up by two respectable physicians. DYSPLIPSIA.

No fluid of medicina has ever been discovered which so nearly resembles the gastric mice or saliva in decomposing food and strengthening the organis of digretim as this preparation of Siresiparille. It positively error every case of dyspensia, however severe or chronse.

Bank Department, Albany, May 19, 1845.

Dr. Townsend-Sir: I have been alllicted for several years with dyspensia in its worst form, attended with a urness of stomach, less of appetite, extreme hearthurn, and a great avers in the all kinds of food, and for weeks, (what I chall out) I have been mable to retain but a small portion on my stomach. I tried the usual remodies, but they had but little or no effect in removing the complaint. I was induced, about two months source to try your Extract of Sarsayardia, and I must say with little confidence; but after using nearly two bottles, I found my appetite restored and the heartburn entirely removed; and I would sarnessly recommend the use of it to those who have been afficied as I have been affected as I have been of the usual parameters of Sarsayardia.
