THE RETURN OF SPRING.

Dear as the dove, whose wafting wing, The green leaf ransomed at the main, Thy genial glow, returning Spring, Comes to our shores again-For thou hast been a wanderer long, On many a fair and foreign strand, In balm and beauty, sun and song, Passing from land to land.

Thou bring'st the blossom to the bee, To earth a robe of emerald dye, The leaflet to the naked tree, And rainbow in the sky; I feel thy blest benign control The pulses of my youth restore ; Opening the spring of sense and soul, To love and joy once more.

I will not people thy green bowers, With sorrow's pale and spectre band, Or blend with thine the faded flowers

Of memory's distant land; For thou wert surely never given, To wake regret from pleasures gone, Bot like an angel sent from Heaven,

To sooth creation's groan. Then, while the groves thy garlands twine, Thy spirit breathes in flower and tree, My heart shall kindle at thy shrine, And worship God in thee;

And in some calm sequestered spot, While listening to thy choral strain, Past griefs shall be awhile forgot, And pleasure bloom again.

A STORY OF THE WAR OF 1812.

shooting which is not ashamed to look one in the face. He states that one of the "rank and file" under his command once discharged six shot at a barrel rolling down a hill, he being at the bottom of the hill. Upon the barrel reaching the bottom of the hill, it was examined, and no mark of a bullet was discovered upon it, whereupon his comrades began to ridicule him. He, however, very cooly desired them to shake the barrel, by doing which they found that the bullets were inside-the whole six having entered the bung hole, at which point he had aimed.

His mother, however, cautioned him, when he left home, against indulging in uncommon exertions of strength, for as yet, said sher "Angus is but a tender boy !"

ORDER AND CHEERFULNESS .- It is not es. sential to the happy home that there should be the luxury of the carpeted floor, the cushioned sofa, the soft shade of the astralamp. These gild the apartments, but reach not the heart. A neatness, order, and a cheerful heart make home the sweet paradise it is often found to be. There is joy, as real, by the cottage fireside, as in the splendid saloons of wealth and refinement. The elegancies of life are not to be despised. They are to be received with gratitude. But their possession does not insure happiness. The sources of true joy are not so shallow. The cheerful heart, like the kaleidoscope, causes most discordant materials to arrange themselves in harmony and beauty.

THE Two SEXES.-When a rakish youth goes astray, friends gather round him in order to restore him to the path of virtue. Gentleness and kindness are lavished upon him to win him back to innocence and peace. No one would suspect that he had ever sinned .- | Trade But when a poor confiding girl is betrayed, she receives the brand of society, and is henceforth driven from the way of virtue .-The betrayer is honored, respected, esteemed; but his ruined heart-broken victim knows there is no peace for her this side of the cold and solitary grave. > NOTICE TO EDITORS AND OTHERS.

New York, Nov. 25th, 1850. Mr. H. B. MASSER, Sunbury Pa .- Dear Sir :-In some portions of the country where we had advertised our Sarsaparilla, in 1848, the Editors at his Office, 152 SPRUCE Street, every day beof some of the papers have seen fit to take upon themselves the responsibility of continuing the same after the agreement expired, and in some cases have had the presumption to send us a bill for the amount. Now we have no objection to have all the papers in the United States advertise for us for years, if they are pleased to do so at their own expense, but we cannot afford to pay them unless they have our authority for the work. We write to you for the purpose of informing the Editors, through you, that they are at liberty to advertise as long as they please, but we must not be held responsible without our written authority.
