

ONE WEEK LATER FROM NORTHERN MEXICO.

HIGHLY IMPORTANT. The Attack on Matamoros. One Hundred and Fifty Mexicans Killed. CAPTAIN FORD KILLED.

THE AMERICAN CONSUL WOUNDED.

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 2. The Steamship Fanny arrived here this morning, from the Rio Grande, bringing dates to the 30th of October, being six days later than the previous arrivals.

The captain of the Fanny brings the intelligence that the attack on Matamoros was commenced on the morning of the 21st; and on the evening of the 23d, Gen. Carranza and his forces had possession of the city within four squares of the Plaza.

The Mexican government troops still held out, suffering the loss of one hundred and fifty killed and wounded.

The Revolutionists lost but three men, including Capt. Ford, who was in command of the Texan Rangers.

The Mexican General, Avales, was wounded during the engagement. Orders were issued by the Mexican general to give no quarters to the Americans.

Mr. Langstreth, a merchant, doing business in Matamoros, was killed.

The Revolutionists set the city on fire on the 23d, and the Custom-House and a number of other buildings were destroyed.

On the 25th, Mr. Devine's stores were set on fire and destroyed.

The American Consul, during the fight, was wounded.

From the Newark Daily Advertiser. KOSKUTH AND THE MISSISSIPPI.

Among our European correspondents, thought by the Europe, which arrived in Boston on Wednesday, we have received the following interesting letter from an American friend at Matanzas, formerly an honorable member of Congress, which gives some important information with regard to Kossuth, which throws considerable light upon a mystery now beginning to be left concerning his movements.

It is perhaps proper for us to add that the letters hitherto received, entirely confirm the intimations as to the feeling of the distinguished Hungarian toward Capt. Long and the officers of the Mississippi; which seems to have risen immediately after he came acquainted with the fact that he did not consistently with his duty, comply with his wish to visit several European cities on business understood to be connected with his future projects.

This would clearly have been a departure from their orders from Government, which we believe required vessel to proceed directly home.

MARSHALLS, Oct. 12th, 1851. We reached this place a few days ago, as Kossuth and his party left it. His earnings here seems to have occasioned considerable excitement, and as everything relating to him is regarded with interest at us, you will doubtless be glad to receive particulars concerning the brief visit, which are not likely to be generally known.

The frigate Mississippi arrived here such expressed a desire to leave her, and to England through France, though he is unprovided with the necessary passports from all passengers or travellers; nevertheless applied to the U. S. Consul, in L. Hodge, Esq., through Captain Long, to procure them, and in a letter to the Consul had done everything in his power to do and oblige him; he complained bitterly of the delay, and demanded his conduct and that of Long—proverbially one of the most conscientious, and obliging officers in any; and who, withal, has done everything in his power to make the voyage agreeable to the exiles; placing his best apartments at the service of their distinguished and his family. In this letter he said he would leave the ship at the first port which it will stop, which he justly says will be Gibraltar. "I will then go," he says, "by some private conveyance to the United States, and make my excuses for not profiting by the hospitality of your country vessel, by the publication of your copy, and will confidently await the result of the public opinion of the United States."

On the 6th ult., after a short illness, JOSEPH CHAMBERS, Esq., a distinguished member of the bar of Chambersburg, Pa., in the 53d year of his age.

was among the direct violations of the American Consul's pledge, founded on Kossuth's promises. He also published a proclamation "to the Democracy of Matanzas."

It appears from this letter that the reports of Kossuth having quarreled and left the Mississippi are true. The following additional confirmation we find in the New York Herald:—

Despatches have been received at the Navy Department, from Commodore Morgan, with private letters from highly respectable Americans abroad, which are calculated somewhat to damp the enthusiasm in behalf of Kossuth.

At the last advices, the Mississippi was at Gibraltar, where she will remain till Kossuth's pleasure is known as regards his coming to this country, which is exceedingly doubtful. Previous to his embarkation at Constantinople, a correspondence passed between him and Commodore Morgan, in which the latter distinctly informed Kossuth that his orders did not authorize him to let the vessel go to Southampton, where Kossuth desired to land, but that the orders were simply to afford him a passage to this country.

At Matanzas, the ship was constantly surrounded by boats filled with an excited populace, and the authorities had to use all their exertions to prevent a riot.

Captain Long entreated Kossuth not to compromise the United States flag by issuing manifestos and exciting the people. But little attention, however, was paid to the request; Kossuth makes no secret of his intention being to raise funds in England and France, for the purpose of attacking Austria and revolutionizing Europe, and it was this avowed intention which induced the French authorities to refuse him permission to enter Matanzas. He assumes the air of a conqueror—not of an exile.

The Mississippi will wait at Gibraltar till Kossuth is heard from in England, when, if he desires to come here, she will convey him; and if not, she will remain at her station. He will only visit this country, however, to raise the means for prosecuting his revolutionary project, and not to make it his residence.

DR. HOEPLAN'S GERMAN BITTERS.—That this medicine will cure liver complaint and dyspepsia, no one can doubt after using it as directed. It acts specifically upon the stomach and liver; it is preferable to calomel in all bilious diseases; it acts as a specific upon the liver as calomel's calomel prostrates the system—the bitters strengthen and never prostrates the patient, and will give renewed life and health to the delicate invalid, and restore the liver to its functions, and give digestion and appetite to those several cases wherein the ordinary medicines fail in producing any effect.

WAYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL: For the Cure of COUGHS, COLDS, HOARSENESS, BRONCHITIS, CROUP, ASTHMA, WHOOPING-COUGH AND CONSUMPTION.

Among the numerous discoveries Science has made in this generation to facilitate the business of life—increase its enjoyment, and even prolong the term of human existence, none can be named of more real value to mankind, than this contribution of Chemistry to the Healing Art.—A vast trial of its virtues throughout this broad country, has proven beyond a doubt, that no medicine or combination of medicines yet known, can so surely control and cure the numerous varieties of pulmonary disease which have hitherto swept from our midst thousands and thousands every year. Indeed, there is now abundant reason to believe a Remedy has at length been found which can be relied on to cure the most dangerous affections of the lungs. Our space here will not permit us to publish any proportion of the cures effected by its use, but we would present the following opinions of eminent men, and refer further enquiry to the circular which the Agent below named, will always be pleased to furnish free, wherein are full particulars, and indisputable proof of these facts.

From the President of Amherst College, the celebrated PROFESSOR HUTCHCOCK.

"James C. Ayer—Sir: I have used your Cherry Pectoral, in my own case of deep-seated Bronchitis, and am satisfied from its beneficial operation, that it is an admirable compound for the relief of laryngeal and bronchial difficulties. If my opinion as to its superior character can be of any service, you are at liberty to use it as you think proper."

EDWARD HUTCHCOCK, L. L. D., From the widely celebrated PROFESSOR SILLIMAN, M. D., L. D., Professor of Chemistry, Mineralogy, &c., Yale College, Member of the Lit., Hist. Med. Phil., and Scientific Societies of America and Europe.

"I deem the CHERRY PECTORAL an admirable composition from some of the best articles in the Materia Medica, and a very effective remedy for the class of diseases it is intended to cure."

MAJOR PATTERSON, President of the S. C. Senate, states he has used the CHERRY PECTORAL with wonderful success, to cure an inflammation of the lungs.

From one of the first Physicians in Maine. Saco, Me., April 26, 1849.

Dr. J. C. Ayer, Lowell, Mass. Sir: I am now constantly using your CHERRY PECTORAL in my practice, and prefer it to any other medicine for pulmonary complaints. From observation of many severe cases, I am convinced it will cure coughs, colds, and diseases of the lungs, that have put to defiance all other remedies.

I invariably recommend its use in cases of consumption, and consider it much the best remedy known for that disease.

Respectfully yours, L. S. CUSHMAN, M. D. Prepared and sold by JAMES C. AYER, Practical Chemist, Lowell, Mass. Sold in Sunbury by H. MASSER, and by Druggists generally throughout the State. November 1, 1851.—lyc3m.
