"Joy for thee-happy friend! Thy bark has past

The rough sea's foam ! Now the deep yearnings of thy soul are stilled-Home! home! thy peace is won, thy heart is filled, Thon art gone home "-HEMANS.

Many in this little community have not forgotten and will remember now, with mournful interest, the fair, and gentle girl, whose name heads this brief notice-for she is dead-and sad hearts are sorrowing over the mysterious Providence, which has left an earthly home so monrofully desolate!

amongst us a stranger, winning our admiration, and affection, not only by her personal loveliness but by the happy joyousness of a guileless, child-like nature, and the more noble, and enduring qualities of heart, and mind which every day seemed more fully to develope. She was the light of every circle in which she moved-carrying sunshine with her presence-for it was ever on her brow. welling up from the depths of a happy heart ! Months passed on-she came again-how changed! Disease had began its work-the bloom was fading from her cheeks, and the light vanishing from her eye. The smile of peculiar sweetness (that will ever live in the memory of those who loved her,) was still there, but laughing, joyous girlhood was transformed into thoughtful womanhood with deep, serious views of life, and her own re- DRILLINGS and all kinds of linen cotton sponsibility to the great Being, who had placed her an actor, in life's scenes. We knew she was ill-but we fondly hoped, and believed that when spring would come again, with its sunny air, and its buds, and blossoms, health's roses would bud and bloom once more on that pale cheek and she, live many coming years to gladden the hearts that loved her. Spring came-but she faded with its first warm breath, and its early, fragrant blossoms have fallen upon her grave. She has gone to God. Mysterious though it is to us, for her it is a blessed change. Taken in her early woman bood, from the trials, and cares, which are incident to all, and which are so peculiarly woman's lot-to her eternal home, where she can never again know weariness, or sorrow! Writes one (who was with her when the last streggle came with death.) "she died rejoicing, charging Pleas held in Sunbury, in April last, applicawith death,) "she died rejoicing, charging me not to mourn for her. She knew she was making a happy exchange and her last message to her distant friends was prepare for your dying hour and meet me in Heaven "

Brief record of a young life! for she is membered with the angels now! see mourn our loss! and by one who knew and loved her well-this passing tribute is inscribed to her memory !
