THE ANCIENT TOMBS.

We seldom meet with newspaper poetry at all comparable with the following, which , we chanced to meet with in the Christian Advocate. The author is an original correspondent of that paper, and appears too modest even to assume a fictitious signature, while if we judge correctly his real name should not be unknown to fame:

They rise on isle and ocean's shore, They stand by lake and stream, And garnish many a shepherd's tale, And many a poet's dream. Where darkly waves the northern pine, Where bright the myrtle blooms, And on the desert's trackless sands, Arise the Aucient Tombs.

The hands that raised them, long ago, In death and dust have slept.

And long the grave bath sealed the founts Of eyes that o'er them wept, But still they stand like ocean rocks, Amid the passing waves Of generations, that go down To their forgotten graves.

For many an early nation's steps Have passed from hill and plain; Their homes are gone, their deeds forgot, But still their tombs remain ; They tell, when time bath left no trace Of towers or storied page, To latest times, how glorious was

Earth's holy heritage. They tell us of the lost and mourned. When earth was new to tears, The bard that left his toneful lyre, The chief that left his spears: Ah, where their lights of love and fame, On those dark alters shed,

To keep, undimmed, through time and The memory of the dead.

If so, alas for love's bright tears And for ambition's dreams, For earth has kept their monuments, But lost the sleepers' names; They live no more on history's scroll Or song's inspiring breath, For alters raised to human fame Have turned to shrines of death.

But from your silence, glorious graves, What mystic voices rise, That thus through passing ages speak Their lessons to the wise. Behold how still the world rewards Her brightest, as of yore; For then she gave a nameless grave, And now she gives no more.

PENNSYLVANIA ANTHRACITE COAL IN

The Railroad Journal learns that a movement is about being made to introduce anthracite coal into use in London, and arrangements are in progress for the importation of worked up to order, and furnished in any part of it into England from Pennsylvania. It is said that the English bituminous coal is re- Church Window Glass executed in Gothic and tailed there this summer at seven dollars other architectural styles, and competent worktwenty-seven cents; that last winter it was men sent to any part of the Union. Orders from retailed at ten dollars eighteen cents per ton and will probaly be higher the coming winter. The writer suggests that with our Anthracite coal, our grates for burning it could Just Published and for Sale be sent, as they differ somewhat from those now in use in London. Stoves, he believes, will not be tolerated in England, but the grates will be acceptable. He concludes by saying that "Londoners, he is convinced, Being a collection of approved declarations, writs, will give the thing a fair trial, and it only wants this to make them give up revaling now in use in the United tates. wants this to make them give up revelling in their own smoke." He has been in this country and understands the subject well, particularly the difference in the quality in the two coals If their Bituminous coals With notes and additions, together with a shor sell at the above prices, the greater durability of our Anthracite must certainly render it far more economical to the people of AFFAIRS AT ST. PETERSBURG .- The Journal of Commerce has an interesting letter from St. Petersburg, which after giving us an inkling of what is going on there, in reference to the war, says:

The exaggerated reports which appear in English and French journals in regard to the condition of St. Petersburg, are often so obviously untrue as not even to merit contradiction. Such are the foolish stories that will be a saving of labor to the pleader, and con-Nicholas, the Emperor, is insane; that Count duce to safety and brevity in our pleadings. Nesselrode has been hissed in the streets, lawyer in our state. and that the Heir Apparent to the throne, in conjunction with many leading noblemen, has entered a solemn protest against the further prosecution of the war. All tidings from St. Petersburg tend to show that these and many similar stories are not even founded upon fact; but as yet the court, the nobility, and the people, remain united in the determination of firm resistance to their foes.

A watch was lately sent by mail from Pensacola Florida, to Bangor, Maine, to be repaired and sent back again by the same conveyance; and the whole expense was five dollars and sixty cents less than the price asked for the same repairs at Pensacola.

The total number of killed during the St. Louis riot was ten, and some of the wounded, nt last advices, were still in a dangerous condition. It is estimated that 2000 pistols and 500 bowie knives were sold in the city while the riots were in progress.

Harrisburg : HARRISBURG, June 30, 1853. GENTLEMENT. After a careful examination of your "American pleaders assistant," I take pleasure in expressing my entire approval of the selection and composition of the precedents thus offered to the public. The legal profession in Pennsylvania stands in need of a correct system of pleading, adapted to our habits of business, and the practice of the courts. Your forms of declarations being, to a great extent, founded on the acts of assembly, It should be in the hands of every practising

Yours, with great respect, JNO. J. PEARSON. Hon. A. Jordan, Wm. M. Rockefeller and M. . Shindel, Esquires.

W. McCaurt, Esq., Dear Sic:--I received more than a year ago opy of "Reed,s Pleaders' Assistant" improved by Judge Jordan and others. I examined it with ome care roon afterwards, and have had occasion to use it several times since. I think it decidedly valuable as a manuel for practising attorneys in Pennsylvania, and do not hesitate to recommend it. If it were generally used it would increase the accuracy of the profession in matters which are often very carelessly done.
I am very truly yours, &c.,

J. S. BLACK. I also received a copy of the Pleaders' Assistant, and have examined it sufficiently to enable me to concur very heartily in the above commondations by the Chief Justice.
