The miserable condition in which the ennsylvania canal from Northumberland o the junction of the Juniatta and Susquenanna, has been all summer, is attracting the attention of persons other than those who have depended upon it as a means to get their produce to market. We are heartily glad that this is so. The more general the complaint, the sooner will a proper remedy be applied by the Canal Commissioners to obviate the difficulties under which the business community labor. The canal is now so completely clogged with sand and other deposits that it is carcely possible for an empty boat, much ess one that happens to be loaded, to pass brough without great detention in sticking ast. Jams, that frequently require days to set boatmen out of, are the consequence of this state of things, and thus is trade suspended, or rather interfered with, to the great injury of parties transporting as well as to the state at large. The water, in the canal, it is true, has been reduced by the drought, to a very low stage; but, we are satisfied, that even the limited quantity on hand, would be sufficient for all purposes, were the canal in the condition that it was designed to be kept, and as individuals would keep it were it out of the arena of politics, or at least out of the possession of the state.

No feeder, however great its capacity, would be of material service in the present obstructed state of the canal. It is clearly, therefore, the duty of the Canal Commissigners to remove the sand and other deposite that have been accumulating for dirt, sand and other deposits complained of, tunately, this attempt of Mr. Montgomery may be embraced very fairly within ordis did not succeed. If the editors of the nary repairs, and as such the Canal Com- Gazette cannot understand this, God help missioners have unquestionably the right to them and their understanding. apply the remedy. But apart from this, it cannot be doubted that any moneys expended to repair a damage or injury to the public works, such as by flood, long drought, or other such cause, would be sanctioned by the Legislature. Were it not so, it is obvious that the interests of the community and the coffers of the state must suff r for want of the application of the supplest doctrines, based on manifest economy, to and on the Chesapeake. The Susquehanna Division of the Pennvivania canal can be made one of the most profitable improvements in the state, as much so, as the Delaware Division, which is dependent mainly upon coal tonnage for its support, and which yields dividends beyond that of any other public work,

It should be, in fact, enlarged sufficiently to accommodate as much coal tonnage as the Schoylkill canal. It will always be taxed to its greatest capacity. The completion of the Susquehanna Railway will not lessen its us fulness. Both channels, liks the R ading road and the canal running parall-I with it, will have as much as they can get through with. Our Canal Commissioners should bear this in mind, and at once go to workin removing the obstructions alluded to, and otherwise improve a common carrier of so much impor-

17 The editor of the Lewisburg Democrat, who is haunted and disturbed day and night, by phantoms and visions of Cameronism, is sorely perplexed that we should keep the Democratic ticket at the head of our paper, and yet oppose our of the nominees on that ticket. We are not responsible for the making of that ticket, but we are bound to publish it, as the convention formed it. But we should like to know whether this is not more democratic than to take the name of one of the nominees from the ticket and substitute another in its place, in obedience to the injunctions of the committee of safety, as has been done hy our neighbors of the Sonbury Gazette with the candidate for Sehriff. If it were not that the editors of the Democrat and nears of for (not light) with which he en- Carette were both tarred with the same veloped biaselt and his readers, we can stick, to keep them from straying from the fold into which they had been placed by heir keepers, it would affind an excellent phiect for the editor of the Democrat to xercise his wits upon, in expounding the seauties of consistency and democracy, as illustrated by the career of the Sonbory

> There are pretended democrats in this community—pensioners upon the par ty, whose day of grace is at an end-who hought nothing of talking and voting gainst Col. Out upon such hyp cricy. ees from this county, who assisted to nomdefeat that gentleman? Such are the men were from cholera. Great alarm prevails who would rule the democracy of this county.

The editor of the Sunbury Gazette, in his last paper, flounders through a whole column, in a vain attempt to answer our charge against David B. Montgomery for his vote to tax the coal of this county .-Without attempting to deny that Montgomery did vote for this tax, the Gazette endeavors to excuse him by a miserable quibble, in charging Gen. Packer and John B. Packer with having also voted for this tax. When an editor can insult his own readers, by endeavoring to cram down their throats such contemptible evasions of poor opinion of their judgment or discernment. One simple fact is sufficient to shew the duplicity and fallacy of the Gazette in its attempts to impose upon its readers. It is not denied but that both Gen. Packer and John B. Packer, labored earnestly during the whole session to obtain If so, would any man of common some sus-mers with an attempt to get up a tax on all the grain they take to market. If the Gazette has no respect for itself, it ought, at least, to have some for its readers, and not attempt to stuff them with such insufferable nonsense. We have already stated and referred to the Journal for the facts, that the friends of the road were obliged to take the charter upon the best terms they could then get it, but at a subsequent session, when a suppleyears.
