Washington, I can only predict' but I should be inclined to believe that it will be opposed

there by the Southern interest, were it only from spite against the Abelitionists, whose cry has been instrumental in causing the rejection of the treaty as it formerly stood. The late victories which the Dominicans have gained over the Haytiens under soulou-que have turned their heads crazy. They consider themselves the first nation in the world, and insuit to the right and to the left The exequators of the Hamburg Consul and of the Vice Commercial Agent of the United States Porto Plata (Mr. Rothe) have been taken from them without assigning a reason, and the Chancelier of the French Consulate nt St. Domingo was the other day arrested. The latter is in good hands, and the affair has been made a grave question by his chief, M. Durasse, and his grievances have been also 247; adopted by the British Consul. The Hamburg Consul, insulted as he has been by the | 100 Dominican Government, and being the rep- | 300 resentative of a small State, appealed to the 100 British Consul, and through the hands of that gentleman has sent in a most powerfully written protest against proceedings so uncommon in international transactions.

But the case of Mr. Rothe, the United States Vice Connercial Agent, is more out-regrous still, for he only learned of his hav-log bown in the control of his having been deprived of his exquatur by seeing it announced in the official gazette. His 1603 chief, Mr. Jonathan Elliott, Commercial 653 Agent of the United State at St. Domingo, | 2037 now commissioned to make the treaty, has 2982 setel n Mr. Rothe's affair without that price 156 which one could have expected an American 294 would exhibit when he sees his flag basely | 1902 insulted. Mr. Rothe's house was entered, no - 100 withstanding that the stripes and stars were 2233 fiving, and his demicile violated in conseovence of his defending the rights of an 1084 American citizen by the name of Reynolds; 2062 yes an armed force of ten soldiers and some 300 alguants ferred their way into Mr. Rothe's 1044 domicile, (above which the American flag was | 1274 flying) and carried away an old rickety piano | 2314 which Mr. Psynolds, who had a claim of one 2114 hamired dollars thereon, had deposited there. 2092 I understand Mr. Rothe has protested, sending a copy of his protest to his chief, and to 4641 the Department at Washington. Any other 1692 person but Mr. Elliot, after such an outrage, would have broken up all negotiations with 96 the Dominican government until a proper reparation had been offered for the insult, but | 3334 am sorry to say that such has not been the | 3354 course followed by the American representa-tive. You are most likely aware that Eng-land and France have sent a naval force. under Commodore Kellet, to Port au-Prince to 3411 blockade the Haytien coast in case his Sabie | 203 Malesty should take another freak into his bond; meanwhile the yellow fever has shown itself on board of some of the vessels, and I should think the Commodore must be really 318 tired of watching Senionque, who does not feel inclined to make peace with the Domini-

Noval Case .- In the Quarter Sessions, of Philadelphia on Saturday, a novel case was brought to the notice of the Court. An application was made on a writ of habeas Cor-Doight, to recover the possession of her child whom she alleges is in the enstedy of a lady named Mrs. Hibbs. The mother under oath said to the court, that in January, 1849, being compelled by great indigence and urged by friendly golicitation, she took said child, then six weeks old, to the Pennsylvania Hos- 14a 68p pital, and gave it to Mrs Hibbs, the respondent, who was a nurse at that Institution .-- ; That since then she has been unable to see

The respondent, a respectable ledy, in answer, said that the mother was mistaken for she had never received a child at the Hessian pital, and had never the custody of the complaimint's. The Steward of the Hospital said that the mother had called there for her child some two years since, but she must be mistaken, because to admit an infant under the circumstances related was contrary to the rules of the Institution. There being a desire by all parties to get a clue to the real facts, the case was postponed for further invertigation.

How Louis Napoleon Conducted Himser. -In discussing the question that has been started in regard to the manner in which Louis Nupolson conducted himself while in New York, the Three of that city

"As Louis Napoleon was in London du-ring a residence of many years, so we sup-pose he was here. There he lived in a neat 263 small house, in No. 2 King street, St. James, where he kept a handsome mistress, a large 171 collar and a small library. The society in 202 which he mixed was fast and fleshy, but not 1974 by any means what is termed the high society 100 Eingland His chief resort was Gore House, the beautiful seat of Lady Blessington, near Kingstown, where the most brilhant men in England met, but which no 1964 woman could enter without leaving her reputation at the gates. When not partaking of these graceful lospitalities, which he partock of most abundantly, and most ungratefully repaid, his favorite hauntwas Dabourg's Cafe, at the Hay-market, where he dined and | 130 reamed over his destiny with Persigny and 100 others of his followers. No one, not even | 169 Count D'Orsay, who was a keen annalyser of 181 men, could even then, after the intensest 100 scratiny, read that hard, mean, sinister, stir-less face without one noble lineament or genial expression. The features most marked in his character were, however, a most de-termined personal courage, a strong will, and much habit of meditation. He had neither genius nor even reflued education, as his works and conversation showed, but a most prefound cunning. He differed from other mon more than he surpassed them, and in mystery there is much. He has, however, succeeded .-- and, as Telleyrand rays: Nothing succeeds well but success.

Ir is understood that our Minister to Spain, Mr. Jodge, finds himself unable to procure a settlement of our many claims upon that government, beyond the mers shadow of a 193 Hummeirich Hen promise. He writes that the Spanish government have admitted the justice of our 65 Kroll Michael (193) demands, but that their treasury is exhausted by home demands, and that they have not means to pay off their indebtedness to this country just now, and ask for an extension of time. And this, notwithstanding the 108; Washington Union, has, on several occasions, 208 stated, as if by anthority, that all American stated, as if by anthority, that all American claims on Spain had been promptly settled. The organ is as mendacious as the administration is weak and inefficient. We know not whether the administration is responsible for the lies of its organ, but we no know that it is destined to lie just as flat in a 200 live months.—Louisville Journal.
