PACTS MOM LOWELL.

In these days of tariff discussion, an un-wonted interest is beginning to attach itself to manufactures, and our exchanges are many of them busied in polating out the incredible number of tuman beings who would be directly sided in getting a living, should manufactures be fully protected and encourged.—
in pursuance of this, let the reader go with us over a few facts from the Scientific American relative to Lowell, Massachusetts:

"Middlesex Company make use, annually, of 2,000,000 teazles, 2,000,000 lbs, fine wool, 50,000 lbs. glue, $30,000 worth of dye stuffs, and $13,000 worth of soap.

Manufacturing Co., use 1,000,000 lbs, of madder, 380,000 copperas, 60,000 alum, 50,000 sumac, 40,000 scap, and 45,000 indigo, per annum.
"The Lowel Bleachery uses 40,000 lbs. indigo, and $30,000 worth of other dyeing materials, per annum."

If the reader will turn to his Brande or M'Culloch, and ascertain the amount of labor M'Culloch, and ascertain the amount of most it requires to produce glue, soap, dye stuffs, sumac, copperas, and the industry in turn which these branches again involve, if he will again be pleased to remember that what subversive of the ends of the Christian minis-America does not now manufacture she is try. The limit, on ordinary occasious, accortaking up more and more every year, and if ding to the bishop, should be from thirty to he will remember that these manufactures forty-five minutes. West, year by year, he will see reason enough why free labor and manufactures should receive all possible encouragement. Let us take a few more facts relative to a city which is not only great in itself, but whose value has made others great :

-In Lowell there are twelve great estabblishments, which have aggregate capital stock of $13,900.000 ; they have 52 mills. including shops; run 394,344 spindles, and 11,589 looms. They employ 8,990 females, and 4.307 males. They manufacture 2,374,000 yards of cotton goods per week, 44,000 of woolens, and 25,000 of carpets. They use weekly 765,000 pounds of cotton, an 91,000 of wool, and consume annually 62,317 gallons of oil, and 20,000 of lard, 29,750 tons anthracite coal, 33 300 bushels of charcoal, and 1.-649,000 of starch. The average produce of each loom weaving No. 14 yarn is 45 yards per day; weaving No. 30 yarn 33 yards per

The example of Lowel has done more for benefiting America than can be conceived by one who has not investigated the supject. It has been, so as to speak, a school of industry, and has shown, thousands how to not only grow rich but to do good

"The several manufacturing companies have established a hospital for the convenience and comfort of persons employed by them respectively when sick, which is under the superintendence of one of the best of surgeons and physicians

This say some, is selfishness. Very well let it be such. It is at least selfishness of an order which was but little known before New England established a new and humane system of factory labor. The increase of population in these manufacturing towns and States is also worth studying, as compared with the rate at which it drags in the sheep raising districts of Virginia.

The population of Lowell in 1828 was 3,532. In 1840 it was 20,796. In 1850 it was 23,385. Increase in ten years, 12,280. Population of Lowell in 1856, 37,553. Something of the miraculous speed with which work is done appears from the follow-The Lowell Machine Shop, located among the above mills, can furnish machinery com-plete for a mill of 6,000 spindles in three months. We of Pennsylvania should never fail to take interest in these questions of manufacturing. The day is coming when we shall be colossal in manufacturing wealth, and it would be well to steady and confirm that developement betimes.

A very sad case of seduction and suicide as narrated in the Cincinnati papers, as having developed itself on Saturday afternoon last It appears that a German named Kaiser, who kept a meat store in Vine street, near Allison, had married fourteen years ago in Germany, and recently emigrated to Cincinnati. and commenced a successful business therehis family consisting of a wife and one female child. His wife was known as an apparently modest, quiet, hard working woman, well m athrogo, Mr. Kaiser being sick, his wife took charge of the shop and Mr. K. coming down stairs one evening, was astonished on detecting his wife and a map named Glossner, who kept a liquor store near, in an illicit anour. He drove Glossner out, but the seducer escaped. When Mr. K. returned to his shop he found it closed and his wife gone. She was never seen alive again, and was supposed to be concealed somewhere. The villian who seduced her, rather gloried in his crime. Kaiser sadly pursued his business, and applied for a divarce. On Saturday last, when the ice broke in the Miami canal, the dead body of a woman was revealed horribly distigured. It proved to be that of Mrs Kaiser. An immense crowd attended the coroner's inquest, and the fact was established that on the evening of her crime she proceeded directly from her husband's store to the canal, where she put an end to her existence. She had on precisely the same ciothes, had the keys of the store in her pocket, and the money she had that day taken ir Those who knew her, believed the offence was her first one, and that having been detected, she at once determined to die rather than Threats of lynching were made sgainst of Glossner, on learning the facts; but the police interfered, and saved the offender, to be to dealt with by no other Court, perhaps, than that one where offences never feil of punishment, either in this life or the next. - Dispatch.

weeks ago a convict in the Ohio Penitentiary was troubled with inflammation of the eyes, and was forced, against his will and protest, to submit to an operation by a physician of the prison. The result was total blindness of one eye. The physician, not satisfied with the mischief he had caused, insisted upon operating on the other eye. The man again protested and resisted—but be was bound and compelled again to submit, and the consequence was total blindness of the other eye. What rendered the case more distressing was that the poor fellow had been convicted on not very reliable testimony, and his time of service was on the eve of expiring. The matter was brought before the Legislature, and reserred to a committee, who, after investigating the facts, made a unanimous report the Attorney General to institute criminal proceedings against the Doctor and his abet tors; also to prosecute civilly for damages to the patient; and finally admitting the unfortunate patient to the Asylum for the Blind."
