HOLLIDAYSBURG, May 8. Yesterday morning Thaddens Banks, Esq , opened for the defence, commencing at the opening of the Court, and ending at a little after 10 o'clock. The arguments of Mr. Banks were characterized by shrewd reasoning, and at times he became quite eloquent in behalf of the prisoner. He cited the usual authorities—not forgetting the murder of Mr. Bradford wrongly suffered-a case, I believe, cited on the occasion of every criminal trial where conviction hinges upon circumstantial

W. A. Stokes, Esq., for the Commonwealth, commenced at the close of Mr. Banks' plea. He opened with a beautiful exordium, and then reviewed the history of the case, begin-ning with McKim's residence at Dunleith, and going over the whole ground connected with the fearful tragedy. Never have we heard a case based upon circumstantial evi-dence hundled with more legal ability then was displayed by Mr. Stokes in this case. One by one he demolished the proofs set up by the defence, until the defence itself seems like the "baseless fabrick of a vision." He brought his remarks to a close at 4 o'clock, having spoken just four hours, during which time he was listened to with intense interest by as many people as could conveniently be crowded into the Court House, many of whom

At the close of Mr. Stokes' address, the Judge immediately began to deliver his charge to the jury. It was a long and elaborate review of the testimony in the case, and the strong points that told against the prisoner were especially telling coming from the Court. It was nearly six o'clock when he concluded, and it was impossible to resist the conclusion that the result of the trial will be a conviction.

The jury retired to deliberate upon their verdict as soon as the charge was concluded THE VERDICT.

After an absence of an hour and a quarter, the jury returned to the Court Room, which was very much crowded. The foreman de-livered their verdict as follows: "We find the defendant, David S McKim, guilty of Murder in the First Degree, in manner and form as indicted." Mr. Hotins, one of the counsel for the defence, immediately gave notice of a motion in arrest of judgment; but there can be little doubt that it will be overruled.

The prisoner was removed to the jail, to swait the sentence of the Court and the decision of the Governor in regard to his execution. So ends this trial, which has excited an extraordinary interest in this county. It has been fairly and ably conducted, and the prisoner was defended with zeal and telent. Still it is impossible, after having heard the evidence, to doubt that he is fairly convicted, and that he will justly suffer on the gallows.

SECOND DESPATCH. HOLLIDAYSBURG, May 8. The Court met this morning at the usual hour, and was crowded to excess. The motion for arrest of judgment was overruled, McKim was brought into Court and as a condemned man, excited more than ordinary curiosity. The Judge informed him of his conviction and in the ordinary form asked him if he had anything to say why sentence ded manner that he was entirely innocent and asserted that he had been convicted unfairly and by means of perjury.

The Judge then addressed him in a very solemn and impressive manner, assuring him that he had been fairly tried, ably defended and legally convicted of the murder of his friend and travelling companion, and he then proceeded to pronounce the sentence of McKim was then taken back to jail to await the signing of the death-warrant, by the Governor.

ceived recent reports of the grain and fruit crops from nearly every portion of the State of Maryland, and are happy to remark that, in spite of many previous unfavorable circumstances and much alarm, there is a prospect of a good crop of both. Aud in this connection it gives us still further joy to repeat a former opinion, confirmed by more recent observation of the reports of our exchange papers, that the wheat promise generally is that of more than an average crop, though in some districts it will doubtless be short in proportion to the amount sown. The fruit, too, except in the more Southern States is said to promise abundance .- Baltimore Ame-
