IS IT WELL WITH THEE? From the Pennsylvania Inquirer. BY MARY L. LAWSON.

Parted—because you may meet no more, Yet each lip in parting a gay smile wore; We shed no tear, we felt no grief—

Busy with pencil, pen or book, Or with thoughtful eye and earnest look— Meeting those daily cares that come

Of its beauty and freshness had passed away That we sat, breath a thickly clustering vine, And watched with delight the day decline;

Do you remember one summer day— Its beauty and freshness had passed away That we sat, breath a thickly clustering vine, And watched with delight the day decline;

Humorous Sketch.

Bill Jenkins' Trouble on the First Night of his Marriage.

Bill Jenkins was a very modest man; and although he had mingled with the world at barbecues, bar-rooms, and at many of the et cetera places where men may occasionally be found—yet he was very modest, very—when ever placed in the company of ladies.

Lucy Ann Ligging had "set her cap" for Bill, and she was determined to "lead him or die." Bill, to tell the truth, loved Lucy, and was as miserable out of her company as he was timid in it—but, as to "popping the question," that was impossible.

Bill fainted on the spot, and barbers and water were applied for half an hour before he was finally restored.

"Oh, nothing much; you fainted when you were about to ask me to marry you—but I told you yes—and, oh! how happy we will be when we are married! I will love you so dearly; and as you said next Tuesday, why, I am willing the wedding should be then—my dear Bill, how I love you!"

But Jenkins could not explain. He dared not—it was his time; he saw the "lubber" before him, and he knew he could not pass it; but he was determined to get married, and trust to luck and Lucy.

The Reasons for the American Horses being Beaten—Gilpatrick's Statement.

Gilpatrick, who rode one of Mr. Ten Broeck's horses in the race for the Goodwood Cup, has considered it necessary to make a statement to exonerate himself from blame.

I left New York June 29, engaged by Mr. Ten Broeck to ride either one or other of his horses in the Goodwood Cup race, I arrived at Southampton on the 30th of June, and immediately departed for our training stable at Stockbridge, which I reached the following day.

There he stood with the knob of the door in his hand, but the old darkey had been smart enough to lock the door, but that sort of gammon would not answer, at last she said:

Extraordinary Surgical Case. A Dirk Travelling Fourteen Years through a Man's Skull.

We met with the most interesting case this morning which has occurred in our experience for a long time. I was introduced to a gentleman who gave us a practical exemplification of the wonderful.

On the morning of the race, my orders were to make a slow, or what English jockeys call "a waiting race" of it—further, not to take the lead, or force the running, if I could help it.

The staid old place; we all went at a bad pace for the first half mile; Priores, unless ordinary horses, when put to a gallop from her length of stride, cannot go slow, and the pace was so bad with the others, that in spite of myself I was forced to take the lead.

It had been accused of losing ground in the race. If I did so, it was in compliance with Mr. Ten Broeck's directions as to those portions of the track to be taken to suit the mare, and whatever ground I may have lost in this way, I more than made up subsequently.

BREACH OF PROMISE CASE.—DAMAGES $25,000.—A case of no little interest to fashionable circles in this city, has just been entered upon and reveals the following state of affairs.

HEAVEN BENEVOLENT DOWN TO US.—At the Yale Commencement, Mr. Perkins, of Vermont, ridiculed the aristocratic idea of those who anticipate heaven only as a glowing city.

Married in Spite of Themselves.

Old Governor Saltonstall, of Connecticut, who flourished some fifty years since, was a man of some humor, as well as perseverance.

It was a happy coincidence with them—the former very young, the latter very old—to call upon Rogers to talk the matter over with him, and endeavor to convince him of the impropriety of living with Sarah as he did.

CAN DO WITHOUT A PAPER.

WHAT! do without a paper? No! I've tried it to my sorrow, So to subscribe for one, I'll go, Nor wait until to-morrow.

Why, there's my neighbor, Jotham Stout, He always has the news, And having news to talk about,

Though I have studies which require Much time and mental labor, Yet I can spare a little time, As well as Stout, my neighbor, Though time be precious, I can use A longer midnight taper;
