October 27, 1860.

CHARLESTON, Nov. 17, 1860 .- The delegates elected so far are strongly secession .--The whole-sale merchants and jobbers in Hayne and Meeting street have a great demonstation to day. The occasion is the dedication of a liberty pole, which they have planted in the middle of Haype street, at the junction with Meeting. The Lafayette Arullery, with four field pieces, fired a salute. l'erfect unanimity of sentiment prevails among all classes in South Carolina; and under no circumstances will they back out HATS AND CAPS. from secession. Within thirty days, if necessary, she could place two hundred thousand armed men in the field, as assurance is given that thousands Hardware, Carpets, and Oil Cloths, &c., &c would flock to her standard from Georgia, Alubama, Mississippi, Texas, Florida, and other States. A large white flag, the Palmetto Lone Star, is up, with the motto-"Animis opipusque parati." Connons are booming, and there is an im-

T. G. Barker, F. M. Robertson, Fleetwood

Lunner, R. A. Pringle and others, are making strong secession speeches. The speakers are mostly merchants, some belonging to Philadelphia, New York and Boston. Ex-Judge Magrath is spoken of as Commissioner to Washington when secession takes place.

Several newly organized companies are anxiously awaiting arms ordered at the North.

An officer of the State government says he has an important letter from one of the head of departments at Washington, which will be made public after the 17th of Decemher. It is surmised to be the resignation of Gen. Scott, in case of secession.

CHARLESTON, Nov. 18, 1860 .- A law requiring people from the North arriving here to go before a magistrate and state their business, has been reported, and will soon be put in force.

The Nullification flag of 1832 now floats over the citadel.

ject of much comment in influential circles that Georgia and Alabama will not follow South Carolina in her insane movement to prevent a General Convention of the South-ern States, but will accede to the demands of Virginis, Maryland and North Carolina for such Convention, leaving South Carolina for WASHINGTON, Nov. 18, 1860 .- It is a subsuch Convention, leaving South Carolina

By such Convention the more conservative Southern States would de much to allay disunion feeling, and do much to prevent any secession, except in South Carolina. The change of Major Anderson to Fort Moultrie, which has just been made, in place of Gardner, has not caused any political feeling. The latter goes to San Antonio. The news of the Charleston demonstration tends here to settle finally that possitive secession will take place.
