HAIL COLUMBIA!

Hail, Columbia, happy land!
Hail, ye be heroes heavy born band,
Who fought and bled in freedom's cause,
Who fought and bled in freedom's cause,
And when the storm of war was gone, Enjoy'd the peace your valor won.
Let independence be our boast, Ever mindful what it cost,
Ever grateful for the prize,
Let its altars reach the skies.

Chorus.—Firm, united, let us be,
Rallying round our liberty;
As a band of brothers joined,
Peace and safety we shall find.

Immortal Patriots, rise once more, Defend your rights, defend your shores!
Let no rude foe, with impious hand, Laid the shrine where sacred lies,
Of toil and blood the well-earned prize,
While offering peace and justice,
In hopes of some ill-fated day,
That truth and justice will prevail,
And every acre of bondage fall.

Sound, sound the trumpet of Fame;
Let Washington's great name,
Ring through the world with loud applause,
Let every clime to freedom cheer, Listen with a joyful ear,
With equal skill, with godlike power,
His governs in the fearful hour,
Of horror war, or golden peace.
The happiest times of honest ease.

Behold the chief who now commands,
Once more to serve his country's stand,
The rock on which the storm will beat,
The rock on which the storm will beat,
But arm'd in virtue firm and strong,
His hopes are fixed on Heaven's day,
When glooms obscure Columbia's joy,
His steady mind from changes free, Resolved on death or LIBERTY.

THE STAR-SPANGLED BANNER.
BY FRANCIS B. KEY.

O say can you see by the dawn's early light,
What so proudly we hail'd at the twilight's gleam, Whose broad stripes and bright stars through the perilous fight, O'er the ramparts we watch'd so gallantly streaming,
And the rockets red glare, the bombs bursting in air,
Gave proof through the night that our flag was still there, O say, does that star-spangled banner yet fly?
O'er the land of the free and the home of the Brave?

On the shore dimly seen through the mist of the deep,
Where the foe's haughty host in dread swept o'er,
As it flutt'ers half-conceal'd, half disclosed!
Now it catches the gleam of the morning's beams,
In full glory reflected now shines on the stream:
'Tis the star-spangled banner, O long may it wave,
O'er the land of the free and the home
of the brave.

And what is that band who so vauntingly swore,
That the havoc of war and the battle's confusion,
A home and a country should leave us no more?
Their blood has wash'd out their foul steps' pollution, No refuge could save the hireling and slave
From the terror of flight, or the gloom of the grave;
And the star-spangled banner in triumph doth wave,
O'er the land of the free and the home
of the brave.

O! thus be it ever, when freemen shall stand Between their lov'd homes and the war's desolation, Bless'd with vict'ry and peace, may the Heaven-rescued land, Praise the power that has made and preserved us a nation!
This conquer we must, when our cause is just,
And this our motto: "In God is our trust!"
And the star-spangled banner in triumph
shall wave,
O'er the land of the free and the home
of the brave.

Massachusetts' Addition to the Song.
The "Star-Spangled Banner" was sung in the Boston Atheneum, Monday evening, by Miss Cushman, for the benefit of the Volunteers, with the addition of the two following stanzas:

When our land is illumined with Liberty's
beams,
If a foe from within strike a blow at her glory, Down, down with the traitor that dares to defile,
The flag of her stars and the page of her story!
By the millions unchained, who our birthright have gained,
We will keep her bright banner forever unstained,
And the Star Spangled Banner in triumph
shall wave,
While the land of the free is the home of the brave.

When Traitor's dark form hovers dark o'er the land,
And traitors conspire to snuff her glory,
When that banner is torn by a fratricide hand,
Whose bright, starry folds, shine illumined in story—
United we stand, for our dear native land,
And the Star Spangled Banner in triumph
shall wave,
O'er the land of the free and the home of the brave.

DECLARATION OF INDEPENDENCE.

In Congress, July 4, 1776;
The Unanimous Declaration of the Thirteen United States of America.

When, in the course of human events, it becomes necessary for one people to dissolve the political bonds which have connected them with another, and to assume among the powers of the earth the separate and equal station to which the laws of nature and nature's God entitle them, a decent respect to the opinions of mankind requires that they should declare the causes which impel them to the separation.

We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable rights; that among these are life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness. That to secure these rights, governments are instituted among men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed; that whenever any form of government becomes destructive of these ends, it is the right of the people to alter or abolish it, and to institute a new government, laying its foundation on such principles, and organizing its powers in such form, as to them shall seem most likely to effect their safety and happiness. Prudence, indeed, will dictate that governments long established should not be changed for light and transient causes; and accordingly, all experience hath shown, that mankind are more disposed to suffer while evils are sufferable, than to right themselves by abolishing the forms to which they are accustomed. But when a long train of abuses and usurpations, pursuing invariably the same object, evinces a design to reduce them under absolute despotism, it is their duty to throw off such government and to provide new guards for their future security. Such has been the patient sufferance of these Colonies, and such is now the necessity which constrains them to alter the former system of government. The history of the present government of Great Britain is a history of repeated injuries and usurpations, all having in direct object, the establishment of an absolute Tyranny over these States. To prove this, let facts be submitted to a candid world:

He has refused his assent to laws the most wholesome and necessary for the public good. He has forbidden his governors to pass laws of immediate and pressing importance, unless suspended in their operation, till his assent should be obtained, and when so suspended, he has utterly neglected to attend to them. He has refused to pass other laws for the accommodation of large districts of people, unless those people would relinquish the right of representation in the legislature—a right inestimable to them, and formidable to tyrants only. He has called together legislative bodies at places unusual, uncomfortable, and distant from the repository of their public records, for the sole purpose of fatiguing them into a compliance with his measures. He has dissolved representative houses repeatedly, for opposing, with manly firmness, his invasions of the rights of the people. He has refused, for a long time after such dissolutions, to cause others to be elected; whereby the legislative powers, incapable of annihilation, have returned to the people at large for their exercise, the state remaining in the meantime exposed to all the dangers of invasion from without and convulsions within. He has endeavored to prevent the population of these States; that for purpose obstructing the laws for naturalization of foreigners; refusing to pass others to encourage their migration hither, and raising the conditions of new grants of citizenship so high, as to bar the admission of new settlers. He has obstructed the administration of justice, by refusing his assent to laws for establishing judicial powers. He has made judges dependent on his will alone, for the tenure of their offices and the amount and payment of their salaries. He has erected a multitude of new offices, and sent hither swarms of officers to harass our people, and eat out their substance. He has kept among us in times of peace standing armies, without the consent of our legislatures. He has affected to render the military independent of and superior to the civil power, and has combined with the officers, to render a jurisdiction foreign to our constitution, and unacknowledged by our laws; giving his assent to their acts of pretended legislation: For quartering large bodies of armed troops among us; For protecting them, by a mock trial from punishment, for any destruction they should commit on the inhabitants of these states; For cutting off our trade with all parts of the world; For imposing taxes on us without our consent; For depriving us, in many cases, of the benefit of trial by jury; For transporting us beyond seas, to be tried for pretended offences; For abolishing the free system of English laws in a neighboring province, establishing therein an arbitrary government, and enlarging its boundaries so as to render it at once an empire over which he might extend the same absolute rule into these colonies; For taking away our charters, abolishing our most valuable laws, and altering fundamentally the forms of our government; For suspending our own legislatures, and declaring themselves invested with power to legislate for us in all cases whatsoever.

He has abdicated government here, by declaring us out of his protection, and waging war against us. He has plundered our seas, ravaged our coasts, burnt our towns, and destroyed the lives of our people. He is at this time transporting large armies of foreign mercenaries, to complete the works of death, desolation and tyranny already begun, with circumstances of cruelty and perfidy, scarcely parallelled in the most barbarous ages, and totally unworthy the head of a civilized nation. He has constrained our fellow citizens, taken captive on the high seas, to bear arms against their country, to become the executors of their friends and brethren, or to fall themselves by their hands. He has excited domestic insurrections against us, and has endeavored to bring on the inhabitants of our frontiers, the merciless Indian savages, whose known rule of warfare is an undistinguishing destruction of all ages, sexes and conditions.

In every stage of this oppression, we have petitioned for redress in the most humble terms; our repeated petitions have been answered only by repeated injury. A prince, whose character is thus marked by every act which may define a tyrant, is unfit to be the ruler of a free people. Now have we no remedy left, but to throw off all dependence on our British brethren. We have warned them from time to time of attempts by their legislature to extend an unwarrantable jurisdiction over us. We have reminded them of the circumstances of emigration and the settled here. We have appealed to their native justice and magnanimity, and we have conjured them, by the ties of our common kindred to disavow these usurpations, which would inevitably interrupt our connections and correspondence. They too have been deaf to the summons of justice, and have shown a systematic and consummate rebellion. We must therefore acquiesce in the necessity which denounces our separation, and hold them, as hold the rest of mankind, enemies in war—in peace, friends.

We, therefore, the representatives of the United States of America, in general Congress assembled, appealing to the supreme Judge of the world, for the rectitude of our intentions, do, in the name and by the authority of the good people of these colonies, solemnly publish and declare that these United Colonies are, and of right ought to be, free and independent states; that they are absolved from all allegiance to the British crown, and that all political connection between them and the state of Great Britain, is, and ought to be, totally dissolved; and that, as free and independent states, they have full power to levy war, conclude peace, contract alliances, establish commerce, and to do all things which independent states may of right do. And for the support of this declaration, with a firm reliance on the protection of Divine Providence, we mutually pledge to each other our lives, our fortunes and our sacred honor.

The True Spirit of '76.
On the day succeeding the adoption of the Declaration of Independence, JOHN ADAMS, exulting in that glorious event, addressed a letter to Mrs. Adams in which may be found the following spirited, patriotic and prophetic imagery:
"Yesterday the greatest question was decided that was ever debated in America; and greater, greater, perhaps, never was or will be decided among men. A resolution was passed, without one dissenting colony, 'that these United States are, and of right ought to be, free and independent states.' The day is passed. The fourth of July 1776, will be a memorable epoch in the history of America. I am apt to believe it will be celebrated by succeeding generations, as the great anniversary festival. It ought to be commemorated as the day of deliverance by solemn acts of devotion to Almighty God. It ought to be solemnized with pomp and decorations, sports, games, bon fires and illuminations, from one end of the continent to the other, from this time forward forever. You will think me transported with enthusiasm, but I am not. I am well aware of the toil, and blood, and treasure that it will cost to maintain this declaration of independence, and I am sensible how great are the dangers which we surround ourselves with. I am not less sensible of the duties which God has imposed upon us, and I am not less sensible of the duties which God has imposed upon us, and I am not less sensible of the duties which God has imposed upon us, and I am not less sensible of the duties which God has imposed upon us."

General Scott's age is a subject of frequent inquiry, and not long since, in his case, as in that of ex-President Buchanan, the ladies' privilege of curtailing "Time has been exercised; but the worthy Capt. Pratt, who venerates General Scott, and is well posted, informs us that the hero was born on the 13th of June, 1786. He was consequently but seventy-five on Thursday, June 13, 1861, and may have to live ten years yet, with such a constitution as he has. The famous Austrian field marshal Radetzky was past eighty when he defeated the youthful hero of Sardinia, Charles Albert, father of Victor Emmanuel, and lived, we think, to the age of ninety.

General Harney was displaced from the command of the troops in Missouri, in consequence of having entered into a sort of arrangement with the commander of the State troops. This was much disapproved of by the Government, as it was a sort of quasi-treaty, and was not in conformity with the separate treaty. Also his refusal to protect the Union men in various parts of the State, from the cruelties of the Secessionists, or of allowing them to form Home Guards for their own protection. The Government has not removed Harney from the command of the Western Military Department, but simply detached Missouri from that Department, and connected it with the command of Gen. McClellan.

When Gen. Butler moved the Massachusetts Sixth Regiment from the Relay station into Baltimore, the rebel spies supposed the intention was to march to Harper's Ferry, and killed two horses in expressing the information to that point. The General finally pulled the wool over their eyes. The locomotives that were to draw the train were placed upon the track heading towards Harper's Ferry, and backed the cars down the other way, and the train proceeded to Harper's Ferry, and killed two horses in expressing the information to that point.
