Telegraphic Melus. FROM THE SEAT OF WAR. CHANGE OF PROGRAMME. Gen. McClellan to take Charge of the Army of the Potomae .- The Grand Army to b Reorganized and Increased .- Large Rein forcements on the way to Wa hington --Active Defensive Preparations .- Offensive Operations to be Resumed.

WASHINGTON, July 22.

Gen. McClellan has been summoned by the government from Western Virginia to repair to Washington to take command of the army of the Potomac. Gen. Rosencrates takes his place in command of the army of Western Virgioia.

The Corps de Army at Washington is to be instantly reorganized and increased. The orders have already been given. Offers of regiments already raised and being made will be accepted with such rapidity as to insure that this will be accomplished in a few days. Large reinforcements from various districts are already on the way, orders have been telegraphed for them yesterday while the battle was in progress.

The government entertains no apprehensions for the safety of the Capital. Prepara-tions not only for defensive but the renewal of offensive operations are going on vigorous-Fairs throughout the country.) are recemmed ly. General McDowell has returned to his head quarters at Arlington Heights. The in the highest terms by the New York & Erie R R. Co., and many of the principal regiments comprising his army will resume their position, which most of them have Reilroads North and South, and also by the officers of the leading Insurance Companies throughout the country already doue.

SECOND DISPATCH.

Nine o'clock P. M - The estimated number of killed and wounded in the battle of yesterday is gradually decreasing by arrivals from the woods and surrounding country. Six hundred of the Ellsworth Zouaves have already returned. It is now understoad that Col. Wilcox, of the First Michigan regiment thousand coats were made up by this firm in acting Brigadier General, is not dead as ten days, for the State, besides full suits for reported but is badly wounded.

By a special messenger just errived, we learn the following : On the 18th, at halfpast two p. m., Major Van Horn's command of United States Reserve flome Guards of this place, numbering 170 men, were attacked by 500 rebels under Capt. Duncan, three miles north of . Harrisonville. The fight lasted four hours, during which time a continual firing was kept up on both sides. At half past six the rebels withdrew, leaving the Union men victorious. The loss of the rebels was fourteen killed, including two offi cers. The Union men continued their march crossing Grand river, but they were compell ed to leave three of their baggage wagons on the bank of the river, owing to the high water.

Maj. Van Horn's force was attacked while at dinner. They planted their flagstaff in the ground, never giving way an itch nor moving the flag till after the rebels withdrew. The compaction of the sebels withdrew. The compaction of the sebels with a company of cavalry, but were com-pletely routed by a detailed force of twenty-three men.

Many of the friends, I have been induced again to offer usu were assured that a fight would not. occur in which it would be possible to parti- subject to the rules of the democratic partycipate, for a considerable length of time. With this view and assurance, the men concluded to come home, where, alter seeing their friends, they would enlist for the war organize under new suspices, as well as more popular and efficient officers. In connection with these facts, there are other circumstan ces which must not be held back from the public, but which should go on the record now, as part of the history of the disaster at Bull Run. Gen Patterson made but a lams appeal to the men of the second regiment, teiling them, in fact, that they had a right to go, that he would be pleased if they would remain, but that if he were in their position, he would exercise the right they possessed and return home. Gen. Patterson even traveled out of the way to inform these men that he did not affiliate with or approve of the action of the administration in waging this conflict, and that he had in contemplation a resolve himself to resign. This assertion was repeated to us substantially in the same spirit by a dozen different perfectly responsible men, who were in the ranks when Ger Patterson indulged in the expressions, and who could not be mistaken in their spirit or meaning .- Harrisburg Telegroph.

GEN. LTON'S BODY GUARD --- The New York Times' correspondent in Missouri gives us the following account of this singular guard :

One of the principal features of the march are Gen. Lyon and his German body guard. The latter is composed of ten athletic St. Louis butchers, each mounted on a powerful horse and armed with heavy cavairy sword and a pair of eavy revolvers; each wears a light hat turned up on the left side, and decorated with a white ostrich plume. Almost any time Gen Lyon, accompanied by half a dozen of these savage looking fellows. James Reeder. may be seen sporring along the line, or a small squad of them, or singly galloping fiercely to the front or rear, or straight out into the open country. . If the General goes into a house a half dozen of them will be seen in front standing like iron statues at the administrator I. E & J B Kremer. bridles of their horses-if he scoure along in advance of the train the clanking of their long subres is heard beside him-stop where he will, there may be always seen a stolid squad of white plumed borsemen awaiting pati-ntly his movements. They are fearless riders-jump fences on a dead ron, leap ditches, gallop down steep descents, and, in fact, never ride less fast than their borses can run, unless compelled by some urgent necessity. Independent of their duty as body guards, they act as messengers, scouts, &c., and in consequence, have plenty to do. They are commanded by a Lieutenant; and from their appearance and during horsemanship, will, if occusion demands, whip a dozen times their weight in chivalry.

MAJOR GENERAL FREMONT has been suddenly summoned to Washington, and left New York yesterday morning. His com mand will no doubt be changed to one of the corps in Virginia.
