NO-PAYING SUBSCRIBERS.—We shall continue to cut off weekly all subscribers of long standing and doubtful responsibility.

AN APPRENTICE WASTED.—A boy about fifteen years of age, desiring to learn the printing business, can have a good chance by applying at this office immediately.

The list of losses of the Lycoming Insurance Company, for the quarter ending September 30, 1862, amounts to $28,504.32.

The President's Proclamation authorizing the arrest and trial of offenders against the Government, by Martial Law, will, we trust, have a good effect on secession sympathizers.

Business at New York is reported as unusually brisk at the present time.

MONK BOGIES MONEY.—A new counterfeit $2 note on the Delaware county bank.

MERCHANT TAILOR.—Our enterprising friend J. O. Beck advertises a new stock of well selected goods for men's wearing apparel.

Correspondents from the army should be brief and confine themselves to facts, incidents and anecdotes.

A horrible accident occurred on the Cumberland Valley Railroad, on Friday morning, resulting in the killing of 10 or 12 men, and wounding 30 or 40 others.

PARTY AND PARTY CANDIDATES. Hon. James T. Hale, of Centre county, has given his assent to become the Independent Union candidate for Congress.

A large meeting was held at Jersey Shore, in which Hon. James Gamble, our former member of Congress, and other leading Democrats as well as Republicans, took part.

An Old Democrat on the Proclamation.—The following note from General Basted appears in the Tribune:

"Amidst all my heart, 'And let all the people say amen,' while humanity and religion take up the invocation and join in the supplicated 'God bless the U. S. Army, for its persistent and fearless denunciation of the monstrous wrong which has sapped the vitality and virtue of the nation. Slavery is dead, and the republic lives!'

"I am informed, and believe, that the meeting was composed of men of all political parties, whose object was to unite the loyal and patriotic men of the District in the support of a candidate having their confidence, without any party nomination whatever.

"The following is the order of discharging the First Brigade Pennsylvania Militia:

HEAD-QUARTERS ARMY OF PENNSYLVANIA, CAMDENBURG, Sept. 25th, 1862.—Special Orders No. 8.—1. Colonel McCormick, having performed the duties assigned him at Greencastle, is relieved from duty with the Pennsylvania Militia, and will report to Governor Curtin, at Harrisburg, for orders.

"I have not arrived at this conclusion without the advice of friends, in whose judgment and patriotism I have the most entire confidence."

"What will the Breckinridgers of this county say to this condemnation of partisan duties by the leading Democrats of our neighboring county? Why did they not keep up a conservative man? Simply because the Breckinridger sympathizers in this county are office hunters, with scarcely a single exception. They have combined and arranged to effect the nomination of men in their own stripe, for all the offices, and not cooly call for the Douglas Democrats, or only true Democrats, to elect them."

"They wanted a man of their own tribe as a nominee for Congress, and therefore selected William H. Miller, a full blooded Breckinridger, for that purpose. Those who took upon party, in preference to patriotism at the country, will, of course, vote the party ticket. Patriots and good citizens of all parties, who prefer the good of the country, will unite on the Union ticket, not partisans but as Union men and patriots."

FATAL ACCIDENT.—About half past six o'clock on Thursday evening a terrible accident occurred on the P. & H. at the first bridge east of Parkburg. The train was going east, conveying returning militia from West Chester and vicinity. Some of the soldiers, in violation of strict rules of the Company, managed to get on the top of the cars, and three of them paid the penalty of their rashness by being knocked off by the bridge—two were instantly killed, and third so seriously injured that the recovery is barely possible.—Harrisburg Telegraph.

GORDON WOMAN.—"The time has come when all divisions, all personal animosities and aspirations should be banished, so that united we may all stand by the integrity of the Republic."—Secretary Chase.

DECLARATIONS OF PEACE.

We have a very strong conviction that the Confederate leaders will not allow the 1st of January to approach without very earnest efforts, though they may be unfeeling, to stop this desecrating day, which they so recklessly inaugurated under the gravest misconceptions of the military resources and tenacity of purpose of the loyal States.

The resources of the Rebels, consisting mainly of boundless issues of paper promises backed by no system of taxation, are not easily exhausted; but they have no clothing for a Winter campaign, having exhausted that which they bought in result of our Northern merchants in 1860, and their British friends have learned by sad experience that smuggling valuable cargoes into a blockaded port at a heavy risk, only to sell them to people who can't pay for them, is extremely short.

There must, then, be an accommodation, and that fact established, it seems to us very easy to settle the terms. The obvious basis of an adjustment is the Constitution of the States without note or comment.

That is, at the very lowest estimate, a treaty must call for some alliance, and that, then, will be a valid and binding contract. Our fathers made it freely and heartily, and it cannot degrade their sons to reaffirm and abide by it. If we repudiate that, what assurance can be given or trusted that any new bargain can be fixed up?

Whenver the Rebels really desire peace—as we think they very soon will if they do not already—they have but to notify the Government that they are ready to return to loyalty, and to that end have abrogated all ordinances, acts, and oaths of allegiance inconsistent therewith.

President Lincoln will not, in issuing a Proclamation of Amnesty, inviting the States lately in rebellion to select Members of Congress as if no rebellion had existed. The Rebels would need no further assurance of immunity; their friends of the Vallandigham persuasion would guarantee them a parity of service in the House, if not in the Senate also, and that which it is a valid and binding contract. Our fathers made it freely and heartily, and it cannot degrade their sons to reaffirm and abide by it.

Correspondents from the army should be brief and confine themselves to facts, incidents and anecdotes. Speculations on the war should be postponed for the present. Our best correspondents seem to understand this, and act accordingly.

A horrible accident occurred on the Cumberland Valley Railroad, on Friday morning, resulting in the killing of 10 or 12 men, and wounding 30 or 40 others. An engine had been carelessly left standing on the track, and a train containing the 20th Regiment Pennsylvania Militia, returning from Greencastle, came in collision with it, with terrible force, demolishing a number of the cars and killing and maiming a large number of the inmates. The killed and injured were chiefly from Philadelphia and Reading.

PARTY AND PARTY CANDIDATES. Hon. James T. Hale, of Centre county, has given his assent to become the Independent Union candidate for Congress, in the district composed of the counties of Lycoming, Centre, Clinton, Tioga and Potter, in opposition to William H. Armstrong, Esq., of Williamsport, who has been nominated by the Republicans.

A large meeting was held at Jersey Shore, in which Hon. James Gamble, our former member of Congress, and other leading Democrats as well as Republicans, took part. Judge Gamble, as chairman of the committee, offered the following resolutions, which show what leading Democrats in Lycoming county think of party leaders and party nominations, in times like these:

Resolved, That it is not only inexpedient, but fraught with imminent danger to that unity of council and unity of action so vital to our safety and success that men of violent party prejudices should be elected to Congress, and that party nominations should be for the present abandoned.

Resolved, That the Constitution as it is, and the restoration of the Union as it was, is the only political platform which should be tolerated until our government is re-established and its sovereignty restored.

Resolved, That we, the sovereign people, without the distinction of party, united for one common purpose, and casting behind us all party bias for the time being, hereby nominate the Hon. JAMES T. HALE, as an independent Union candidate for Congress, and claim his services as due to the country, line to the district, and due to us.

Judge Hale, in his letter of acceptance, avows party measures and party nominations, and proceeds to say:

"I am informed, and believe, that the meeting was composed of men of all political parties, whose object was to unite the loyal and patriotic men of the District in the support of a candidate having their confidence, without any party nomination whatever.

"The following is the order of discharging the First Brigade Pennsylvania Militia:

The Press on the Proclamation of the President.

In order to show how the President's emancipation proclamation is received in different parts of the country, we make the following extracts from our exchanges:

[From the Albany Evening Journal.] We have reached the last stage in the objection to the President's proclamation. It is a declaration of rebellion! The President in obedience to an act of Congress, so far as States, and portions of States, masters, shall, on the first day of January, 1863, stand out in rebellion against the government, proclaimed the freedom of slaves!

[From the Boston Transcript.] The effect of the proclamation on the rebellious states it may be difficult to foresee. In Europe it will immensely benefit our cause. England and France will hesitate to intervene, when intervention would plainly be to their influence in favor of slavery. The proclamation must be regarded simply as a war measure. Whatever discussions it may at first provoke at the North, it will, we think, finally be considered as a measure which could not safely have been longer postponed.

[From the New Haven Palladium.] A proclamation by Abraham Lincoln, President of the United States, striking directly at slavery, the cause of the present rebellion, is the grand event of the age. It will be hailed by the loyal people of this country with joy to which words can give no expression. It places our nation firmly on the side of right. It makes freedom henceforth our policy. It binds our hearts to the support of those only who love despotism, and brings to our standard the sympathy of all Christendom, and the enthusiasm of men who desire to fight for a principle.

[From the New York Tribune.] A horrible accident occurred on the Cumberland Valley Railroad, on Friday morning, resulting in the killing of 10 or 12 men, and wounding 30 or 40 others. An engine had been carelessly left standing on the track, and a train containing the 20th Regiment Pennsylvania Militia, returning from Greencastle, came in collision with it, with terrible force, demolishing a number of the cars and killing and maiming a large number of the inmates.
