17 Fran -On Saturday evening, about 7 o'clock, our citizens were started by the cry of fire which broke out in the statics of Covert's Hotel. The fire which originated in the hay and other combustible ma- tom, at $1 40 to $3 15. terials above, soon enveloped the whole building in ilumes. The heat was so intense that it could scarce ' styles and sizes—as well as for finish and durability; be endured on the opposite side of the street, and it was almost miraculous that the adjoining buildings were saved. Mr. Clement's stable was not more than thirty foot distant, and was only raved by the active exertions of the firemen pouring water from the roof. The new court house opposite, was soon covered with showers of burning flakes, which, however, fell harmless on the slate roof. The endy danger was at the unfinished cupule of the north west tower which was carefully guarded by firemen. The roof of the hotel was on fire in several ulaces. The roof of Mrs. Donell's residence was also on fire. Unfortunately the two fire engines, which were stowed away in stables since their houses were removed from the HOTMEALS AT ALL HOURS, DAY AND NIGHT court house lot, were out of order and rendered little or no service. The hotel was occupied by Simon Snyder. The horses and vehicles in the stable were removed excepting a buggy and sleigh. Whether the fire was the result of meddent or the work of an GROCERIES ! GROCERIES incendiary it is hard to say There was an insurance, we learn, of $300 on the stable.
