The Appearance of the Sun from the North Pole.

To a person standing, at the north pol . the sun appears to sweep horizontally around the sky every twenty four hours, without any perceptible variation during its distance from the horizon. On the twenty-first of June it is twenty-three degrees and thirtyeight minutes above the horizon-a little more than one-fourth of the distance to the zenith, the highest point that it ever reaches. From this altitude it slowly descends, its track being represented by a spiral or screw with a very fine thread; and in the course of three months it worms its way down to the horizon, which it reaches on the twenty-third of September. On this day it slowly sweeps around the sky, with its face half hidden below the icy sea. It still continues to descend, and after it has entirely disappeared it is still so near the horizon that it carries a bright twilight around the heavens in its daily circuit.

As the sun sinks lower and lower, this twilight grows gradually fainter, till it fades away. On the twentieth of December the sun is twenty three degrees and thirty eight minutes below the horizon, and this is the midnight of the dark winter of the pole. From this date the sun begins to ascend, and after a time is heralded by a faint dawn, which circles slowly around the horizon, completing its circuit every twenty four hours. This dawn grows gradually brighter, and on the twentieth of March the peaks of ice are gilded with the first level rays of the six month's day. The bringer of this long day continues to wind his spiral way upward. till he reaches his highest place on the twenty-first of June, and his annual course is completed. Such is one of the most wonder ful works of God.

Much less than universe allow enter-tained his physician with disquisitions upon natural history. There are discussions upon political topics, also, including the views of Mr. Davis on reconstruction. He also remarks upon An-dersonville, declaring his orders were al-interest of the fairest and most glo-tous gifts of God, to which Satan is a bitter enemy, for it removes from the heart the weight of sorrows and the fascinations of evil thoughts. Music is a kind and gentle sort of discipline; it refines the passions and improves the understanding. Those "who ways for the best treatment of prisoners possible, but points to the difficulties of get-ting food, transportation, the delinquencies of subordinates, &c. and strength to resist, for mysel and for my people, this thing shall not be done." Hereupon Captain Titlow called in a ser-geant and a file of soldiers from the next room, and the sergeant advanced to seize the prisoner. Immediately Mr. Davis flew on him, seized his musket, and sttempted to wrench it from his grasp. 'He is said to be very wealthy.' 'Then you suppose fortune will be a mat-ter of indifference to him ?
