SATURDAY, AUGUST 18, 1866. FOR GOVERNOR, Gen. JOHN W. GEARY, Of Cumberland County.

Union Republican County Ticke FOR CONGRESS, JOHN B. PACKER, Esq., of Sunbury,

FOR SHERIFF. SAMUEL H. ROTHERMEL, of Zerbe. FOR PROTHONOTARY,

CHARLES J. BRUNER, of Sunbury. The "Boys in Blue" had a large Geary meeting in the old Court House, in this place, on Tuesday night. The meeting wes a most enthusiastic one. During the intervals of speaking, the brass band from Northum-Hon. Franklin Bound, Hon. Geo. F. Miller and W. C. Lawson, Esq. Geary. Mr. Bound's reply to the speech of Charles Shriner at the Johnson meeting, brought down great applause. The speeches of Messrs.

The Union Republican party is growing stronger every day.

Our neighbor of the Democrat takes exception to our remarks in regard to the new Court House fence, and seems to think we have no right to express our opinions. or pass judgment on the same, without permission from the Commissioners. As a public journalist, we claim the right to express our opinions, on all matters pertaining to the public, and we are pretty sure the Commissioners have no desire to restrain us from exercising this priviledge, if they could.

Miller and Lawson were also well received.

The Great Johnson Convention, now in session in Philadelphia, were in great tribulation in devising means to keep out such men as Vallandigham, Fernando Wood and others of that stripe. This difficulty has been removed, it is said, by offering Vallandigham a Foreign Mission if he would withdraw. Val. knowing that he would be voted out at all events, wisely accepted the bribe. If the Convention entertained a proper respect for itself and for the governmentit would not have besitated, to kick out of its presence such traitors as Vallandigham & Co., instead of buying them up.

The Central Courier, is the title of a new Republican paper started at Selinsgrove, by Maj. E. P. Rohback. A good Republican paper should be well supported in Snyder county.

GENERAL DICK TAYLOR.

The following reference to this distir. guished delegate to the Fourteenth of August Convention, is from the Washington Chronicle :

The rebel organ of the President rushes to the defence of that immaculate Unionist and patriot, Dick Taylor, late a general in the rebel army. This is quite natural. In the meantime a colonel who belongs at the South, but who served in the Union army during the war, sends us the following:

To the Editor of the Chronicle: The name of the man who heads this are icle is, as above stated, the murderer Union men in cold blood.

There were seven Union men of Louisiana who escaped through Dick Taylor's lines and enlisted in the 8th Vermont regiment as Federal soldiers, after which they were captured in battle by Dick Taylor's com-mand, tried by his court martial, and sen-tenced to be shot to death. Dick Taylor having the execution of the sentence, oadered them first to dig their own graves, one sufficient to contain four men, the other to contain three. In these two holes they stood up and were shot by Dick Taylor's rebels. In regard to the facts in detail ! refer to Col. Thomas, commanding the 8th Vermont vol-unteer regiment, General Benjamin F. Butler, commanding the department, and Major Green, of New Orleans, now in this city.

RETURN OF PROFESSOR AGASSIZ .- Professor Agassiz returned to Boston last week from his exploration in Brazil. He has been absent a little more than a year, and during that time has made many important discoveries in geology and natural history, finding abundant evidence to establish his favorite theory of glacial action, and adding to the classification of the animal kingdom several hundred species that he will at once begin the preparation of a scientific memoir, embodying the results of his investigations, and a work of popular character from his pen, entitled "Travels in Brazil," is already announced by Ticknor & Fields for publica-tion in the fall.

On the return of Hon. Henry S. Lane, U. Senator from Indiana, to his home at Crawfordsville, in that State, he was acrenaded, and afterwards delivered a speech li which he said: I am a member of the Radical Congress.—

[Cheers.] A member of the Congress which is indeed radical in its loyalty to country—radical in its devotion to the truest interests of all parts of the Union—radical in its opposition to all schemes and devices of rebels and rebel sympathizers. But what has this Radical Congress done? There is indeed a difference of opinion between the President and Congress. I believe that the President and Congress. a difference of opinion between the President and Congress. I believe that the President is wrong, and that Congress is right, and such also I believe to be the opinion of almost the entire party which elected the President, Vice-President and Congress.

Among other things done by Congress was the passage of the civil-rights bill, passed by a two-thirds majority in both braches of the National Legislature, the President's objections to the contrary notwithstanding.

> The time is coming when these freedmer may become good enough citizens to become voters, but perhaps that time is not yet. I take the position that the time is already here when, if we must choose between loyal colored men and red handed rebels to reconstruct the South, the colored man is far safer and greatly to be preferred.

The Radical Congress has also passed freedmen's bureau bill, which, say rebels, Copperheads and B. and B. men, is a scheme of plunder of white people's money for the purpose of feeding and clothing negroes.

Unfortunately for these gentlemen in their argument, the returns for the past four months show that nearly three fourths of the expenditures by this bureau were for the purpose of relieving the sufferings of the South. To this no one of the radicals objects, for we have charity for all, with malice toward none. But let these gentlemen cease their clamor, unless they are willing to allow the whites of the South to suffer in the ratio of three to one as compared with the freedmen themselves, upon whose defenceless heads the slime of their entire party is

This radical Congress has also passed bounty bill increasing the pay and equaliz-ing the bounty to the loyal boys in blue, to whom, under God, we are indebted for the preservation of our noble Republic. This debt of gratitude, it is to be hoped, we will always acknowledge, but we can never discharge. Farther than this, Congress has increased the pension of the disabled soldier, or that he has now a pearer supresent to a so that he has now a nearer approach to a comfortable support.

The Committee on Pensions Senator Land chairman, made ninety-two reports, each of which was acted on by the Senate, and all of which, without exception, are now parts of the laws of the land. Here the Senator made some statements in reference to this personal career-intended particularly for his friends at home. In this statement he said that during the five years of his duties as Senator he had been absent from his post but one day, and on that day he visited Gettysburg, in connec-tion with some distinguished military gen-tlemen, to look after the graves, monuments, &c., of the dead buried there. As a member of the Military Committee he had never been absent from a single meeting. He neve missed a vote on any important measure.

The Ruffians of York, who Sallied Forth to Welcome the Rebel Gen. Early Firing on Delegations of Loyal Men. The monster Geary Meeting at York, yes-terday, as will be seen from an account in the local department, was not allowed to pass off unattacted by the Copperheads of that locality. Before we make any reference to these outrages, we hasten to repeat the acknowledgments of every man who left Harrisburg to participate in the proceedings at York, for the kind treatment, hospitable generous beyond description, which they received from the decent men and women o that borough. The brave and gentlemanly, and sober, gallant twelve hundred, who went from Dauphin county to mingle with their loyal brethern of York, will never forget this treatment. It was cordial and sumptuous, noble and manly, while the fair hands and sweet faces which ministered to their wants and dispensed their smiling welcomes, will long be blessed in the memories of the Boys in Blue of Dauphin county.

Now for the blackguards of York borough -the sneaking poltroons who crawled from York at midnight to meet the rebel Early on his march to that borough, and to whom they offered to surrender, because they beheved that the South was right. These ruffians attacted our boys singly wherever one was found in the streets of York. A large number had been placed on the local police force for the purpose of preserving order. We are told that some of these ruffians did all they could to provoke a riot by brandishing pistols, using insulting and taunting language, and as many ways seeking a collision with individual strangers. Just as the train containing the Dauphin and Cumberland county delegations was leaving the depot it was fired upon by men concealed in fence corners and corn fields. The car occupied by Gen, Geary and Governor Cur-tin was perforated by bullets and stones, while the opon cars containing large num-bers of soldiers were also fired at and assail ed with stones, brick bats and other missiles. These are statements corroborated by a thousand witnesses. They illustrate the malignity and cowardice of the genuine Copperhead. The disgrace does not belong to York county. It belongs to the leaders of Copperheadism in York county. It is the result of the teachings of Heister Clyfor ten cents; other liquors, costing an average of five cents a glass are sold for ten cents, whilst eigars costing from five to fifteen cents are sold all the way from ten to thirty cents. The same will apply to almost every city in the Union.

King Cutler, and other members of the Louisiana Convention, have made affidavits before United States Commissioner Husted, at New Orleans, charging Mayor Monroe and Sheriff Hayes with being principals in or accessories to the late riots in that city.

The latest reports are to the effect that one hundred persons were killed and three hundred wounded during the riet.

It is stated on high authority that General Grant has requested the Secretary of War to furnish for publication all the dispatches of General Sheridan concerning the New Orleans roots, so as to set at rest the various and in many cases unfounded reports record.

The Philadelphia Tragedy-Arrest of the Murderer.

The Philadelphia papers of Saturday morning give the details of a most atrocious murder committed in that city by an unknown man who thus far han escaped detection. This man, accompanied by a preposing young woman, at about moon on Friday, entered a room which he had previously engaged at a house kept by Mrs. Laura Tyson, on Eleventh street. The unknown man opened the door of the room and entered with his companion, without evincing anything extraordinary in his demeanor, and after remaining for an hour or more, during which not the slightest noise was heard, he made his exit, closing the door sharply behind him. He was smoking a cigar at this time, which had apparently been lighted but a moment, and descending the staircase, accosted the colored attendant as follows: costed the colored attendant as follows : "Where is your mistress—the lady of the house? I wish to speak with her."

This brought Mrs. Tyson from her room, when the unknown man said:
"Mrs. Tyson, my lady friend has fallen asleep in the room I have taken. Please let her remain undisturbed until I call again. I shall not be gone a great while."

He then gave the lady of the house a sum of money in payment for his lodging and departed. All remained quiet in the house, and no

the slightest suspicion was aroused among the inmates of the dwelling relative to the terrible crime that had been perpetrated by the fiend who had just departed with such a nonchalent air. In about an hour after the departure of the supposed murderer, Mrs. Tyson was called up stairs, and on her way up tried the door of the room alluded to, and after knocking and receiving no answer, thrust the door open. Mrs. Tyson observed that the room was very dark, and that the shutters had been closed and locked and the curtains drawn together so as to exclude all light. She then opened the shutters and approached the bed. She observed that the sheets and clothing were stained with blood, and wrapped closely around an object in human form.

Alarmed at this sight, she called for help and at once proceeded to unwrap the body and unravel a shocking mystery. In the clothes she found the corps of the young woman who had an hour before stepped into her premises the personification of health and comeliness.

At a closer examination it was revealed that the unfortunate woman had come to her death through a violent struggle. She had been choked with a large portion of a sheet, which had been forced into her mouth. Her throat was cut from ear to ear and death had ensued almost immediately after the infliction of the wounds. The body was then unwrapped and laid out straight upon the

The coroner was notified, took possession of the body and made preparations for holding an inquest.

The detectives have been put upon the track of the murder, who has thus far made good his escape, but is believed to be still in the city. A search is also being prosecuted for an older woman, who accompanied the victim on a previous visit, with the assassin, to Mrs. Tyson's establishment. What is most remarkable is that no clew could be discovered by which the identity of the unfortunate being could be determined. It is probable that the miserable murderer made off with everything of this kind after committing the terrible deed.

The body of the murdered girl will be de tained at the Ninth ward station house during the whole of to-day, and persons who may know of any facts relative to the deceased are requested to visit the station house and render what assistance they can to fix the identity of the deceased.
