SUNBURY, PA. SATURDAY, DECEMBER 15, 1866.

SECRETARY M'CULLOCH'S REPORT The opening paragraph of the Secretary's report gives a pleasant promise of better things. He says, "the receipts of the fiscal 9th of October and terminated on the 9th year ending June 20th, 1880, have exceeded of November, during which time 110 miles the estimates by about 96 millions, while the expenditures fall short of the estimate based, commences at a point on the Mifflin by over two handred millions. Mr. McCul. & Centre R. R. near Kline's, one half of a lech bad himself, it is evident, but a parhow idea of the vast resources of the country. The decrease in expenditures was mainly in the War Department. The estimate made for the war office was three hundred millions. The actual expenses were only one hundred and sineteen mil-

Fierce Battle at Matamoras.

BALTIMORE, Dec. 12. Further details of the battle of Matamoras have been received here. The commander of the assaulting forces reports the loss of half of his men in the assault of Fort Monterey. He says the failure was owing to the want of scaling ladders. Escobedo's loss was 200 killed, 400 wounded, and between 300 and 400 prison-Canales' losses, all told, were about 100.

It is said that Escobedo boasted that if he had succeeded, he would have crossed the river into Texas, and wiped out the Yankees. Large numbers of wounded officers of Es-cobedo's army had arrived at Brownsville. Canales and Escobedo had met and embraced each other in the presence of General Sedgwick.

Fears of an attack upon the United States forces, while in occupation of Matamoras, had led to extensive preparations for their defense on the Brownsville side of the river, from whence the entire United States military force would have crossed had it been The higher classes of Mexicans did not re-

The Case of John H. Surratt. WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.-The President today transmitted to the House an answer to Representative Boutwell's resolution, calling for information relative to the discovery and arrest of John H. Surratt.

The documents are voluminous. The first letter is from Mr. Welding, United States consul at Liverpool, dated September 27th, 1865, in which, addressing Secretary Seward, be says that information was given to him the day before, that Surratt was in him the day before, that Surratt was in Liverpool or expected to be. He took the affidavit of the person who gave him the in-formation, and transmitted it to Minister Adams. The affidavit states that while going from Montreal to Quebec he became sequeinted with a man calling himself McCarthy, who told him he had been in the Confederate service, engaged in conveying intelligence between Washington and Richmond; that he bad been concerned in a plan for carrying off President Lincoln, which was concocted entirely by J. Wilkes Booth and himself; that he came to Canada just before the assassination of President Lincoln; that while in Canada he received a letter from Booth saying that it had become necessary to change their plans, and requested him to come to Washington immediately, and that he did start immediatly for that place.

He did not say whether he went there, ut said that on his way back to Canada the train he was in was delayed at St. Albans, and while sitting at the breakfast table, a gentleman next to him spoke of the report of the assassination, and that he, Mc-Carthy, or as he then called himself, Harrison, replied : "the news was too good to be true:" that the gentleman took a newspaper from his pocket and read the account of the occurrence, and he (McCarthy) was surprised to see his name there, and left immediately. That on Sunday morning last the accused had been talking with the alliant, of an interview with Mr. - , at Richmond, when the afflant said to him : 'You have told me a great deal-what must I call you? what is your name?" and he answered: "My name is Surratt." This was just before their arrival at Londonderry. When McCarthy or Surratt landed he was disguised.

Mr. Welding writes to Mr. Seward under date of September 30th, 1865, that Surratt had arrived at Liverpool; and again on the 10th of Octob r, that Minister Adams had instructed him that he did not consider it desirable with their present evidence of identity and complicity, to apply for a warrant for the arre t of the supposed Surratt. It is further stated that in his conversation with the affiant. Surratt declared his belief that he would live long enough to give a good account of Mr. Johnson, Acting Secretary of State Hunter, under date of October 13, 1865, says: In consultation with the Secretary of War and Judge Holt it was thought advisable that no action should be taken in regard to the arrest of the supposed John H. Surratt at present.

Consul General Potter, at Canada, on Oc. tober 25, 1865, informs Secretary Seward that Surratt left Three Rivers some time in September, for Liverpool, and adds: He was secreted at Three Rivers by a Catholic priest with whom he lived.

Minister King, at Rome, writes to Secretary Seward, April 23, 1866, that Surratt recently enlisted in that Papal Zonaves at him, and Surratt admitted he was right in quent occurrence, and in no case over 14 his corjecture. Surratt acknowledged his participation in the plot against President Lincoln's life, and declared that Jeff. Davis with existing routes, and requiring fast ex-press trains at greatly increased running mant further said that Surratt seemed to be well supplied with money, and appealed to him not to betray his secret. Secretary Seward, May 28, 1866, suggests, to demand the surrender of Surratt.

The informant was formerly engaged as a schoolmaster in a small village in Maryland, his name concealed, because he believes the publication of it would endanger his life. It is said, in his sworn statement, that Surraft remarked, in New York, that he propo-

Secretary Seward further instructs Mr. King to seek an interview with Cardinal Antonelli, and to ask his Holiness whether, in the absence of an extradition treaty, he would give Surratt up, or whether, in the event of the re arrest being denied, he would enter into an extracition treaty and also requesting that Surratt be not discharged un-

the Department of State.

Mr. King, under date of November 10, says the Cardinal informed him that Surratt or Watson had been arrested by his orders, but while on the way to Rome escaped from the guard of six men. The Cardinal expres ses great regret at the escape.
