1-97 The fact that President Johnson in tended to force Secretary Stanton to resign from the War Office has often been stated. On Monday he wrote a note to Mr. Stanton, as follows : "Considerations of public interest will persuade me to accept your resignation, if tendered." Mr. Stanton replied in the following manner : "Considerations of public interst have prevailed with me to hold this office for months past, and consid. erations of public interest will prevail with me to hold it till the assembling of Congress."

Secretary Stanton deserves the gratitude of the nation in maintaining his position and guarding the rights of the people, in spite of the President and his renegade Cabinet. Without Stanton there would be but little brains or patriotism left in the Cobinet trade in the army of the Cumberland for her son-in-law; I saw letters in the handwriting

Why there is more liberty to-day in cold, bleak Siberia, the penal colony of the great Russian Empire, than there is in the Southern States of our unhappy and disthe office if she had got the documents she tracted land. America was once the "land of the free," but not now. That was when the Constitution was supreme, when respect was shown to the Chief Magistrate, and when the Jacobins who now rulewere in when the Jacobins who now rulewere in obscurity. Liberty in America, forsooth ! Was your attention called to them by the manner in which they were said, or from any other cause, so that you can be certain of the exact words ? A. I am certain of the words, and my at-tention was called to them by the very em-phatic manner of the President. Pierrepont yesterday, in his argument to the jury in the Surratt case, made an important statement, which he verified by pro-ducing the original record relative to the execution of Mrs. Surratt. It has been charged, it will be remembered, that the order for Mrs. Surratt's execution was handed to the President by a member of the Cabinet and that it was signed without consultation. The following verbatim extract from Judge Pierrepont's speech tells the story. He said :

"I have not come here for the purpose of proving that Mrs. Surratt was guilty, or that she was innocent, and I do not under-Q. WASHINGTON Aug. 6, 1867. The President yesterday wrote Secretary Stanton a formal letter in which he stated that he desired to secure harmony in the Administration, and that as the views of the Secretary of War were not in accordance with those of the Executive and the remainder of the Cabinet, his resignation would be acceptable. This was delivered to Secretary Stanton, in person by Colonel Moore, the President's Private Secretary. Soon thereafter Mr. Stanton left the War Department, and at this writing had not since discharged his official duties. He omitted to-day to attend the usual Cabinet meeting, and has received but few FIRST MORTGAGE BONDS visitors at his residence. It was generally supposed that he was preparing a letter complying with the request of the President, by tendering his resignation and setting forth his views in the premises. However, at nine o'clock this evening the President had received no reply. From this fact it is to be hoped that Mr. Stanton has deter-mided to remain at his post and disappoint the malignants so anxious for his resignation.

LATER.

111 P. M .- It is now ascertained that Secretary Stanton has replied to Mr. Johnson's request that, for good reasons, he will not surrender his portfolio, but will remain in his position until the reassembling of Congress. This resolution of the Secretary of War has given the greatest satisfaction to the friends of the Union, as it evinces a disposition on his-part to stand firm in opposition to the machinations of those who are disposed to aid and abet the rebels in opposition to reconstruction.

It is further learned that the President does not hold to the views imputed to him in certain journals, that he can now remove she certain journals, that he can now remove and if not another mile of the road were built, the

AS AN INVESTMENT. AS AN INVESTMENT. THE rapid progress of the Union Pacific Railroad, now building west from Omain, Nebraska, and form-ing, with its western connections, an unbroken line across the continent, attracts attention to the value of the First Mortgage Bonds which the Company now offer to the public. The first question asked by pru-dent investors is, "Are these bonds secure?" Next, "Are they a profitable investment?" To reply in brief:

Company are confident that the whole line to the Pacific will be open for business in 1870. The Indians have annoyed the surveying parties and tie-cutters, who are many hundred miles in advance of the work ; but they have a wholesome fear of the population that a railroad carries with it, and all trains run without interruption.

The business of the company has been most flattering. The earning, for the quar-ter ending August 1st, were $700,000; but as the report for the last week in July has not been received, the exact fraction cannot be given. At Hudson, Lenawee county, Mich., July 17th, Miss Azoa Phelps, a young lady of eighteen, daughter of Mr. Edwin Phelps, on her way to the district school of which she was teacher, in company with a neighbor's daughter, took a seat on a reaper which was in operation in a field adjoining the road, to ride around once or twice for amusement. The horses became frightened and ran away off and terribly mangling ber limbs and body. It is probable that her injuries are fatal. The other girl was not seriously in-jured.

FURTHER EXTRACTS FROM TESTIMONY. The following extracts are from a long affidavit made by one thoroughly acquaint-ed with what transpired in the circles in which Mr. Johnson moved in Nashville.— It bears the seal of a well known notary : I knew Neil S. Brown, once Governor of Tennessee, and a noted rebel; he came to Nashville once, in 1863; it was a very hard matter to get a pass through the lines, and Brown wanted to get one ; he called on the Governor, and the Governor refused all intercourse and interviews to other people that day, and was alone with Neil S. Brown; either that night or next morning the Gov-ernor ordered — to go with him to Col-umbia, N. S. Brown went along, and made a short speech at Columbia, apparently on the Union side; then Brown did not return with ----, but went through the rebel lines, and did not return till after Lee's surrender, and I should be likely to see him. " Afterward the same witness came to Washington, when Mr. Johnson was Presi-dent. An interview at the White House is thus alluded to in the testimony : "He (the President) asked me why I was in a hurry to go back to Tennessee. "I said Gov. Brownlow had called a meeting of the Legislature. "He said "He had a d---d sight of use for a Legislature. He'll have no quorum this time. The people of Tennessee are tired of his foolishness, and very soon will settle with this Legislature. "Before President Lincoln issued his proclamation of emancipation Gov. Johnson signed a petition, which was sent to Washington by Governor Campbell, M. C., asking President Lincoln to exempt Tennessee from grave. the proclamation, so as to let slavery remain Ex-C there. "After the proclamation came out, in which Tennessee was exempted, I heard Gov, Johnson make a speech in Nashville to a large crowd of about 3,000 colored people, in which he said President Lincoln in his proclamation has exempted you from eman-cipation, but I. Andrew Johnson, Military Governor of Tennessee, to night declare every one of you free."

Mas. PARTINGTON INSULTED.—The White Moun-tains of New Hampshire are evidently a great in-stitution—very high, heavy frosts, beautiful view, four dollar dinners. But the practical eye of a cer-tain renowned Drake saw those smooth-faced rocks, and thereupon adorned and variegated the bridle path to the Tip-top House with his familiar S. T.— 1860—X. PLANTATION BITTERS. This raised the ire of the Mrs. Partingtons composing the Legisla-ture of the Granito State, who got their wise heads together, outlawed Dr. Drake, and made it a penal offence to ply the artistic brush on their beloved hills. Verily, the face arts are at a discount in New Hampshire. Query.—Did Drake pay them for this spiendid advertisement ? MRS. PARTINGTON INSULTED .- The White Moun
