FIRST OF JANUARY, 1868. All persons who are indebted to the American office for subscriptions, advertising or job work, are respectfully but earnestly requested to make payment without delay. A considerable amount of money, in small sums, has accumulated upon our books, and to the receipt of which we must look for the means to defray the necessary expenses of our business, at this time more posible, to meet all our obligations in cash, and to do this, must call upon our customers for prompt cash payments. THE Express War has come to a close. [From the Harrisburg State Guard.] The Democracy Getting Ready for Works-Mr. Wallace Wants the Figures.

The following circular, is like Grant's celebrated letter to Johnson, marked "pri-rate. It was handed to us by a Democartic friend, who believes we have the largest circulation of any daily newspaper published in this part of Pennsylvania, and is therefore anxious to have it published in the State Guard, that the people may see how active Mr. Wallace is in behalf of his party. William's solicitude is certainly commendable. His liberality, too, is not to be sneezed at. Just think of Mr. Wallace offering to pay not only for the taking of a census of Democrats, but to defray the expenses of naturalizing every foreigner in Pennsylvania who is ready for enfranchise-The whole offer shows enterprise .them to get control of the polls at the next Presidential election. It only proves, when Mr. Wallace goes to work this carly, that he has a desparate game in hand, and that, to carry out his political schemes, every appliance usual in corrupt political dealing is to be resorted to:

We leave our readers to peruse Mr. Wallace's circular at leisure :

Very respectfully, yours, WILLIAM A. WALLACE,

Recently in Congress, Gen. Butler was called upon by Mr. Brooks, Copperhead member from New York, to explain the items of the Deficiency bill, then before the House. He did so and among them was the following ghastly account:

Of this account the Albany Journal says: The premeditated murder of leading Union men of Louisiana, it will be noted, is spoken of as "the unfortunate difficulty." The account not only confirms the reported extent of the massacre, but the brutal unconcern of the sepulture. Sibley as the next officer in rank to General Pope, General Swayne having been ordered to join his regiment. General Sibley will retain command until relieved by General Meade. It is thought that no per manent commander will be assigned to the department of the East during the absence of General Meade, but that the senior officer will be left in command until General Meade can return to it.

The breaking down of platform of the Pennsylvania railroad company at Johns town, on the occasion of the visit of Presi dent Johnson, in September, 1866, by which several persons were killed, and a large number crippled for life, is fresh in the memory of our readers. A large number of suits have been instituted against the company for damages, and one of these-Gillis vs. the Pennsylvania Railroad Companywas recently disposed of before Judge Taylor, at Ebensburg. This was a test case, and the issue turned upon a single question, namely-whether the railroad company was bound to construct their platform that it would support any weight which might be put upon it, or whether they were only required to make it sufficiently strong and safe to transact their ordinary business. The evidence was very voluminous, and the arguments of counsel most elaborate. His Honor, Judge Taylor, in an equally elaborate opinion, decided the legal point against the plaintiff, and instructed the jury to find for the defendant without leaving the box. The counsel for the plaintiff will appeal to the Supreme from the decision of the court be-. Until a decision is reached before the higher court, it is understood that no other case growing out of the fall of the platform will be tried by them in Cambria county .-

THE REV. HENRY HARBAUGH, D. D. Theological Professor in the Seminary of the Reformed Church, Mercersburg, departed this life on Saturday last, at 4 o'clock, after a lingering illness. The deceased was in the prime of life, and occupied an eminent position not only in his own church but in the eligious world, having taken an active part in the interests of his own denomination, especially in the liturgical movement now agitating that church. He will also be re-membered as the author of many religious works read and studied by Christians of all denominations. Universal regret will be caused by this announcement, but the memory of the just is blessed.
