REPUBLICAN STATE TICKET.

AUDITOR GENERAL. Oen. JOHN F. HARTBANFT, OF MONTGOMERY COUNTY. SURVEYOR GENERAL. Col. JACOB M. CAMPBELL,

The returns from the late election in Texas have been received. It has resulted so far in the election of eighty three Republican delegates to the Constitutional Convention out of ninety. There are eighty one white and nine colored delegates. Governor A. J. Hamilton and his brother C. Hamilton are members. Two judges of the State Supreme members. Two judges of the State Supreme Court-Livingsion Lindsay and Caldwellwith a number of ex-district Judges and members of the Legislature, several promi-nent lawyers and journalists, are also elected, The Convention was carried by a small majority. The registered vote was 111,000, about 6,600 being added under General Hancock, order re opening the registry.—
The vote was about 67,000, giving a majority on the registration of less than 4,000. The colored vote falls about 15,000 short.

REBEL FASHIONS IN TENNESSEE, -A Nash ville dispatch to the Cincinnati Gazette says that last Friday, a young blood, near Columbia, Tenn., overtook a negro woman who was driving a wagon into town. He order-ed her to get out of the wagon, but before she had time to obey him he shot her through the head, killing her instantly. Leaving the woman dead on the road, he went until he overtook a negro man, whom he shot through the neck, inflicting a dangerous wound. These deeds were done in daylight, and in the presence of witnesses. The murafter arrested and lodged in jail. He boasted, when brought to town, that he was a good rebel, but did not receive any demonstrations of sympathy.

CONFESSION OF A MURDERER. - A Calais (Mc.) paper, referring to an account given some three or four years since of a man named Seeley and his two sons being burned up in a lumber camp, near Magaguadavic, says it now turns out that they had a dispute with a man by the name of Carson about some land, and that this Carson, considering himself wronged, out of revenge, stole into their camp while they were absent about their business, and put laudanum into their tea-kettle, and while they were asleep set fire to the camp in several places in such a manner as to prevent escape, and they were all destroyed. After the deed was accomplished Carson went to California, where he died a short time ago, and on his deathbed confessed to having perpetrated the above horrible crime.

PRECAUTIONARY MEASURES.—There have been various reports in regard to the rebels preparing to defend Johnson by arms from removal from the Presidency, and of designs to depose Congress, which probably have more of sentiment in them than of practical application. A Washington correspondent referring to these reports, says: General Grant has very prudently taken some precautionary measures in view of the hostile tone assumed by some people, who seem to think that the "Rump Congress" should be broken up by force. Of course, scarcely any one believes there is anything in these threats; but it is the part of wisdom to be prepared for all emergencies, and the trite old maxim that" an cance of prevention is worth a pound of cure," holds good here; and if any of these hot bloods think they will bamboozle Graut as they did James Buchanau, and make their preparations right under his nose, they will discover their mistake. Any attempt to interfere with the impeachment proceedings by violence, as has been foolishly threatened, will meet with summary punishment.

Nova Scotia is determined to break her connection with the new Dominion. The that the tenure of office bill, even if admit feeling is strong, universal and dangerous. The domination of the Provinces, their legislation adverse to her interests, their interference with those matters which she considers essential to her prosperity and growth, are more than she will tolerate. Even the leading politicians who originally favored the Confederation, are now loud in their opposition to it. It seems at present as though the public peace could be preserved in no other way but through accession.

The recent attempt to assassinate Presi dent Juarez was a more serious affair than at first appeared. The variety of climates within a breadth of one hundred and fifty miles in California is very remarkable. "Thus, one may be enjoying a cool, pleasant June, say with a mean of fifty seven degrees, in Monterey; he may travel cast one hundred and fifty miles, representing in turn, the summers of France, Northern Italy, Spain and Algeria, until at Fort Miller he finds a mean temperature of one hundred and eight degrees, or the heats of interior Africa. Again, he has but the journey of a few miles to the snows and frosts of the Sierras. Within two hundred miles he may thus try almost every belt of the world's climate.

The Republican State Convention of Michigan, to nominate delegates to the National Convention, was held on Wednesday last. The following delegates at large to the Chicago Convention were elected: Hon, W. A. Poward, Detroit; Marah Giddings, Kalamazoo; Hampton Rich, Ionia Randolph Strickland, Coruna. The Convention declared in favor of Grant and Colfax for President and Vice President.

In Alabams, where there is a great difficulty in finding men who are able to take the "test oath," the practice has been to appoint women as Postmistresses, they being able to take the oath, which is a necessity before any one can fill a Government office. There are said to be at present forty Postmistresses in Alabama, and these ladies are discharging their duties with great fidelity and promptness.

The Court being ready, and the Journal having been read, Mr. Davis then submitted the motion that the Senate be composed of two Senators from each State and that certain States being unrepresented, therefore the trial of this case will be continued until all the States are represented.

Mr. Conness moved that the motion be not received, and called for the year and

Mr. Howe moved to inquire whether the motion be in order.

The Chief Justice read the rule, and said Mr. Conness' motion was not in order, and directed the Secretary to call the yeas and nays, which was done with the following result -2 to 49; all present voting in the ne-gative, except Davis and M'Creery.

Saulsbury and Bayard did not vote. Mr. Stanbery then rose and said, that he and his fellow counsel had devoted every hour since the last day's proceedings to prepare the President's answer. He regretted that they had not more time, but submitted it now. Mr. Curtis read it, the address being to the Senate of the United States.

Mr. Stanbury read the nuswer to the sec ond article reasserting the arguments addressed in answer to the first, and denying that the tenure of office was violated. In answer to the third, the respondent denies Stanton held his office by appointment from him. The charges of conspiracy, &c., replied to by the answer to the first article, he denies that he gave Thomas any instructions to call in the aid of the military to gain possession of the War Department, and that no force has been used by them, but a peaceable demand was made and refused.

In answer to the eight article, he denies having attempted to hinder the execution of the tenure of office law, and says it is not alleged what means were employed to effect such purposes.

The sixth article was met with a denial that respondent conspired with Thomas to use the force. The seventh article was replied to by the answer to the fourth.

The removal of Stanton was made in pursuance of the authority of the Constitution, and was not forbidden by any clause of the tenore of office bill. The answer denies specifically all the allegations of the first article, which asserts that Stanton had legal possession of the War Office after the date of his removal, and all the subsequent allegations of the first article.

The correspondence of August last was cited, and the answer claims that the settled practice of all preceeding Presidents and Congress settles the right of the President to remove subordinates at will, and that is good faith he removed the said Stanton in accordance with his understanding of the requirements of the Constitution, and notiat the Senate of his action, expecting that a difference of opinion between them would be, as it should be, determined by the judi-cial authority. The answer further claims ted to be unconstitutional, does not cover the case of Mr. Stanton. The necessity of settling the point in dispute between the executive and legislative branches is insisted upon at length, and it is maintained that it could be brought before the courts in no other way. The suspension of Stanton is claimed to have been underthe authority of the Constitution which, in granting the power of removal, gives im plication the lesser power of suspension as

Washington, March 24 .- Yesterday afternoon we gave a telegraphic synopsis of the President's answer to the impeachment articles preferred against him, and after Juarez was to be shot in his box at the we condense: Mr. Johnson's principal answer is to the first article of impeachment, ed of by other assassins. The discovery of and shows that his defense will be substan Congress. The Tenure of Office act is unconstitutional; it does not apply to Mr. Stanton; the Constitution authorizes the President to remove Cabinet officers. Tak ing this ground, he claims that he author zed General Lorenzo Thomas to fill a vacancy, and the following answers simply paraphrase this main argument.

It is interesting to find that Mr. Johnson in the tenth atticle, denies that he ever attempted to bring Congress into contempt and says that he has always acknowledge its authority and legality. This is effrontery. In these public speeches be notoriously accused Congress of endeaving to prevent the Reconstruction of the Union; of being an unconstitutional body; of instigating the New Orleans riots. These are facts which, till now, be has never taken the trouble to deny, and it is useless for him to attempt it now. He may disprove that he uttered certain passages in the reports of his infamous speeches, but that they were, in the main, correctly reported is certain. APPEARANCE OF JUDGE, MANAGERS, AND

COUNSEL.

With it came the Chief Justice, the House, the managers and the President's counsel, The latter were watched for with the greatest interest, and most closely scanned by hundreds of glasses. Groesbeck ned Evarts were the only new ones who appeared, Black not coming to the Capitol, and Field having withdrawn on account of some ill feeling between himself and Mr. Evarts, Mr. Stevens came in by the rear door, having been carried over from the House by some of the doorkeepers. Never did th galleries appear to better advantage, twothirds of them being filled with ladies decked off in the gorgeous array that marks an opera rather than a great State trial. Speaker Colfax sat in the centre, and was flanked by Messrs, Schenk and E. B. Wash-burne and the officers of the House. Among the members ranged around the outer cir cle of the Squatorial seats, were about twothirds of the Democratic members, who have evidently reconsidered their determin ation not to countenance the proceedings even by their presence, or else their curioosity has overcome their duty to their The President's counsel several day ago abandoned a dozen puerile movements that it was expected they would indulge in, to delay the trial and gain time, and among shine, offered a resolution to test the vote of the Senate upon this point. Fortunately the rules prevented his apeaking in favor of his metion, and the year and mays were ordered. Eleven "noes" followed one another rapidly, and demonstrated that his point was not well taken. He voted yea, and then all, including his party friends, voted "no," until McCreery was reached, when a faint voice was heard, and the Clerk marked it "yea;" then all the rest voted "no," aven Tennessee Patterson; and Saulsbury, with all his failings, could not say this was not the Senate, and as the result was announced—yeas 2, Davis and McCreeshine, offered a resolution to test the vote was announced—yeas 2, Davis and McCree-ry, and nays 49—a general titter ran around the floor, and communicated itself

Mr. Stanbury then rose to announce that the President's answer was ready, and in an galleries. almost inaudible voice Mr. Curtis commenced to read it, but failed to make him self heard in the galleries or by the memters in the rear of the hall, and ere he had proceeded many minutes with the general denials of everything the Senste and many Senators had given up listening, and were diverting themselves in various ways. After Mc Curtis had gone on for half an hour. Mr. Stanbury relieved him and read the answer to several of the articles, and finally gave way to every one, read out in a clear voice that all could hear, and finished them. At three P. M. the Senate unanimously received the pleas, and Mr. Bontwell announced that they would be ready to proceed with the trial to morrow at one P. M --This aroused Mr. Stanbury, who at once offered a motion to grant a delay of thirty days, which Mr. Logan resisted in a speech of great eloquence and power, claiming that unless some specific cause was given, they should proceed at once. Then Mr. Evarts again appealed for more time, and after a discussion of an hour, Mr. Henderson moved to postpone the question of fixing the trial, which was lost by a vote of 25 yeas to 28

Then came a direct vote on granting thirty days, and it was refused by a strict party vote-41 to 12-and then the friends of impeachment breathed more freely. It being evident that there was a lack of concert of action upon this matter among the managers and Republicans, Senator Sherman moved to adjourn to one P. M. to-morrow, and Mr. Evarts said he would allow the Senate to fix the time for the trial, when Hon, Reverdy Johnson moved to give them ten days more, and before voting upon it the Senate adjourged.

The Senate returned to the chamber at half past three P. M., after an absence of two hours, having left the room at half-past one P. M. The Chief Justice announced that the Senate had adopted an order that the Senate would commence the trial on Monday, March 80. Witnesses were then ordered to appear at 12:30 P. M. of that day, and that the court then adjourn until the same time. When the Senate retired for deliberation to-day on the extension of time to the President, the questions before them were as follows: Mr. Reverdy Johnson's proposition to allow the President ten days, and Mr. Summer's amendment to proceed with the trial forthwith. Mr. Johnson modified his proposition from ten days to Thursday next, April 2. Mr Williams then offered an amendment to Mr. Sumner's amendment. to the effect that the Chief Justice, as Prestdeat of the Senate, should when they returned to the Senate, ask the counsel for the President whether they had any other grounds upon which to request an extension of time other than the one they had already offered, on which a vote was taken and resulted: yeas 9, nays 42.

Mr. Morrill (Me.) then moved to amend than there was in 1861. the original proposition by striking out Thursday, April 2, and inserting Monday, March 80, and that the trial should proceed from day to day, Sundays excepted. The yeas and mays were also taken on this amendment, and resulted: yeas 28, nays 28, as follows: Yeas-Messrs, Cumeron, Cattell, Chandler, Cole, Conkling, Conness, Cargin, Drake, black velvet with amethist jewelry. Ferry, Hartin, Howard, Howe, Morgan, Morrill (Me.,) Morril! (Vt.,) Morton, Nye, Patterson (N. H..) Pomeroy, Ramsey, Ross, Steward, Sumner, Thayer, Tipton, Williams and Wilson-28. NAYS-Messrs. Anthony, Bayard, Buckalew, Corbett, Davis, Dixon, Doolittle, Edmunds, Fessenden, Fowler, Frelinghuyson, Grimes, Henderson, Hendricks, Johnson, McCreery, Norton, Patterson of Tennessee, Sprague, Trumble, Van Winkle and Vickers - 23.

Then the question came up upon the con-cluding words of the order. Mr. Summer withdrew his substitute, and objection was made to the expression "from day to day, Sundays excepted," on the ground othat it might appear that they were determined to push the trial regardless of any reasons that may be urged to the contrary. On this point Mr. Conkling made a long speech, taking the ground that, however stringent or peremptory the phraseology of the order may be, it was within the control of the Senate, and they could at any time modify

Mr. Drake then moved to amend by striking out "from day to day, Sundays except-ed," and inserting after the words "would proceed" the words "thereon with all convenient dispatch under the rules of the Senate sitting upon the trial of an impeachment."

This was adopted by general consent. Vice President Wade did not attend the secret session, but remained on the floor of the Senate conversing with members of the House and others.

Judge Black did not retire from the imeachment case because he disagreed with the President or his counsel as to the policy of the defense, but because the President's refusal to do justice to the American claimants to the Guano on the island of Alto Vela made it impossible for him to serve longer as one of the counsel. Four of the Managers and other prominent members of the House expressed strong opinions as to the President's duty in the premises, and his client being deeply incensed by Seward's conduct, it was probably that Congress might take some action on the subject which would place Judge Black in a vituation of such embarrassment, that he had a right to relieve himself by claiming to be released from any service as counsel of the President.

Mr. D. C. M'Ewer, phonographer, who reported President Johnson's Cleveland speech for the New York World, arrived here from New York to-day, having been summoned to testify upon the Impeachment trial. Ho brings with him his original notes of the speech. James B. Sheridan who reported speech of the President in answer to the delegation from the Philadelphia Convention for the New York Tribune, has also arrived.

PROBABLE DURATION OF THE TRIAL. Estimates are being made as to the pros pect of Mr. Wade reaching the White House before the 1st of May, as the many object tions and obstacles that it was feared would have blocked the way to an early commence ment of the trial are now overcome or swept away, and on Monday, March 30, it is ordered that the trial shall commence, and as the managers say they will not consume over three days, it is difficult to foretell how two weeks can be occupied in the trial.

A VETO FORTHCOMING.

The President has prepared a veto on the House bill repealing the right of appeal in cases arising under the Reconstruction laws, and will probably send it in to morrow; but the bill will be passed over the veto the same day through both houses, and it is expected when Mr. Wade goes to the annual statement of the business of that White House the number of judges will be city.
