Colonel Meany may be a very clever Irishman, but he is no Curran, Grattan or O'Connel, in eloquence, and by po means in sentiment. Had he or any one else uttered such sentiments on human liberty and human rights, before O'Connel, the great agitator would have scowled him from his presence in language that he never would have forgotten. The Colonel had but few points in his speech, and these were exceedingly dull ones. He read some extracts from what he called a radical campaign document. abusive of Irishmen, as if Republicans were stupid enough to be guilty of such folly. Some smart Democrat, no doubt, got up the article for the very purpose for which the Colonel used it, namely, to gull his own countrymen. Another of the Colonel's charges against the Republicans was, that our government did not go to war with England at once, when he was arrested, tried and convicted by that government for having been engaged in a conspiracy to overthrow its authority. He referred to the fact that Martin Costa, an adopted citizen, when arrested, was taken from an Austrian ship by one of our commanders. He neglected to mention, however, that Costa was charged with no crime whatever, as was the Colonel, but was simply claimed as a subject of Austria. If the Colonel is really anxious to benefit his Irish fellow citizens, let him imitate the example of his great countrymen.

do not forget that they were alluded to as "Lincoln's hirelings" by the party of which Mr. Wallace is the chief; nor will they ever forget that in the face of this damning record, Wallace and his associates are now banded in an effort to restore the Government to the control of forswern traitors, the authors and prosecutors of the Rebellion; nor that every one of these traitors is joined with Mr. Wallace in a conspiracy against their beloved leader, the great captain of the age, Gen. Grant. Nor that Horatio Seymour and Frank P. Blair were nominated by a convention in which nearly 200 Rebel gene rals, colonels, majors, captains, and Congressmen were delegates. Nor that the chief of these Rebels, Wade Hampton of South Carolina, framed and dictated, as a condition of his allegiance, that part of the Democratic platform which declares the acts of reconstruction "unconstitutional, revolutionary, and void." Nor that every Union soldier in the South, is the victim of daily vengeance and cruelty of the associates of Mr. Wallace and the Democratic leaders of Pennsylvania; por that all the Union generals sent to the South to execute the laws and give protection to the Union men of that section, have

(with a single exception) been villified and persecuted by these same Rebel associates of Mr. Wallace and the Democratic leaders of Pennsylvania. The grand assemblage of patriotic citizens who risked their lives for the old flag, instead of being welcomed with open arms by the Democratic leaders of Pennsylvania, are insulted by the atrocious calumny that they have been sent for to poliute our ballot boxes, and are additionally tigmatized as a so called soldiers' convention. A reproach so shameless comes fit tingly from men who have just emerged from a disgraceful companionship with N. B. Forrest, the contriver and leader of the Fort Pillow massacre, and his eo conspirators. This is the same Mr. Wallace who instructed his employees, in 1867, "for every Democratic rote polled over 110, we will pay you a fixed sum ofter the election." This is the same Mr. Wallace who offered $100 per month, for three months, to Michael O'Menra to suppress his evidence in the Shogart conposition which was the tested election case. This INPALLIBLE RENEBY does not like the poiso This ISFALLIBLE REVENT does not like the poison ous irritating snuffs and strong caustic solutions with which the people have long been humbugged, simply palliate for a short time, or drive the disease to the lungs, as there is danger of doing in the use of such nostrums, but it produces perfect and permanent cures of the worst cases of chronic catarrh, as though the day of the the Hand? ands can testify. "Cold in the Hend" is cause, with a few applications. Catarrhal Hendache is relieved and cured as if by magic. It removes offensive Breath, Loss or Impairment of the sense of naste, smell or hearing, Watering or Weak Eyes: and Impaired Memory, when caused by the violence of Catarrh, as they all frequently are.
